Lumumba To Stand Trial

Bell Is Tapped As Budget Head

Kennedy To Have Cabinet Ready Next Week; Leaves For Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy Friday tapped David E. Bell, a towering, experienced Harvard executive, to manage the government's vast budget. And he said he hopes to have his Cabinet nearly complete by the end of next week.

Kennedy ranged through a series of conferences, visited his wife and week-old son at Georgetown Hospital and took off for a weekend at Palm Beach, Fla.

The man who will take over the White House Jan. 20 has promised to announce another major appointment in Palm Beach Saturday. It could very well be that of Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina to be secretary of commerce.

Nobody else has been mentioned much for the commerce post. Kennedy now has filled three top positions outside his own staff, and two of them went to governors.

Third Appointment

He announced Thursday that Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigen will be assistant secretary of State for African affairs. He followed up by selecting Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut as secretary of health, education and welfare.

The third major appointment went to Bell—a man Kennedy never had met until Wednesday night. In a job paying $22,500 a year, the 41-year-old Bell will draw up for Kennedy's approval plans for spending some 80 billion dollars a year.

Bell will go to work next week. The outgoing budget director, Maurice E. Stans, will be coaching him until Jan. 20 as part of a cooperative arrangement between the Eisenhower administration and the new regime that will replace it.

Kennedy will return to Washington Monday and call on President Eisenhower the next day in another step toward assuring a smooth governmental changeover.

He conferred Friday with Clark Clifford, his liaison man with the Eisenhower administration, on what Clifford called an accumulation of routine matters related to the transition.

Announces Selection

Dwarfed by the sandy-haired, slender, 6-foot-4 Bell, Kennedy stood on his doorstep and announced his selection for budget director.

At the moment, Bell is secretary of the Harvard Littauer Center for Public Administration.

He comes to the Kennedy administration with good credentials from that of former President Harry S. Truman. Bell was on the staff of the Budget Bureau as a top economist and on Truman's staff as an administrative assistant. He also served on a Harvard mission that helped Pakistan with its economic organization.

Kennedy took note of this background and Bell's qualifications in what he said were three vital areas—White House affairs, federal finances, and American spending abroad.

Caracas Rebels Surrender At Show Of Tanks

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The last of the holdout leftist students surrendered before a government showing of tanks Friday and abandoned their rebel fortress at Caracas University.

With machine guns and other arms they had held out against the troops of President Romulo Betancourt for a week.

Government troop reinforcements had been flown in all day from bases in the interior for the final cleanup of resistance.

The university council in an announcement to the presidential palace said the youthful Marxists gave up the entrenched position they had dubbed their "Stalingrad," thus ending the last knot of die-hard resistance after seven days of bloody rioting.

The surrender came soon after army tanks rumbled to the gates of the university where the students had taken up positions behind brick piles in an unfinished pharmacy school.

The deaths of a woman doctor and a soldier by snipers' bullets Friday brought to 11 the number of persons killed in the disturbances which the government charges were fomented by Communists seeking to replace the Betancourt administration with a regime like Fidel Castro's in Cuba. Demonstrators during the riots carried anti-American and pro-Cuban signs and shouted Cuban revolutionary slogans.

Army loyalty and widespread civilian support for the Moderate Socialist government of President Betancourt left the extreme leftists all but isolated.

The students seized the university buildings last Friday at the outbreak of the disturbances. Betancourt was reluctant to move directly against them in an effort to avoid unnecessary bloodshed and because of the traditional status of sanctuary enjoyed by universities in Latin-American countries.

Abating Winds Awaited To Free Grounded Ship

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) —The dauntless little ocean-going freighter Francisco Morazan waited for subsiding winds Friday and freedom from her grounding off a Lake Michigan island.

Apparently no longer in danger, the Liberian vessel and her crew of 13 only had to hold on for a moderate southwest blow to abate before salvaging to start.

The 246-foot Morazan, small in comparison to the big Great Lakes freighters, grounded in a storm Tuesday night on a South Manitou Island reef. Though badly battered and leaking, she survived.

The Morazan's young Greek skipper, Eduardo Trivizas, 26, consulted with marine experts and insurance officials over plans for salvage. The group boarded the vessel for an examination.

The big Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinaw stood by in a cove in event further help from her was needed.

Ships Overdue In Atlantic

NEW YORK (UPI) —Possible distress signals sent a Coast Guard cutter hurrying into mid-Atlantic Friday where a 41-year-old Liberian freighter was reported missing and overdue with 23 crewmen aboard.

Signals "like somebody testing a lifeboat transmitter" were picked up by a vessel passing the storm - battered North Atlantic route of the 3,210-ton steamship Iri, overdue on voyage from England to Montreal.

Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters dispatched the cutter Mackinac from its northerly weather station to search the area of the signals. The reported area was near the airways "point of no return" and virtually out of range of landbased search planes, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Priest Given Three Years In Kidnaping

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP)—A 47-year-old Roman Catholic priest, whisked rapidly through two court appearances after his return from Arizona, pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of abducting a 17-year-old girl and was sentenced to three years in state prison.

The Rev. Lawrence Dudink, former chaplain at St. Mary's Hospital, pleaded guilty in Superior Court to a state charge that he abducted Rosalie O'Connell of Gilbert, Minn., Nov. 8 from the hospital where she had been admitted a few hours earlier for treatment of a nervous condition.

Judge A. Walter Dahl pronounced sentence in an unusual closed court session. Maximum penalty for abduction ranges up to 15 years, the same as under the kidnaping charge which first was brought against Dudink.

Dudink, described by his Society of Divine Word Missionaries superiors as a reformed alcoholic was arrested at a Phoenix motel last week. The girl was returned to the custody of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad O'Connell.

Wisconsin statutes differentiate kidnaping and abduction of minors by requiring that a kidnaping prosecution establish the victim was held involuntarily.

Alleged Slayer Shot In N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 29-year-old man shot and critically wounded another Friday because, he said, the second man had stabbed his father to death last week.

Charles Norris, 32, was reported in critical condition in Kings County Hospital, Brooklyn, where he was rushed after being shot three times.

Police picked up Robert Williams six blocks away. They said he admitted firing five shots at Norris because he said Norris stabbed Williams' father Percy to death last Friday night.

The elder Williams' body was found early Saturday morning lying in a Brooklyn street.

'Mischievous Ghost' Has Liking For London Lass

LONDON (UPI)—Yes, Virginia, there is a spook. And he's haunting you, according to reports from the village of Sauchie.

Virginia is Virginia Campbell, a pig-tailed 11-year-old in the village nestled in the Robert Burns country of central Scotland. Her spook is nameless. But he seems to like her company. The villagers say:

Virginia had a little ghost
Its sheet was white as snow
And Everywhere Virginia went
The ghost was sure to go.

Miss Margaret Stewart, who teaches Virginia in the village school, says that a door opened as Virginia passed and couldn't be shut. Another time, a table rose from the floor and shifted sideways. A desk bounced up and down three times.

Virginia is a shy girl. She doesn't play much with the other lassies in Sauchie. But this is understandable.

Said Miss Stewart: "I don't believe in the super-natural, but I was mesmerized by what I saw.

"It looked like an elaborate practical joke but there was no string and no one touched the desk when it moved."

Rumors swept Sauchie that Virginia had attracted a poltergeist—a mischievous brand of ghost.

A member of the society for psychical research, which investigates seemingly inexplicable events, is seeking further information.

Villagers said they believe that church authorities will be consulted to determine if this is a case for exorcism rites.

Pope, Archbishop Confer For Hour

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Both the Vatican and the Anglican Church Friday stressed the cordiality of the meeting of Pope John XXIII and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

As expected, the somewhat guarded communiques issued by both sides made no mention of movements toward greater unity in the Christian faith. But the hour-long Friday conference in itself was an unprecedented event in church history.

The Vatican communique, in Italian, referred to the archbishop's visit as one "of homage (omaggio) and courtesy." The archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said the meeting could lead to a lessening of the 500-year-old coolness between the two churches.

The archbishop told reporters that after the two leaders shook hands this exchange took place:

Dr. Fisher: "Your Holiness, we're making history."

Pope John: "Yes."

The archbishop said the Pope's "first words were an expression of pleasure and happiness."

Archbishop Antonio Samore, secretary of the Vatican's Congregation for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, was interpreter in the Pope's red-carpeted library.

The Pope is 79, Dr. Fisher 73.

The leader of the 40 millions in the Anglican communion—including the Episcopal Church in the United States—wore a purple cassock and pectoral cross.

Asked later if the meeting could lead to relaxation in coolness between the churches, Dr. Fisher said: "The meeting was friendly, natural and sympathetic. As for results, if other people initate the example it will produce a relaxation in the coolness."

He added that, "Good examples are sometimes followed.'

The archbishop repeated his thoughts on Christian unity of spirit, the theme of a sermon he made Thursday night. He said this spirit of unity "has been growing immensely in the past 30 years, and is still growing."

He expressed hope that his journey to Jerusalem and to Istanbul, where he met the patriarchs of the Orthodox Church, and his meeting with the Pope will contribute to that growth.

After seeing the Pope, the archbishop met with Agostino Cardinal Dea, head of a special commission on church unity appointed for the forthcoming Ecumenical Council of the Catholic Church.

The archbishop said the commission headed by Cardinal Dea was useful as a liaison between the Roman Catholic Church and other churches.

"This is something that never existed before," he said. "And it is an opening for an exchange of views."

Great Grandson Of Dulles Dies Of Blanket Burns

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 11-month-old great grandson of the late John Foster Dulles was burned to death under a faulty electric blanket Friday.

Mrs. Lillias Dulles Hinshaw, the late secretary of state's only daughter, reported the infant was burned on the back and arms. His mother Janet found him dead in his crib.

The child, David Hinshaw Yoo, was the son of Dulles' 18-year-old granddaughter and Huan Yoo, a Korean university professor, who is in Korea. Mrs. Yoo and the baby were staying at Mrs. Hinshaw's before leaving for Korea to join Yoo in a few days.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Nehru government is seeking to extend the preventive detention law that permits jailing for a year without trial. Home Minister B.N. Datar said it's needed for three more years to restrain antisocial elements.

U.N. Troops Capture Rebels

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—U.N. Moroccan troops Friday captured several hundred tribesmen who launched a dawn attack on the town of Luena, the U.N. Command announced.

About 3,000 rebel Baluba tribesmen surrounded the coal mining town 150 miles west of Elisabethville. The town is guarded by 350 Moroccans and 20 Katanga provincial policemen.

In an attack that raged for two hours beginning at 4 a.m., the tribesmen killed six Negro townspeople, a U.N. spokesman said.

The Katanga government said the rebels attacked the African quarter. Katanga police fired on them when they advanced toward the European quarter, where 15 European mine officials live.

The police were joined by the Moroccans. The rebels suffered heavy casualties. But they took their dead and wounded with them when they withdrew and there are no exact reports of how many casualties they suffered, the government said.

The U.N. spokesman said he did not know the exact number of tribesmen captured. The Balubas tried to seize the town previously but withdrew 10 days ago.

U.N. sources reported that the Balubas had killed two evangelical missionaries in northern Katanga last week. U.N. troops have been unable to find the bodies and fears were expressed the two might be victims of cannibalism.

The missionaries were Elton George Behrent Knaus, 50, of New Plymouth, New Zealand, and Edmund Hodgson, 62, of Blackpool, England. Both had spent years in Katanga province.

A reliable source said U.N. troops had eyewitness accounts that the Balubas hacked the two to death with machetes near the tiny settlement of Mukaya.

Hodgson was a widower. Knaus had sent his wife and three children to northern Rhodesia to stay with friends.

U.S. Offers Aid To Cuba Refugees

Claims Castro's Regime Controlled By Communists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Friday took a $1-million step in behalf of Cuban refugees and in doing so officially described Cuba for the first time as a Communist-controlled country.

The $1 million was released for the aid of an estimated 30,000 to 40,000 Cubans who are in Florida and elsewhere in the United States as refugees from the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The action was taken by President Eisenhower under a provision of the Mutual Security Act which authorizes assistance to refugees from Communist-controlled countries when the chief executive judges such spending important to the security of the United States.

First Official Action

Many U.S. officials, from the President on down, have publicly expressed conviction that the Castro government is Communist-dominated but Friday's action was the first which made the designation official under U.S. law.

Castro has consistently denied his revolutionary government is communistic although some of his top aides are known to be Reds. But his growing hostility toward the United States has been accompanied by increasing friendliness with the Soviet Union, Red China and other Communist nations. And he has received great quantities of arms and technical and economic aid from behind the Iron Curtain.

For his part, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has threatened the United States with retaliation through nuclear weapons if it takes aggressive action against Cuba.

Gets Formal Status

Tracy Voorhees, who has been investigating the Cuban refugee situation for Eisenhower, was given formal status Friday as the President's representative to administer the aid.

Voorhees told newsmen he hopes to do the job without using all the money released by the presidential order but said there is real hardship for many of the refugees which must be relieved promptly. He added he was returning at once to Florida to get further information on the number of acute hardship cases.

Voorhees said he hoped use of federal money could be confined largely to the task of transporting refugees to places where they can find work.

Much of the relief load, he said, must be borne by charitable organizations, corporations and individuals.

Germans Emigrate

BONN Germany (AP) — About 700,000 Germans emigrated 1946-59, the government reports—350,000 to the United States, 200,000 to Canada, about 65,000 to Australia and the rest mostly to Brazil and South Africa.

Kennedy Neighbor Is Sad When He Takes Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The busiest woman in Georgetown sighed disappointedly Friday as she watched President-elect John F. Kennedy drive away from his house across the street.

"It's going to be a lonely weekend," she observed from her vantage point at the window.

"I'm going to miss all the excitement until he gets back from Palm Beach. I've had so much enjoyment helping the reporters and the officers and made so many new friends."

If Helen Louise Montgomery likes the newsmen, the police and the Secret Service, they more than return the affection. She has become to them, in a little more than a week, Georgetown's "angel of mercy."

They have been in and out of her home from early morning until late at night, using her telephone, eating the snacks she prepares, drinking her hot coffee or just dropping in to get out of the freezing weather.

"I've loved every minute of it," she told a reporter. "I've never been so close to the big news."

It all started Thanksgiving Day when a reporter, covering Kennedy's return from an earlier trip to Palm Beach, knocked on the door of the 160-year-old home at 3302 N Street, N.W., and asked to use the telephone.

Miss Montgomery made him so welcome that, since the night a week ago that John F. Kennedy Jr., was born, she hasn't had many free moments.

She graciously consented when The Associated Press asked permission to install its own telephone in her living room, full of priceless antiques. Now two others have been similarly installed. And all are welcome to use her own telephone anytime it is needed.

And, if that, and all the coffee she has made and the snacks she has prepared wasn't enough, Miss Montgomery has tried to man all the phones when the reporters were with Kennedy, taking their calls. And when they were dictating to their offices, she alerted them every time a visitor entered or left the Kennedy home.

Soviet Space Ship, Cargo Of Dogs Burn Up

MOSCOW (AP)—The latest Soviet space ship and its cargo of two dogs disintegrated in the outer parts of the earth's atmosphere Friday.

Moscow Radio said Friday night the signal sent to the globe-circling satellite failed to return it to earth on a precalculated orbit and the vehicle burned out.

The broadcast did not mention the two dogs — Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly) — by name.

But it said they had earlier borne easily enough the process of being carried into orbit and had quickly become organically normal.

The broadcast said air conditioning, heat regulation and communication installations aboard the ship had all functioned quite reliably. All these factors would be necessary if a man may be safely put into space.

This was the first acknowledged failure of a Soviet space vehicle carrying living creatures, although in the first attempt the space-dog Laika had been sacrificed as planned, the Soviets said. They reported two dogs sent aloft later were retrieved unharmed.

The latest vehicle carried other animals besides the dogs plus insects and plants for testing, the Russians reported.

Moscow radio said:

"At 1200 hours Moscow time today, the space ship satellite was continuing its movement around the globe," the broadcast said.

"By that time the planned program had been accomplished for testing the design of the ship with the systems installed in it, the medical biological research and also the planned volume of outer space exploration.

"After obtaining the necessary data, the signal was given for the return of the space ship satellite to the earth.

Ex-Premier Is Seized In The Interior

Soldiers Manhandle Prisoner Charged With Revolt Plot

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Seized in the interior, Patrice Lumumba was manacled and flown back to Leopoldville Friday to face trial on a charge of inciting the army to revolt. He was shoved and manhandled as soldiers hurried him off to jail.

The United Nations reported that virtually the entire white population of Stanleyville — more than 1,000—was arrested and ill-treated last Sunday by police supporting Lumumba.

The ex-premier had slipped past an army guard here in Leopoldville last Sunday and traveled into the Congo's wild hinterlands, apparently intending to reach Stanleyville.

He was seized at Port Francqui, about a third of the way to Stanleyville, by forces loyal to Col. Joseph Mobutu, Lumumba's archfoe.

As Lumumba and four others arrested with him stepped out of a transport plane, excited Congolese soldiers darted about the airport shouting: "We've got Lumumba! We've got him! Come and look!"

Must Face Trial

Announcement that the ex-premier must face trial came from Mobutu, army leader who ousted Lumumba in September, accusing him of swinging the Congo into the Communist camp. Beaming with pleasure, Mobutu said Lumumba will be tried for other crimes besides the charge of inciting the army to rebellion.

Lumumba's hair was disheveled. He wore a white shirt with sleves rolled up. He was hustled off to Kokolo, an army camp, under military guard.

While Mobutu looked on with his arms folded, soldiers took Lumumba out of the truck that had brought him from the airport. They grabbed him by the hair. They shoved him fiercely across the dusty grounds.

Onlookers yelled: "Death to Lumumba!" The soldiers slapped and pushed the former premier, but did not strike him.

Police Seize Lumumba

A 180-strong company of Mobutu's military police seized the firebrand ex-premier Thursday night at Port Francqui, 500 miles east of Leopoldville.

The police commander messaged Mobutu that his men threatened to shoot Lumumba if nobody arrived to take him by 2 p.m.

Mobutu instantly sent back orders that Lumumba must not be harmed and dispatched a plen to fetch him. The 30-year-old strong man said he had threatened severe punishment for any who harmed Lumumba.

Mobutu said six companions were arrested with Lumumba but only the four, one a woman, got off the plane. One of the captives was reported to be Anicet Kashamura, Communist-leaning information minister in Lumumba's Cabinet, but he was not among those returned here with Lumumba. Another was Maj. Georges Grenfell, one of Lumumba's top aides.

Red Leader To Leave U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—William Z. Foster, aged and ailing former head of the Communist party in the United Sattes, Friday won permission to go behind the Iron Curtain for medical treatment. His health is such that the trip might mark a final abandonment of his native land.

The 79-year-old Foster repeatedly has been ruled too ill to stand trial on a 1948 federal indictment charging him with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government. Eleven of his top aides in the party have been sent to prison on similar charges in years past.

Foster, ill for nearly 30 years with a variety of ailments, claimed he has been bedridden since 1957, when he suffered a stroke. He also has heart trouble.

In seeking to go abroad, Foster maintained he cannot afford the type of medical treatment in this country that has been offered him free in Communist Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union.

U.S. Judge William B. Herlands appointed Dr. William Hitzig to examine Foster, and last month the physician reported:

"There is no likelihood that Foster will ever be able to proceed to trial."

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 29-year-old man shot and critically wounded another Friday because, he said, the second man had stabbed his father to death last week.

Charles Norris, 32, was reported in critical condition in Kings County Hospital, Brooklyn, where he was rushed after being shot three times.

Police picked up Robert Williams six blocks away. They said he admitted firing five shots at Norris because he said Norris stabbed Williams' father Percy to death last Friday night.

The elder Williams' body was found early Saturday morning lying in a Brooklyn street.

Pope, Archbishop Confer For Hour

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Both the Vatican and the Anglican Church Friday stressed the cordiality of the meeting of Pope John XXIII and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

As expected, the somewhat guarded communiques issued by both sides made no mention of movements toward greater unity in the Christian faith. But the hour-long Friday conference in itself was an unprecedented event in church history.

The Vatican communique, in Italian, referred to the archbishop's visit as one "of homage (omaggio) and courtesy." The archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said the meeting could lead to a lessening of the 500-year-old coolness between the two churches.

The archbishop told reporters that after the two leaders shook hands this exchange took place:

Dr. Fisher: "Your Holiness, we're making history."

Pope John: "Yes."

The archbishop said the Pope's "first words were an expression of pleasure and happiness."

Archbishop Antonio Samore, secretary of the Vatican's Congregation for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, was interpreter in the Pope's red-carpeted library.

The Pope is 79, Dr. Fisher 73.

The leader of the 40 millions in the Anglican communion—including the Episcopal Church in the United States—wore a purple cassock and pectoral cross.

Asked later if the meeting could lead to relaxation in coolness between the churches, Dr. Fisher said: "The meeting was friendly, natural and sympathetic. As for results, if other people initate the example it will produce a relaxation in the coolness."

He added that, "Good examples are sometimes followed."

The archbishop repeated his thoughts on Christian unity of spirit, the theme of a sermon he made Thursday night. He said this spirit of unity "has been growing immensely in the past 30 years, and is still growing."

He expressed hope that his journey to Jerusalem and to Istanbul, where he met the patriarchs of the Orthodox Church, and his meeting with the Pope will contribute to that growth.

After seeing the Pope, the archbishop met with Agostino Cardinal Dea, head of a special commission on church unity appointed for the forthcoming Ecumenical Council of the Catholic Church.

The archbishop said the commission headed by Cardinal Dea was useful as a liaison between the Roman Catholic Church and other churches.

"This is something that never existed before," he said. "And it is an opening for an exchange of views."

Great Grandson Of Dulles Dies Of Blanket Burns

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 11-month-old great grandson of the late John Foster Dulles was burned to death under a faulty electric blanket Friday.

Mrs. Lillias Dulles Hinshaw, the late secretary of state's only daughter, reported the infant was burned on the back and arms. His mother Janet found him dead in his crib.

The child, David Hinshaw Yoo, was the son of Dulles' 18-year-old granddaughter and Huan Yoo, a Korean university professor, who is in Korea. Mrs. Yoo and the baby were staying at Mrs. Hinshaw's before leaving for Korea to join Yoo in a few days.

Seek To Extend Law

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Nehru government is seeking to extend the preventive detention law that permits jailing for a year without trial. Home Minister B.N. Datar said it's needed for three more years to restrain antisocial elements.

U.N. Troops Capture Rebels

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—U.N. Moroccan troops Friday captured several hundred tribesmen who launched a dawn attack on the town of Luena, the U.N. Command announced.

About 3,000 rebel Baluba tribesmen surrounded the coal mining town 150 miles west of Elisabethville. The town is guarded by 350 Moroccans and 20 Katanga provincial policemen.

In an attack that raged for two hours beginning at 4 a.m., the tribesmen killed six Negro townspeople, a U.N. spokesman said.

The Katanga government said the rebels attacked the African quarter. Katanga police fired on them when they advanced toward the European quarter, where 15 European mine officials live.

The police were joined by the Moroccans. The rebels suffered heavy casualties. But they took their dead and wounded with them when they withdrew and there are no exact reports of how many casualties they suffered, the government said.

The U.N. spokesman said he did not know the exact number of tribesmen captured. The Balubas tried to seize the town previously but withdrew 10 days ago.

U.N. sources reported that the Balubas had killed two evangelical missionaries in northern Katanga last week. U.N. troops have been unable to find the bodies and fears were expressed the two might be victims of cannibalism.

The missionaries were Elton George Behrent Knaus, 50, of New Plymouth, New Zealand, and Edmund Hodgson, 62, of Blackpool, England. Both had spent years in Katanga province.

A reliable source said U.N. troops had eyewitness accounts that the Balubas hacked the two to death with machetes near the tiny settlement of Mukaya.

Hodgson was a widower. Knaus had sent his wife and three children to northern Rhodesia to stay with friends.

U.S. Offers Aid To Cuba Refugees

Claims Castro's Regime Controlled By Communists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Friday took a $1-million step in behalf of Cuban refugees and in doing so officially described Cuba for the first time as a Communist-controlled country.

The $1 million was released for the aid of an estimated 30,000 to 40,000 Cubans who are in Florida and elsewhere in the United States as refugees from the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The action was taken by President Eisenhower under a provision of the Mutual Security Act which authorizes assistance to refugees from Communist-controlled countries when the chief executive judges such spending important to the security of the United States.

First Official Action

Many U.S. officials, from the President on down, have publicly expressed conviction that the Castro government is Communist-dominated but Friday's action was the first which made the designation official under U.S. law.

Castro has consistently denied his revolutionary government is communistic although some of his top aides are known to be Reds. But his growing hostility toward the United States has been accompanied by increasing friendliness with the Soviet Union, Red China and other Communist nations. And he has received great quantities of arms and technical and economic aid from behind the Iron Curtain.

For his part, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has threatened the United States with retaliation through nuclear weapons if it takes aggressive action against Cuba.

Gets Formal Status

Tracy Voorhees, who has been investigating the Cuban refugee situation for Eisenhower, was given formal status Friday as the President's representative to administer the aid.

Voorhees told newsmen he hopes to do the job without using all the money released by the presidential order but said there is real hardship for many of the refugees which must be relieved promptly. He added he was returning at once to Florida to get further information on the number of acute hardship cases.

Voorhees said he hoped use of federal money could be confined largely to the task of transporting refugees to places where they can find work.

Much of the relief load, he said, must be borne by charitable organizations, corporations and individuals.

Germans Emigrate

BONN Germany (AP) — About 700,000 Germans emigrated 1946-59, the government reports—350,000 to the United States, 200,000 to Canada, about 65,000 to Australia and the rest mostly to Brazil and South Africa.

Kennedy Neighbor Is Sad When He Takes Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The busiest woman in Georgetown sighed disappointedly Friday as she watched President-elect John F. Kennedy drive away from his house across the street.

"It's going fo be a lonely weekend," she observed from her vantage point at the window.

"I'm going to miss all the excitement until he gets back from Palm Beach. I've had so much enjoyment helping the reporters and the officers and made so many new friends."

If Helen Louise Montgomery likes the newsmen, the police and the Secret Service, they more than return the affection. She has become to them, in a little more than a week, Georgetown's "angel of mercy."

They have been in and out of her home from early morning until late at night, using her telephone, eating the snacks she prepares, drinking her hot coffee or just dropping in to get out of the freezing weather.

"I've loved every minute of it," she told a reporter. "I've never been so close to the big news."

It all started Thanksgiving Day when a reporter, covering Kennedy's return from an earlier trip to Palm Beach, knocked on the door of the 160-year-old home at 3302 N Street, N.W., and asked to use the telephone.

Miss Montgomery made him so welcome that, since the night a week ago that John F. Kennedy Jr., was born, she hasn't had many free moments.

She graciously consented when The Associated Press asked permission to install its own telephone in her living room, full of priceless antiques. Now two others have been similarly installed. And all are welcome to use her own telephone anytime it is needed.

And, if that, and all the coffee she has made and the snacks she has prepared wasn't enough, Miss Montgomery has tried to man all the phones when the reporters were with Kennedy, taking their calls. And when they were dictating to their offices, she alerted them every time a visitor entered or left the Kennedy home.

Soviet Space Ship, Cargo Of Dogs Burn Up

MOSCOW (AP)—The latest Soviet space ship and its cargo of two dogs disintegrated in the outer parts of the earth's atmosphere Friday.

Moscow Radio said Friday night the signal sent to the globe-circling satellite failed to return it to earth on a precalculated orbit and the vehicle burned out.

The broadcast did not mention the two dogs — Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly) — by name.

But it said they had earlier borne easily enough the process of being carried into orbit and had quickly become organically normal.

The broadcast said air conditioning, heat regulation and communication installations aboard the ship had all functioned quite reliably. All these factors would be necessary if a man may be safely put into space.

This was the first acknowledged failure of a Soviet space vehicle carrying living creatures, although in the first attempt the space-dog Laika had been sacrificed as planned, the Soviets said. They reported two dogs sent aloft later were retrieved unharmed.

The latest vehicle carried other animals besides the dogs plus insects and plants for testing, the Russians reported.

Moscow radio said:

"At 1200 hours Moscow time today, the space ship satellite was continuing its movement around the globe," the broadcast said.

"By that time the planned program had been accomplished for testing the design of the ship with the systems installed in it, the medical biological research and also the planned volume of outer space exploration.

"After obtaining the necessary data, the signal was given for the return of the space ship satellite to the earth.

Soldiers Manhandle Prisoner Charged With Revolt Plot

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Seized in the interior, Patrice Lumumba was manacled and flown back to Leopoldville Friday to face trial on a charge of inciting the army to revolt. He was shoved and manhandled as soldiers hurried him off to jail.

The United Nations reported that virtually the entire white population of Stanleyville — more than 1,000—was arrested and ill-treated last Sunday by police supporting Lumumba.

The ex-premier had slipped past an army guard here in Leopoldville last Sunday and traveled into the Congo's wild hinterlands, apparently intending to reach Stanleyville.

He was seized at Port Francqui, about a third of the way to Stanleyville, by forces loyal to Col. Joseph Mobutu, Lumumba's arch-foe.

As Lumumba and four others arrested with him stepped out of a transport plane, excited Congolese soldiers darted about the airport shouting: "We've got Lumumba! We've got him! Come and look!"

Must Face Trial

Announcement that the ex-premier must face trial came from Mobutu, army leader who ousted Lumumba in September, accusing him of swinging the Congo into the Communist camp. Beaming with pleasure, Mobutu said Lumumba will be tried for other crimes besides the charge of inciting the army to rebellion.

Lumumba's hair was disheveled. He wore a white shirt with sleves rolled up. He was hustled off to Kokolo, an army camp, under military guard.

While Mobutu looked on with his arms folded, soldiers took Lumumba out of the truck that had brought him from the airport. They grabbed him by the hair. They shoved him fiercely across the dusty grounds.

Onlookers yelled: "Death to Lumumba!" The soldiers slapped and pushed the former premier, but did not strike him.

Police Seize Lumumba

A 180-strong company of Mobutu's military police seized the firebrand ex-premier Thursday night at Port Francqui, 500 miles east of Leopoldville.

The police commander messaged Mobutu that his men threatened to shoot Lumumba if nobody arrived to take him by 2 p.m.

Mobutu instantly sent back orders that Lumumba must not be harmed and dispatched a plen to fetch him. The 30-year-old strong man said he had threatened severe punishment for any who harmed Lumumba.

Mobutu said six companions were arrested with Lumumba but only the four, one a woman, got off the plane. One of the captives was reported to be Anicet Kashamura, Communist-leaning information minister in Lumumba's Cabinet, but he was not among those returned here with Lumumba. Another was Maj. Georges Grenfell, one of Lumumba's top aides.

Red Leader To Leave U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—William Z. Foster, aged and ailing former head of the Communist party in the United Sattes, Friday won permission to go behind the Iron Curtain for medical treatment. His health is such that the trip might mark a final abandonment of his native land.

The 79-year-old Foster repeatedly has been ruled too ill to stand trial on a 1948 federal indictment charging him with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government. Eleven of his top aides in the party have been sent to prison on similar charges in years past.

Foster, ill for nearly 30 years with a variety of ailments, claimed he has been bedridden since 1957, when he suffered a stroke. He also has heart trouble.

In seeking to go abroad, Foster maintained he cannot afford the type of medical treatment in this country that has been offered him free in Communist Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union.

U.S. Judge William B. Herlands appointed Dr. William Hitzig to examine Foster, and last month the physician reported:

"There is no likelihood that Foster will ever be able to proceed to trial."

Leftist Mobs Besiege Palace, Laos Assembly

By ROY ESSOYAN

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Leftist mobs besieged the National Assembly and the premier's palace Friday, shouting against inclusion of rightist rebels in a new peace government. But the government stolidly pushed ahead with plans for an all-party coalition.

Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, who announced the rightists and the Communist-led Pathet Lao had agreed to join his neutralists in a coalition, faced the mob outside the assembly.

"The choice is yours," he declared. "Peace or war. If you want war you can have my resignation."

Ignoring the mobs, the assembly then approved a report on Wednesday's peace talks with rightist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan at his headquarters in Savannakhet, in Southern Laos.

Several hundred screaming demonstrators trailed government officials from the assembly to the premier's palace, denouncing Phoumi and Tiao Somsanith, pro-Western president of the National Assembly who conducted the negotiations in the south.

The Cabinet then decided to negotiate with Phoumi on the terms of a petition to King Savang Vathana at the royal capital, Luang Prabang. The petition will ask the king to call a meeting of all political parties to discuss forming a government of national unity.

The mobs grew and the government for the first time made a show of force. The demonstrators were met at the gate to the palace grounds by an armored car loaded with paratroopers in full battle gear.

Then Souvanna called in the mob leaders and after a brief discussion dismissed them. The crowds then melted away.

The leaders said they had demanded that Phoumi and Prince Boun Oum, titular head of the rightist regime, be excluded from the coalition government, that 22 assemblymen who joined Phoumi be dismissed, and that no assembly meeting be held in Luang Prabang.

Souvanna told reporters he advised the ringleaders he already had said Phoumi and Bou Oum were unacceptable in a coalition and that the 22 assemblymen's mandates had been revoked.

With the rightist rebels in control of Luang Prabang, a meeting of the assembly in the royal capital would be inadvisable anyway.

Welfare Recipients Work For Checks

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's legal to require welfare recipients to work for their checks, City Solicitor Harrison L. Winter said Friday.

Winter gave the opinion in referring to a proposal similar to the federal WPA program of the 1930s.

The policy making board of the Department of Public Welfare approved such a plan for Baltimore last August. It envisions the use of welfare recipients for such jobs as street cleaning and snow removal.

City officials said the details of the plan are still to be worked out.

Bonn Is Ready To Buy U.S. Military Goods

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany Friday was reported willing to buy more military equipment from the United States, including missiles, to help stop the drain on American gold and dollar reserves.

Diplomatic sources here said this was the preliminary result of talks between U.S. and West German defense officials that began Tuesday.

The U.S. officials, headed by Henry J. Kuss Jr., chief of the Pentagon's military assistance planning division, flew to Paris Friday for the weekend. They are due back here Monday for further talks. Their mission covers these two areas:

1. To determine how much money the West German government is prepared to spend on increased military purchases in the United States.

2. To find out whether the West Germans will put up funds for military assistance to some European countries now being helped exclusively by the United States.

The talks follow the apparently unsuccessful mission to Bonn of U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon. They tried to get West Germany to share a greater portion of mutual defense cost in an effort to help correct the U.S. dollar imbalance.

Informants said during the first stage of the new talks this week German officials said they would like to buy more U.S. military equipment, missile systems and other items they need for West Germany's armed forces.

The informants stressed, however, that the Germans did not state exactly how much they would be willing to spend beyond their present purchases of $300 million annually in U.S. military equipment.

Loan Company Official Robbed

BALTIMORE (AP)—An official of a building and loan association was thrown to the ground and robbed Friday of $7,510 he had just withdrawn from a bank.

Frank Figiel, 71-year-old treasurer of the Casimir Building and Loan Association, told police his assailant—apparently not armed—escaped on foot with the money in two cloth bags.

Figiel said he walked to his car on the parking lot in the rear of the Equitable Trust Co. and opened the door to place the bags inside when a man seized him by the neck, grabbed the bags and fled.

The official described the thief as a Negro about 27 standing 5-6, weighing 150 and wearing a gray jacket.

Rocky Persists In Saying Dick Not GOP Leader

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller persisted Friday in calling Vice President Richard M. Nixon the leader of the Republican party in name only.

The New York governor did so in the face of a second statement by President Eisenhower — this time with Rockefeller present — that Nixon should be regarded as the party's leader in the next four years.

Ordinarily the man a party nominates for president is looked on as the party's leader even if he loses the election. But Rockefeller refuses to go along with that, declaring instead for a collective leadership.

Rockefeller showed up 13 minutes late for breakfast with Nixon. He explained he had been taking "the tour"—that is, looking over the reconstruction of the Capitol's east front and the erection of stands for the inauguration of Democrat John F. Kennedy Jan. 20.

Nixon, who ran Kennedy a close race, commented: "I'll have to do that myself some time."

Reporters overheard the exchange but detected no particular wistfulness on Nixon's part nor any hint that Rockefeller might be dreaming of the possibility he will someday face the inauguration ceremony stands himself.

He has announced for re-election to the New York governorship in 1962, but has declined to say whether he'll try again in 1964 for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller and Nixon were together for an hour and a half.

The governor, under questioning by reporters, repeated his stand that Nixon is the party's titular leader but that the actual head is the chairman of the national committee, Sen. Thruston B. Morton. He said that is so because the party operates through the national committee.

Eisenhower Thursday night repeated at a White House dinner attended by both Rockefeller and Nixon that Nixon should be regarded as the party chief.

Eisenhower first made the statement to a similar dinner Wednesday night, after Rockefeller had taken his stand on Nixon being only the titular leader.

Missing Boy's Body Found

STEVENSVILLE, Md. (AP) — The body of an 18-year-old Stevensville boy missing since Nov. 11 was found Friday almost buried on a marshy shore of Chesapeake Bay near here.

State Police identified the body as that of Charles Herman Volker Jr. and said the cause of death was not known. An autopsy was ordered.

Volker, a Stevensville high school senior, was reported missing by his mother after he left his home Nov. 11. Police were told the youth apparently had quarreled with a girl friend and was in low spirits.

The body was found by two boys walking along the shore about ¼ of a mile below the bay bridge.

Cypriot Cop Killed At Murder Trial

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — A young Greek Cypriot policeman was killed Friday by a bullet fired at a witness in a murder trial. Policeman Christodoulos Georgious was shot by an unknown gunman outside the court in Limassol while the witness, former EOKA fighter Tryfonis Kafkaris, dodged into the building.

Kafkaris was to testify Friday against two men accused of trying to murder him Nov. 2. Police had been guarding him heavily because of threats against his life.

Fund Requests For State Hit $281 Million

BALTIMORE (AP) — With all but two agencies submitting their requests, signs pointed Friday to general fund budget requests totaling more than $281 million for Marylands' next fiscal year.

These proposals, now being screened by the Department of Budget and Procurement, will go to Gov. Tawes for possible revision before he submits them to the legislature convening next month in Annapolis.

Still to be added are the requests for operating the budget department itself and the 1962 session of the legislature. Officials estimate these will total about one-million dollars.

The estimated $281.8 million total is about $18.7 million more than current appropriations from the general fund, which is supported by such general taxes as sales and income.

It does not include special fund operations, which are financed by taxes earmarked by law for specific purposes. Gasoline taxes, for example, are earmarked for highway construction.

Major agency requests include $111.5 million for the Department of Education, $25 million by the Department of Mental Hygiene and $22.5 million by the Department of Welfare. These reflect increases of 20, 13, and 40 per cent, respectively, over current appropriations.

Other major requests include the Department of Correction, $8 million, an increase of 17 per cent; the comptroller's office, $3.8 million, 6 per cent.

The $18.7 million increase is less than half the total increase sought by agencies last year, and the 1959 increase was cut by Tawes from $40.7 million to $28 million, or by nearly one third.

A similar trimming of the new requests would indicate an actual increase of less than $13 million in the general fund budget as finally recommended by Tawes. This would be close to the $10 million or so by which general fund receipts increase under the normal pattern resulting from population and economic growth.

Besides the normal-growth money, the governor also has at his disposal $6 million in expected surplus and $12 million salted away in a special "revenue deficiency fund.' That fund was set up last year as a safety valve against the possibility of a drop of revenues below estimates.

Against this picture of increased-revenue and surplus prospects, the fiscal experts are weighing several factors which limit their optimism over avoiding a tax increase before Tawes' term expires in two years.

These factors include a legislative committee's $9 million proposal for increased state aid to local education and health programs, the possibility of an economic setback, and the general trend of expenditures rising more rapidly than revenues under the present tax structure.

Still Operator Gets Six Years

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP)—Rubie Sessons of Snow Hill, arrested last Monday during a raid on a whisky still in Worcester County, was sentenced Friday to six years in the House of Correction.

Magistrate William Pilchard imposed three consecutive two year sentences on the 54-year-old Negro man after convicting him of three charges — possession of equipment for distilling liquor, possession of illicit whisky and manufacture of illicit whisky.

Sessions was arrested in the raid by State Alcohol Tax Unit officers, county and town police, at an abandoned house about two miles south of Snow Hill on U.S. Route 113.

Another man, Edward Mason, 49, a Negro, of Snow Hill, also was arrested and is awaiting trial.

Bell To Take Shift Into Government Job In Stride

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tall, unassuming David E. Bell indicated Friday he'll hardly miss a stride in moving from the relatively cloistered academic atmosphere at Harvard into the demanding job of shaping the Kennedy administration's budget.

No ivory tower type, the 41-year old Bell told reporters, "I've spent more time in operating government jobs than in education, and I have enjoyed both."

This was a few hours after President-elect John F. Kennedy—with the 6-foot-4 Bell towering over him—announced from the steps of his Georgetown home that the Harvard specialist in public administration would be his budget director.

For Bell, it was a return to familiar ground when he rode over to the Budget Bureau to lunch with the man he will supplant, Eisenhower administration budget chief Maurice Stans.

Eighteen years ago, the North Dakota-born Bell went to work in the lower echelons of the Budget Bureau in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration. After a couple of wartime years in the Marines, he returned to the budget staff, this time under President Harry S. Truman.

It was here he got his basic training for the $22,500-a-year job he will undertake after Jan. 20—wrestling with an $80-billion annual federal budget.

Some veteran employes of the bureau recall him as an "awfully nice guy."

Before the Eisenhower administration took command, Bell served for a time as a White House aide to Truman.

In fact, it was Clark Clifford—Trumans' special counsel and now Kennedy's liaison man with the going administration—who recommended Bell for the budget director's post.

Although Harvard-educated Kennedy has made liberal use of Harvard professors as advisers, he never had met Bell until Wednesday night at Kennedy's home here.

Joining the Harvard faculty in 1957, Bell has been secretary of the university's Littauer Center for Public Administration since July 1959.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Johns Hopkins University broke ground Friday for an $837,000 addition to Mergenthaler Hall.

The six-story building will provide 23,969 square feet of additional space for research facilities of the Department of Biology and the McCollum-Pratt Institute for Investigation of Micro-Nutrient Elements.

Half the cost of the building came from the National Institutes of Health and was matched by gifts from private sources.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore County Circuit Court jury has awarded damages to a woman who said she suffered a fear of walking as the result of an auto accident.

The award went to Mrs. Ruth R. Ashe, who told the court in her suit that a traumatic injury to the brain caused her to believe she could not walk. She said she was hospitalized for three weeks and underwent hypnotic treatment for six months.

The suit was filed against Mrs. Nora E. Smith, identified as the driver of a car which struck the rear of an automobile in which Mrs. Ashe was a passenger.

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — Walter Bockmiller, president of the Glen Burnie High School senior class, has lost his job as a department store Santa Claus.

It wouldn't do, his employer said, to have the kiddies see a Santa with one arm in a cast. Bockmiller broke an arm working out with the school's wrestling team.

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — William G. Kerbin Jr., publisher of the weekly Democratic Messenger, has been appointed to the Worcester County Democratic Committe.

Kerbin, former state's attorney, succeeds Walter T. Onley, who resigned to serve as chairman of the county commissioners.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A mother who won a protest against opening religious exercises in Baltimore City schools said Friday she would seek to outlaw all religious observances in the classrooms.

The protest by Madalyn E. Murray led to a ruling by the Maryland attorney general that nonbelievers may be excused from the opening Bible readings prescribed by the Baltimore School Board.

In her planned effort to broaden her attack on religious observances, Mrs. Murray said, she had been promised financial aid by groups she identified as the Free Thought Society of America, the National Liberal League, Inc., and the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, Inc.

Mrs. Murray said both she and her son, William, 14, who since has been excusel from the exercises, were atheists.

Seven Bottling Companies Fine In Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven bottling companies and a trade association were fined a total of $56,500 Friday on charges of fixing wholesale prices of soft drinks here.

Judge Leonard P. Walsh of U.S. District Court levied the fines. The defendants pleaded "no contest" to the price fixing conspiracy charges during a Sept. 2 appearance before the judge.

The defendants, named in an indictment handed down last August by a District of Columbia grand jury, are:

Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Pepsi Cola Bottling Co., Pepsi Cola Metropolitan Bottling Co., Canada Dry Co., R.C. Nehi Bottling Co., Seven-Up Washington, Inc., Rock Creek Ginger Ale Co., Inc., and the carbonated Beverage Manufacturers Association of Washington.

All but the Coca Cola Co. are members of the association.

The indictment charged that the association members met with Coca Cola representatives in Richmond and agreed to raise prices on cases of soft drinks.

The increases, effective March 7, cost the consumer from 1 to 2 cents a bottle above the old prices, one retailer said.

Two companies, Canada Dry and Nehi, have since lowered these prices.

The fines:

Coca Cola, $17,500; Pepsi Cola Metropolitan Bottling, $12,500; Pepsi Cola Bottling, $12,500; Nehi, $4,000; Seven-Up, $3,000; Rock Creek Ginger Ale, $2,000; Canada Dry, $1,000, and Carbonated Beverage Association, $4,000.

Robert Burdette Drowns In Tank

NITRO, W. Va. (UPI)—Robert Burdette, 36, of near here, drowned in a filtration tank at the West Virginia Water Company here Friday.

Authorities said Burdette, an employe of the company for 12 years, apparently slipped and fell into the tank early Friday morning. His body was recovered about three hours later.

Seven Persons Die In Blaze; 10 Others Flee

LA PLATA, Md. (AP) — A two-story tenant farm home turned into a flaming death house for a Negro couple and five children early Friday.

Heroic action by a 21-year-old daughter saved herself and nine other children.

Hours after the blaze swept the house only the brick chimney remained intact. The six-room structure was burned to a smear of charred rubble on a tobacco farm in lower Charles County in Southern Maryland.

The 17 adults and children were asleep when the fire flashed through the house. The blaze apparently started from an overheated wood-burning stove, one of three used to heat the building.

The first warning of the fire came to survivors in screams from Mrs. Viola Powell, 45, who awakened her daughter, Rosa Ella, with shouts of:

"Throw out the children, then jump yourself!"

Rose Ella dropped some of the younger children from a second floor window, aided others out onto a porch roof, and finally jumped eight feet to safety herself when flames and smoke barred her way to those who died in the inferno.

Two or three of the survivors ran through the sub-freezing temperature and early morning darkness to a neighbor's home, 100 yards away, where the call for fire department aid was placed.

By the time firemen arrived, however, the house was all but collapsed in smouldering ashes. It was three hours after the alarm was turned in before the last of the bodies could be recovered.

Dead were Mrs. Powell and her husband, Robert Dana Powell, 43; three of their children — James Henry, 12, Barbara Regina, 10, and John Allen, 8; a grandson, Joseph Powell, 3, and the couple's nephew, Phillip G. Yates, 11.

The Powell children who escaped were Rose Ella; Gladys, 20; Catherine, 16; Carolyn, 14, and Ellen, 15; and five Powell grandchildren—Rose Dianna, 3; Mary Kathleen, 7; Charlene, 5; Phillip, 4, and Donnie, a 4-month-old infant.

The survivors were taken first to the neighboring home, and later in the day were sent to other homes in the vicinity for shelter.

The farm house was located near the community of Newport, close to the intersection of Maryland 232 and 234 about 12 miles southeast of here.

Steal Royal Jewels

LONDON (UPI)—Thieves stole $63,000 worth of diamonds from the Duchess of Rutland, daughter of the Duchess of Argyll and American amateur golfer Charles Sweeney, police reported Friday. The 22-year-old Duchess said the Brazilian diamonds were stolen from her suitcase sometime between the time she left Belvoir Castle last Tuesday and her arrival at her London apartment that night.

Leftist Mobs Besiege Palace, Laos Assembly

By ROY ESSOYAN

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Leftist mobs besieged the National Assembly and the premier's palace Friday, shouting against inclusion of rightist rebels in a new peace government. But the government stolidly pushed ahead with plans for an all-party coalition.

Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, who announced the rightists and the Communist-led Pathet Lao had agreed to join his neutralists in a coalition, faced the mob outside the assembly.

"The choice is yours," he declared. "Peace or war. If you want war you can have my resignation."

Ignoring the mobs, the assembly then approved a report on Wednesday's peace talks with rightist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan at his headquarters in Savannakhet, in Southern Laos.

Several hundred screaming demonstrators trailed government officials from the assembly to the premier's palace, denouncing Phoumi and Tiao Somsanith, pro-Western president of the National Assembly who conducted the negotiations in the south.

The Cabinet then decided to negotiate with Phoumi on the terms of a petition to King Savang Vathana at the royal capital, Luang Prabang. The petition will ask the king to call a meeting of all political parties to discuss forming a government of national unity.

The mobs grew and the government for the first time made a show of force. The demonstrators were met at the gate to the palace grounds by an armored car loaded with paratroopers in full battle gear.

Then Souvanna called in the mob leaders and after a brief discussion dismissed them. The crowds then melted away.

The leaders said they had demanded that Phoumi and Prince Boun Oum, titular head of the rightist regime, be excluded from the coalition government, that 22 assemblymen who joined Phoumi be dismissed, and that no assembly meeting be held in Luang Prabang.

Souvanna told reporters he advised the ringleaders he already had said Phoumi and Bou Oum were unacceptable in a coalition and that the 22 assemblymen's mandates had been revoked.

With the rightist rebels in control of Luang Prabang, a meeting of the assembly in the royal capital would be inadvisable anyway.

Welfare Recipients Work For Checks

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's legal to require welfare recipients to work for their checks, City Solicitor Harrison L. Winter said Friday.

Winter gave the opinion in referring to a proposal similar to the federal WPA program of the 1930s.

The policy making board of the Department of Public Welfare approved such a plan for Baltimore last August. It envisions the use of welfare recipients for such jobs as street cleaning and snow removal.

City officials said the details of the plan are still to be worked out.

Bonn Is Ready To Buy U.S. Military Goods

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany Friday was reported willing to buy more military equipment from the United States, including missiles, to help stop the drain on American gold and dollar reserves.

Diplomatic sources here said this was the preliminary result of talks between U.S. and West German defense officials that began Tuesday.

The U.S. officials, headed by Henry J. Kuss Jr., chief of the Pentagon's military assistance planning division, flew to Paris Friday for the weekend. They are due back here Monday for further talks. Their mission covers these two areas:

1. To determine how much money the West German government is prepared to spend on increased military purchases in the United States.

2. To find out whether the West Germans will put up funds for military assistance to some European countries now being helped exclusively by the United States.

The talks follow the apparently unsuccessful mission to Bonn of U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon. They tried to get West Germany to share a greater portion of mutual defense cost in an effort to help correct the U.S. dollar imbalance.

Informants said during the first stage of the new talks this week German officials said they would like to buy more U.S. military equipment, missile systems and other items they need for West Germany's armed forces.

The informants stressed, however, that the Germans did not state exactly how much they would be willing to spend beyond their present purchases of $300 million annually in U.S. military equipment.

Loan Company Official Robbed

BALTIMORE (AP)—An official of a building and loan association was thrown to the ground and robbed Friday of $7,510 he had just withdrawn from a bank.

Frank Figiel, 71-year-old treasurer of the Casimir Building and Loan Association, told police his assailant—apparently not armed—escaped on foot with the money in two cloth bags.

Figiel said he walked to his car on the parking lot in the rear of the Equitable Trust Co. and opened the door to place the bags inside when a man seized him by the neck, grabbed the bags and fled.

The official described the thief as a Negro about 27 standing 5-6, weighing 150 and wearing a gray jacket.

Figiel withdrew the money to be used as change at the association.

Rocky Persists In Saying Dick Not GOP Leader

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller persisted Friday in calling Vice President Richard M. Nixon the leader of the Republican party in name only.

The New York governor did so in the face of a second statement by President Eisenhower — this time with Rockefeller present — that Nixon should be regarded as the party's leader in the next four years.

Ordinarily the man a party nominates for president is looked on as the party's leader even if he loses the election. But Rockefeller refuses to go along with that, declaring instead for a collective leadership.

Rockefeller showed up 13 minutes late for breakfast with Nixon. He explained he had been taking "the tour"—that is, looking over the reconstruction of the Capitol's east front and the erection of stands for the inauguration of Democrat John F. Kennedy Jan. 20.

Nixon, who ran Kennedy a close race, commented: "I'll have to do that myself some time."

Reporters overheard the exchange but detected no particular wistfulness on Nixon's part nor any hint that Rockefeller might be dreaming of the possibility he will someday face the inauguration ceremony stands himself.

He has announced for re-election to the New York governorship in 1962, but has declined to say whether he'll try again in 1964 for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller and Nixon were together for an hour and a half.

The governor, under questioning by reporters, repeated his stand that Nixon is the party's titular leader but that the actual head is the chairman of the national committee, Sen. Thruston B. Morton. He said that is so because the party operates through the national committee.

Eisenhower Thursday night repeated at a White House dinner attended by both Rockefeller and Nixon that Nixon should be regarded as the party chief.

Eisenhower first made the statement to a similar dinner Wednesday night, after Rockefeller had taken his stand on Nixon being only the titular leader.

Missing Boy's Body Found

STEVENSVILLE, Md. (AP) — The body of an 18-year-old Stevensville boy missing since Nov. 11 was found Friday almost buried on a marshy shore of Chesapeake Bay near here.

State Police identified the body as that of Charles Herman Volker Jr. and said the cause of death was not known. An autopsy was ordered.

Volker, a Stevensville high school senior, was reported missing by his mother after he left his home Nov. 11. Police were told the youth apparently had quarreled with a girl friend and was in low spirits.

The body was found by two boys walking along the shore about ¼ of a mile below the bay bridge.

Cypriot Cop Killed At Murder Trial

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — A young Greek Cypriot policeman was killed Friday by a bullet fired at a witness in a murder trial. Policeman Christodoulos Georgious was shot by an unknown gunman outside the court in Limassol while the witness, former EOKA fighter Tryfonis Kafkaris, dodged into the building.

Kafkaris was to testify Friday against two men accused of trying to murder him Nov. 2. Police had been guarding him heavily because of threats against his life.

Fund Requests For State Hit $281 Million

BALTIMORE (AP) — With all but two agencies submitting their requests, signs pointed Friday to general fund budget requests totaling more than $281 million for Marylands' next fiscal year.

These proposals, now being screened by the Department of Budget and Procurement, will go to Gov. Tawes for possible revision before he submits them to the legislature convening next month in Annapolis.

Still to be added are the requests for operating the budget department itself and the 1962 session of the legislature. Officials estimate these will total about one-million dollars.

The estimated $281.8 million total is about $18.7 million more than current appropriations from the general fund, which is supported by such general taxes as sales and income.

It does not include special fund operations, which are financed by taxes earmarked by law for specific purposes. Gasoline taxes, for example, are earmarked for highway construction.

Major agency requests include $111.5 million for the Department of Education, $25 million by the Department of Mental Hygiene and $22.5 million by the Department of Welfare. These reflect increases of 20, 13, and 40 per cent, respectively, over current appropriations.

Other major requests include the Department of Correction, $8 million, an increase of 17 per cent; the comptroller's office, $3.8 million, 6 per cent.

The $18.7 million increase is less than half the total increase sought by agencies last year, and the 1959 increase was cut by Tawes from $40.7 million to $28 million, or by nearly one third.

A similar trimming of the new requests would indicate an actual increase of less than $13 million in the general fund budget as finally recommended by Tawes. This would be close to the $10 million or so by which general fund receipts increase under the normal pattern resulting from population and economic growth.

Besides the normal-growth money, the governor also has at his disposal $6 million in expected surplus and $12 million salted away in a special "revenue deficiency fund.' That fund was set up last year as a safety valve against the possibility of a drop of revenues below estimates.

Against this picture of increased-revenue and surplus prospects, the fiscal experts are weighing several factors which limit their optimism over avoiding a tax increase before Tawes' term expires in two years.

These factors include a legislative committee's $9 million proposal for increased state aid to local education and health programs, the possibility of an economic setback, and the general trend of expenditures rising more rapidly than revenues under the present tax structure.

Still Operator Gets Six Years

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP)—Rubie Sessons of Snow Hill, arrested last Monday during a raid on a whisky still in Worcester County, was sentenced Friday to six years in the House of Correction.

Magistrate William Pilchard imposed three consecutive two year sentences on the 54-year-old Negro man after convicting him of three charges — possession of equipment for distilling liquor, possession of illicit whisky and manufacture of illicit whisky.

Sessions was arrested in the raid by State Alcohol Tax Unit officers, county and town police, at an abandoned house about two miles south of Snow Hill on U.S. Route 113.

Another man, Edward Mason, 49, a Negro, of Snow Hill, also was arrested and is awaiting trial.

LONDON (UPI — Anglo-Egyptian talks on resumption of full diplomatic relations have suffered a setback because of Egypt's insistence on a larger number of consulates than Britain approves, diplomatic reports said Friday.

Bell To Take Shift Into Government Job In Stride

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tall, unassuming David E. Bell indicated Friday he'll hardly miss a stride in moving from the relatively cloistered academic atmosphere at Harvard into the demanding job of shaping the Kennedy administration's budget.

No ivory tower type, the 41-year old Bell told reporters, "I've spent more time in operating government jobs than in education, and I have enjoyed both."

This was a few hours after President-elect John F. Kennedy—with the 6-foot-4 Bell towering over him—announced from the steps of his Georgetown home that the Harvard specialist in public administration would be his budget director.

For Bell, it was a return to familiar ground when he rode over to the Budget Bureau to lunch with the man he will supplant, Eisenhower administration budget chief Maurice Stans.

Eighteen years ago, the North Dakota-born Bell went to work in the lower echelons of the Budget Bureau in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration. After a couple of wartime years in the Marines, he returned to the budget staff, this time under President Harry S. Truman.

It was here he got his basic training for the $22,500-a-year job he will undertake after Jan. 20—wrestling with an $80-billion annual federal budget.

Some veteran employes of the bureau recall him as an "awfully nice guy."

Before the Eisenhower administration took command, Bell served for a time as a White House aide to Truman.

In fact, it was Clark Clifford—Trumans' special counsel and now Kennedy's liaison man with the going administration—who recommended Bell for the budget director's post.

Although Harvard-educated Kennedy has made liberal use of Harvard professors as advisers, he never had met Bell until Wednesday night at Kennedy's home here.

Joining the Harvard faculty in 1957, Bell has been secretary of the university's Littauer Center for Public Administration since July 1959.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Johns Hopkins University broke ground Friday for an $837,000 addition to Mergenthaler Hall.

The six-story building will provide 23,969 square feet of additional space for research facilities of the Department of Biology and the McCollum-Pratt Institute for Investigation of Micro-Nutrient Elements.

Half the cost of the building came from the National Institutes of Health and was matched by gifts from private sources.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore County Circuit Court jury has awarded damages to a woman who said she suffered a fear of walking as the result of an auto accident.

The award went to Mrs. Ruth R. Ashe, who told the court in her suit that a traumatic injury to the brain caused her to believe she could not walk. She said she was hospitalized for three weeks and underwent hypnotic treatment for six months.

The suit was filed against Mrs. Nora E. Smith, identified as the driver of a car which struck the rear of an automobile in which Mrs. Ashe was a passenger.

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — Walter Bockmiller, president of the Glen Burnie High School senior class, has lost his job as a department store Santa Claus.

It wouldn't do, his employer said, to have the kiddies see a Santa with one arm in a cast. Bockmiller broke an arm working out with the school's wrestling team.

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — William G. Kerbin Jr., publisher of the weekly Democratic Messenger, has been appointed to the Worcester County Democratic Committe.

Kerbin, former state's attorney, succeeds Walter T. Onley, who resigned to serve as chairman of the county commissioners.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A mother who won a protest against opening religious exercises in Baltimore City schools said Friday she would seek to outlaw all religious observances in the classrooms.

The protest by Madalyn E. Murray led to a ruling by the Maryland attorney general that nonbelievers may be excused from the opening Bible readings prescribed by the Baltimore School Board.

In her planned effort to broaden her attack on religious observances, Mrs. Murray said, she had been promised financial aid by groups she identified as the Free Thought Society of America, the National Liberal League, Inc., and the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, Inc.

Mrs. Murray said both she and her son, William, 14, who since has been excusel from the exercises, were atheists.

Seven Bottling Companies Fine In Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven bottling companies and a trade association were fined a total of $56,500 Friday on charges of fixing wholesale prices of soft drinks here.

Judge Leonard P. Walsh of U.S. District Court levied the fines. The defendants pleaded "no contest" to the price fixing conspiracy charges during a Sept. 2 appearance before the judge.

The defendants, named in an indictment handed down last August by a District of Columbia grand jury, are:

Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Pepsi Cola Bottling Co., Pepsi Cola Metropolitan Bottling Co., Canada Dry Co., R.C. Nehi Bottling Co., Seven-Up Washington, Inc., Rock Creek Ginger Ale Co., Inc., and the carbonated Beverage Manufacturers Association of Washington.

All but the Coca Cola Co. are members of the association.

The indictment charged that the association members met with Coca Cola representatives in Richmond and agreed to raise prices on cases of soft drinks.

The increases, effective March 7, cost the consumer from 1 to 2 cents a bottle above the old prices, one retailer said.

Two companies, Canada Dry and Nehi, have since lowered these prices.

The fines:

Coca Cola, $17,500; Pepsi Cola Metropolitan Bottling, $12,500; Pepsi Cola Bottling, $12,500; Nehi, $4,000; Seven-Up, $3,000; Rock Creek Ginger Ale, $2,000; Canada Dry, $1,000, and Carbonated Beverage Association, $4,000.

Secrets Of Charm

Play Away Those Calories

Are you having trouble sticking to your low-calorie standard of living? The reason may be that you just aren't active enough to use up more calories than you take in.

Notice, I said ACTIVE, not BUSY. You can be busy every minute and still not lose an ounce, because your ordinary pace and routine movements still match your metabolic ability to burn energy. So hustle that muscle a little more every day and beat that basal metabolism of yours.

If you pick an exercise that is fun for you, you'll find dieting even easier. For one thing, you'll break the monotony of steady chores and steady dieting, you'll bore right through the boredom with refreshing relaxation. So, you'll be less likely to catch a bad case of the jitters, the kind that tempts you to jilt your diet.

For another plus-factor, change in concentration, the mental stimulation of having fun, means your mind will be less occupied with feasting and fasting. You may even learn to forget your hunger pangs.

Now, maybe your idea of fun is total collapse with a good book or an absorbing television show. Save this kind of recreation for evenings, when your energy is low anyway. They are excellent preludes to a good night's sleep. But they don't burn up many calories . . . except the ones you might use trotting up to the refrigerator for snacks. (By the way, readers, have you stocked your "library" of fruit and carrot sticks?)

Earlier in the day, when you are still full of pep, you can take calisthenics . . . as long as you don't take them like bad-tasting medicine. It's perfectly possible to pound away at a pound of flesh hating every minute of it, while you ponder nothing except visions of forbidden sugar plums.

So, make your exercises fun by doing them to music, performing them with the family or with fellow-dieters. If these fail, join an organized gym class.

Games are even more fun. How about bowling? Both public and private recreation centers provide team sports, like badminton and volley ball. Indoor swimming pools operate throughout the winter in most communities. Ice-skating outdoors and roller-skating indoors are wintertime naturals for weight watchers.

Even at home, in your basement or recreation room you can set up a ping pong table, a dart board, quoits or ring-toss. And, remember, a hike is always just as close as your front door.

Dancing is another made-to-order diversion for dieters. If this appeals to you, send for my guidebook, "Dance Through a Week To Beauty," available from this newspaper with just 10c and a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Then, whenever you feel the pressure of nervous tension rising (and it rises oftener for dieters), stop and take a play-break.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school boy, and I need some advice from an expert.

I'm very much interested in the camera club at our school. Both boys and girls belong and the meetings are once a week. They have a dark room where the kids are supposed to develop pictures. They go into the room in two's, lock the door and hang a sign on the door that says "Keep Out — Developing."

I went to a couple of meetings as a guest and it didn't take long to figure out what was going on. Two fellows or two girls never go in the dark room together—it's always a boy and a girl. These kids are actually necking on the school premises. What shall I do about it?—JIM

DEAR JIM: What do you WANT to do? Join the club? If you're thinking about reporting it, I wonder where the club advisor is when all this is going on. Surely the club has some adult supervision. If not, it's overdue.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Grandchild number nine is due in a few weeks. I received the expected phone call today — "Of course you'll come and help out while Velma is in the hospital."

Velma has three small children and she also has a mother. But her mother is "too nervous" to help out. My other daughters-in-law have mothers, too, but one has headaches, the other can't leave her husband and another "just isn't up to it."

My husband has been very good about my leaving him to take charge every time a new baby comes but we both feel that nine times is taking advantage. You always give sound advice. I'm going to do as you say.

—TIRED GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Say no. Some of these young mothers should be reminded (if they don't know) that their mothers and mothers-in-law are not work horses to be hitched up any old time there's a load to be pulled.

In my book they should NEVER be asked to do these favors. If they volunteer, it's another matter. So far as I can tell, Grandma, you didn't volunteer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 19 and planning to be married in a few months. My fiance and I have discussed many things about our future life together.

My fiance wants a family of four children. I've been rather quiet on this subject because frankly, I think there's nothing more atrocious looking than a pregnant woman. I don't want to ruin my figure, even temporarily.

I want children, but the thought of going through several months of looking like a blimp, makes me weak all over. Can you help me?

—FRANCINE

DEAR FRANCINE: Science, with all its wondrous miracles has not been able to come up with a substitute for motherhood. If you want babies, you'll have to look pregnant, like everybody else.

Nobody says an expectant mother must look like a blimp. Attractive and concealing maternity clothes are available at modest prices. If you're not ready to sacrifice a temporary loss of figure for one of the greatest joys of life, you're not mature enough to be married. Grow up or postpone the marriage till you have a more adult outlook.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The LaVale Century Club met recently at LaVale Methodist Church. Rabbi Max Selinger was guest speaker and gave a review of the book, "This Is My God." Kenneth Wilson, baritone soloist, opened the program by singing the "Kol Nidre," accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Wolf.

Two new members, Mrs. Ralph Price and Mrs. William Leeson, were welcomed by Mrs. Robert Garner, membership chairman.

Mrs. Waldo Harshberger, welfare chairman, announced the club will donate food and clothing to some needy families in the LaVale area.

Mrs. William A. Douglas reported on the MFWC state board meeting held recently in Baltimore. She announced that the Adult Education Program, one of the activities being stressed by the GFWC would be held June 23 through June 30 at the University of Maryland and urged any member interested to attend.

The club held its Christmas Caravan yesterday, which included a tour of four homes in the LaVale area which had been decorated for the Christmas season by members of the club. A tea and bazaar were held in conjunction with the tour at the LaVale Methodist Church. Past presidents and present officers of the club presided at the tea during the afternoon. They are Mrs. Albert Tosh, Mrs. Richard Heacox, Mrs. Floyd Cozad, Mrs. Paul Stair, Mrs. C. M. Sanner, president; Mrs. Jack Higgins, first vice president, and Mrs. Robert Garner, second vice president.

Guests attending were Mrs. Robert Shadick, Mrs. Charles Orlick, Mrs. David Smith, Mrs. John Bushby, Mrs. Billy Menges, Mrs. Kenneth Whitney, Mrs. H. J. Sellers, Mrs. H. J. Metty, Mrs. Leonard Neff, Mrs. Dean Welder, Mrs. Edwin Miller, Mrs. Albert Heacox, Mrs. J. D. Lonnholm, Mrs. Einar West, Mrs. Robert F. Moore, Mrs. Woodrow Thomas and Mrs. Ethel Thayer.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school boy, and I need some advice from an expert.

I'm very much interested in the camera club at our school. Both boys and girls belong and the meetings are once a week. They have a dark room where the kids are supposed to develop pictures. They go into the room in two's, lock the door and hang a sign on the door that says "Keep Out — Developing."

I went to a couple of meetings as a guest and it didn't take long to figure out what was going on. Two fellows or two girls never go in the dark room together—it's always a boy and a girl. These kids are actually necking on the school premises. What shall I do about it?—JIM

DEAR JIM: What do you WANT to do? Join the club? If you're thinking about reporting it, I wonder where the club advisor is when all this is going on. Surely the club has some adult supervision. If not, it's overdue.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Grandchild number nine is due in a few weeks. I received the expected phone call today — "Of course you'll come and help out while Velma is in the hospital."

Velma has three small children and she also has a mother. But her mother is "too nervous" to help out. My other daughters-in-law have mothers, too, but one has headaches, the other can't leave her husband and another "just isn't up to it."

My husband has been very good about my leaving him to take charge every time a new baby comes but we both feel that nine times is taking advantage. You always give sound advice. I'm going to do as you say.

—TIRED GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Say no. Some of these young mothers should be reminded (if they don't know) that their mothers and mothers-in-law are not work horses to be hitched up any old time there's a load to be pulled.

In my book they should NEVER be asked to do these favors. If they volunteer, it's another matter. So far as I can tell, Grandma, you didn't volunteer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 19 and planning to be married in a few months. My fiance and I have discussed many things about our future life together.

My fiance wants a family of four children. I've been rather quiet on this subject because frankly, I think there's nothing more atrocious looking than a pregnant woman. I don't want to ruin my figure, even temporarily.

I want children, but the thought of going through several months of looking like a blimp, makes me weak all over. Can you help me?

—FRANCINE

DEAR FRANCINE: Science, with all its wondrous miracles has not been able to come up with a substitute for motherhood. If you want babies, you'll have to look pregnant, like everybody else.

Nobody says an expectant mother must look like a blimp. Attractive and concealing maternity clothes are available at modest prices. If you're not ready to sacrifice a temporary loss of figure for one of the greatest joys of life, you're not mature enough to be married. Grow up or postpone the marriage till you have a more adult outlook.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

Play Away Those Calories

Are you having trouble sticking to your low-calorie standard of living? The reason may be that you just aren't active enough to use up more calories than you take in.

Notice, I said ACTIVE, not BUSY. You can be busy every minute and still not lose an ounce, because your ordinary pace and routine movements still match your metabolic ability to burn energy. So hustle that muscle a little more every day and beat that basal metabolism of yours.

If you pick an exercise that is fun for you, you'll find dieting even easier. For one thing, you'll break the monotony of steady chores and steady dieting, you'll bore right through the boredom with refreshing relaxation. So, you'll be less likely to catch a bad case of the jitters, the kind that tempts you to jilt your diet.

For another plus-factor, change in concentration, the mental stimulation of having fun, means your mind will be less occupied with feasting and fasting. You may even learn to forget your hunger pangs.

Now, maybe your idea of fun is total collapse with a good book or an absorbing television show. Save this kind of recreation for evenings, when your energy is low anyway. They are excellent preludes to a good night's sleep. But they don't burn up many calories . . . except the ones you might use trotting up to the refrigerator for snacks. (By the way, readers, have you stocked your "library" of fruit and carrot sticks?)

Earlier in the day, when you are still full of pep, you can take calisthenics . . . as long as you don't take them like bad-tasting medicine. It's perfectly possible to pound away at a pound of flesh hating every minute of it, while you ponder nothing except visions of forbidden sugar plums.

So, make your exercises fun by doing them to music, performing them with the family or with fellow-dieters. If these fail, join an organized gym class.

Games are even more fun. How about bowling? Both public and private recreation centers provide team sports, like badminton and volley ball. Indoor swimming pools operate throughout the winter in most communities. Ice-skating outdoors and roller-skating indoors are wintertime naturals for weight watchers.

Even at home, in your basement or recreation room you can set up a ping pong table, a dart board, quoits or ring-toss. And, remember, a hike is always just as close as your front door.

Dancing is another made-to-order diversion for dieters. If this appeals to you, send for my guidebook, "Dance Through a Week To Beauty," available from this newspaper with just 10c and a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Then, whenever you feel the pressure of nervous tension rising (and it rises oftener for dieters), stop and take a play-break.

Christian Cooperative Movement In U.S. Produces Seeming Contradiction

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Some strange educational chemistry is at work today in many American churches.

Put simply, it is described this way: As Christian churches became more interdenominational-minded, they also became more denominational-minded.

This may sound like a contradiction, but as viewed by many religious leaders, it is an active process going on in the present-day Christian cooperative movement.

The main arm of that movement, the National Council of Churches, is holding its triennial general assembly, starting this weekend in San Francisco.

This is the chief governing conclave of the nation's most widely representatiave religious organization, including 33 denominations with 40 million members, two-thirds of the country's Protestant and Orthodox Christians.

The meeting comes on the council's 10th birthday.

In line with the anniversary, a common question is: Just what has been the effect on the different denominations during their decade of rubbing shoulders with each other in a wide variety of Christian work?

Oddly enough, the reactions seem to be in two directions, although beneath the surface they may be part of the same thing.

Indications are that each church group, as it gets better acquainted with other groups, develops a higher respect for the ways of others. But it also becomes more deeply interested in its own particular ways.

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd J. Averill, a Baptist of Kalamazoo College in Michigan, says, "When genuine encounter among several traditions take place, there is a twofold effect:

"On the one hand we find ourselves driven back into our own traditions to discover what we may have of distinctive insight into the Gospel to share with our Christian brethren.

"On the other hand, we find that so doing draws us into a oneness which had not been known before Paradoical as it may seem, we are thus more deeply united at precisely the time we become more deeply self-conscious."

These seemingly opposite, yet actually corollary, elements have been noted by numerous other churchmen. And they also have been shown by the upsurge of lay theological study in the separate churches.

The Rev. Dr. William Hordern, of Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., says this is the most vital form of Christian unity—"a fellowship of respect between denominations in which they will be open to mutual correction."

the Snowman that Lived.

Johnny built a snowman! From white, cold snow he made it. It was hard work, and Johnny was justly proud.

Johnny built a snowman—in a day! He packed the snow hard, put in coals for the eyes and nose, and Daddy's hat was placed on top.

But far more of Daddy than just his hat went into this snowman. Just as Johnny worked hard to build the snowman, his father is hard at work too . . . building Johnny. Daddy's greatest dream is to see Johnny moulded into a man of strength, vision, and character.

Luckily for Johnny, Daddy is a wise father. He realizes that the most important single influence upon his son's life is the teaching of Christ. Daddy will see to it that his son receives that teaching by sending him to Church services regularly. In making certain that Johnny knows the beauty of God's words, father will see his greatest dream come true.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Christian Cooperative Movement In U.S. Produces Seeming Contradiction

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Some strange educational chemistry is at work today in many American churches.

Put simply, it is described this way: As Christian churches became more interdenominational-minded, they also became more denominational-minded.

This may sound like a contradiction, but as viewed by many religious leaders, it is an active process going on in the present-day Christian cooperative movement.

The main arm of that movement, the National Council of Churches, is holding its triennial general assembly, starting this weekend in San Francisco.

This is the chief governing conclave of the nation's most widely representatiave religious organization, including 33 denominations with 40 million members, two-thirds of the country's Protestant and Orthodox Christians.

The meeting comes on the council's 10th birthday.

In line with the anniversary, a common question is: Just what has been the effect on the different denominations during their decade of rubbing shoulders with each other in a wide variety of Christian work?

Oddly enough, the reactions seem to be in two directions, although beneath the surface they may be part of the same thing.

Indications are that each church group, as it gets better acquainted with other groups, develops a higher respect for the ways of others. But it also becomes more deeply interested in its own particular ways.

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd J. Averill, a Baptist of Kalamazoo College in Michigan, says, "When genuine encounter among several traditions take place, there is a two-fold effect:

"On the one hand we find ourselves driven back into our own traditions to discover what we may have of distinctive insight into the Gospel to share with our Christian brethren.

"On the other hand, we find that so doing draws us into a oneness which had not been known before. Paradoical as it may seem, we are thus more deeply united at precisely the time we become more deeply self-conscious."

These seemingly opposite, yet actually corollary, elements have been noted by numerous other churchmen. And they also have been shown by the upsurge of lay theological study in the separate churches.

The Rev. Dr. William Hordern, of Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., says this is the most vital form of Christian unity—"a fellowship of respect between denominations in which they will be open to mutual correction."

the Snowman that Lived.

Johnny built a snowman! From white, cold snow he made it. It was hard work, and Johnny was justly proud.

Johnny built a snowman—in a day! He packed the snow hard, put in coals for the eyes and nose, and Daddy's hat was placed on top.

But far more of Daddy than just his hat went into this snowman. Just as Johnny worked hard to build the snowman, his father is hard at work too . . . building Johnny. Daddy's greatest dream is to see Johnny moulded into a man of strength, vision, and character.

Luckily for Johnny, Daddy is a wise father. He realizes that the most important single influence upon his son's life is the teaching of Christ. Daddy will see to it that his son receives that teaching by sending him to Church services regularly. In making certain that Johnny knows the beauty of God's words, father will see his greatest dream come true.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—"The Return To Peyton Place," which has been a toughy to cast, is practically ready to go now. Jeff Chandler, who will darken his gray locks, was today set to play Jackman, the publisher who marries Carole (Allison) Lynley.

Elizabeth Montgomery, Bob's daughter and a very good actress, is expected to sign tomorrow (she likes the script) for the role Hope Lange played in the original. And Jerry Wald today verified that Gunnar Hellstrom, Swedish stage star who has played many of the Marlon Brando roles in his native country, will create a new role in "Return to Peyton Place," that of a Swedish ski instructor.

Jose Ferrer has the script ready and the movie will go before the cameras before many days.

Taina Elg, back from months in Europe where she made "Le Baccanti" in Rome, tells me she's off to New York Dec. 7.

"I am going to audition for Cyril Richard for his play 'The Happiest Girl'," she told me. "It's a musical version of 'Lysistrata'."

Taina said nothing about Keith Larson's sudden marriage to Vera Miles. She said of the picture she made in Italy in which Akim Tamiroff also appeared, that there was the greatest conglomeration of languages spoken on the set, including Finnish, English, French and Yugoslavian.

The most appropriate title I've heard in days is "A Foot in the Door" which is about, if you please, the original Fuller Brush man and founder of the hundred million dollar a year brush business, A. C. Fuller. Mr. Fuller has just completed his biography under this title and remembering what a hit Red Skelton made several years ago in "The Fuller Brush Man"—this is expected to wind up on the screen.

The collaborator on the Fuller book is author Hartzell Spence who wrote "One Foot in Heaven" about his minister father which starred Frederic March in the movie version.

Ross Hunter was all packed and ready to leave Thursday to give Sandra Dee away when she married Bobby Darin, supposedly today. "However, she telephoned me at 5:30 Thursday morning," said Ross, "to say she and Bobby were already married in Elizabeth, N.J."

Her mother, who is in New York, had tried to persuade Sandy to have a wedding and not marry in haste. But Bobby and the 18-year-old actress are so much in love they felt they couldn't wait. The question was whether they should be married at his home or her family home in New Jersey. They compromised on Elizabeth, N.J.

They are two nice youngsters and everyone wishes them great happiness. David Gershenson, Bobby's close friend, and his manager Steve Blauner also had plane reservations for the wedding which were cancelled after the elopement.

Anita and Tom May entertained a party of friends at the Beverly Hilton Hotel where Tom was honored by the National Jewish Hospital of Denver.

Tom was so witty, and when he made his acceptance speech he said he felt like the actress who said a four letter word when Jack Benny praised her. Cracked his son, David, "Dad ought to put Jack Benny in the store and go on Bennys' show."

Thirty thousand dollars was raised for the hospital, and in the immediate May party were Martha Hyer with Ross Hunter, Lorena Mayer with Bob Goldstein, Anita Adler with Bill Haines, Jacques Mapes, Jimmy McHugh, this writer, Jane Powell with her husband Pat Nerney, Jane and Eddie Robinson were the May guests at one of the nicest and most informal big dinners.

Preparing to leave Rome the end of the week after months of shooting "Come September," Rock Hudson is saying "ariverderci" with an unusual gesture. Working through the American Legion in Italy, Rock has set up a fund for scholarship to go to the most promising young dramatic student, boy or girl, in Italy. Rock will personally contribute enough money each year to see the winner through a year at the Academy of Dramatic Arts in Rome.

For Rock, personally, he'll be very glad to be back in the U.S.A. He left here well over a year ago first going to Mexico for a picture and then directly to Italy for "Come September" with Gina Lollobrigida, Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin.

Minke Hits Petition For Doe Season

The use of a petition calling for an antlerless deer season in presenting a case before the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly was hit yesterday by regional game warden Joseph A. Minke.

Minke referred to a petition submitted to the legislators at Monday night's hearing in the Court House on proposed legislation.

Urner Wigfield, of the Allegany Beagle Club and the Citizens Hunters Committee presented the names in asking for the open season on does.

Minke, who was substantiated by others interested in game management at Monday's hearing, said yesterday that the petition was drawn up by a group having no interest in deer.

The citizens hunters group presented this petition before the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation, an organization composed of sportsmen's clubs in the three western counties.

But this was turned down by the federation. Herbert Knepp, federation president, said the association is in favor of more management for deer.

This will come, Minke pointed out, when a long-range study of deer is completed by Dr. Vagn Flyger, of the State Department of Research and Education.

The state biologist has worked a year and a half on the project and is in the most important phase of the study, Minke said.

When the report is published, the regional game warden pointed out, that certain sections of Western Maryland, where permission will have been obtained from farm land owners, will be placed in a regulated management plan.

On these lands, a certain number of permits will be issued to residents of the county in which they lie, so that the killing of antleress deer will be controlled.

Minke charged that the petition in the hands of the legislators has not been signed by sportsmen, but has been circulated in fraternal groups and endorsed by those not interested in deer management.

The veteran game warden said the groups proposing an open season on does and antlerless deer are interested only in cutting back the deer population to where there are only a few remaining.

The main objection to the increased deer numbers by small game hunters has been that their hounds will chase the deer instead of rabbits.

Clarence E. Myers, secretary of the Wildlife federation, declared that in states having antlerless deer seasons mortality and accident rate among hunters has been ten times greater than in those where only bucks are legal game.

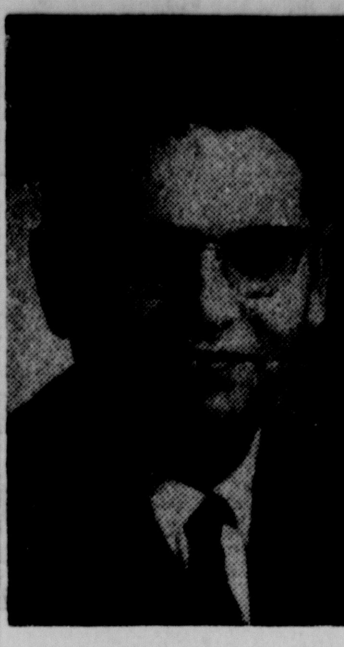
Baptists In Area To Hear Talk By Missionary Today



DR. CORNELL GOERNER

The Western Maryland Baptist Association will hold a service at Second Baptist Church today at 7:30 p. m. with Dr. Cornell Goerner, secretary for Africa, Europe and the Near East for the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, as speaker. Dr. Goerner directs the work of more than 400 missionaries in 16 countries and territories. He will also speak at both services Sunday.

Before his election to the Foreign Mission Board staff in 1957 Dr. Goerner was professor of comparative religion and missions at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

For several years he was managing editor of The Review and Expositor, a Baptist theological quarterly. He is author of four books, "Thus It Is Written," "America Must Be Christian," "Exploring Africa," and "Let's Listen."

A native of Texas, Dr. Goerner received a bachelor of arts degree from Southern Methodist University, Dallas, and the master of theology and the doctor of philosophy degrees from Southern Baptist Seminary. He also studied for one year at Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn.

The emphasis of the meeting will be to challenge people to give to the "Lottie Moon" Christmas offering and to challenge young people to answer God's call to the mission field.

Democrats File Report

Milton Gerson, treasurer for the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee, yesterday filed a report with Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden listing the election costs for the party during the November 8 general balloting.

A total of $8,025.29 was received, with $2,000 of the amount sent to Allegany County from the state Democratic headquarters. Charles F. Heller, chairman of the Kennedy for President Club, listed donations of $1,452.29 in his report to Gerson.

The bulk of the money received by the Democratic committee came from members of the party and officeholders who have benefited from appointments to jobs through the patronage system.

These donations ranged from a high of $300 down to $25 with the sums varying somewhat according to the positions the office holders were given. Some of the large donations were also made by party members who are not officeholders but have supported the party for many years.

A total of $7,962 was spent during the election with Democratic headquarters costs being $1,194. Other expenses were advertisements, hiring of cars to transport voters to the polls and polling place workers.

Insurance Firm Asks Reason For Being Dropped

A representative of the George W. Brown Insurance Company appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to inquire why the firm's share of the county insurance has been taken away from it.

Mrs. H. Elizabeth Brown Shank, asked why the $150,000 coverage which her firm had was not renewed but given to another firm.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that the commissioners each have one-third of the insurance to place and that he had decided to give the business to the Henry Duke insurance firm.

When Mrs. Shank asked why she was told by Rowan that "I have my personal reasons and do not wish to comment any further on the matter."

Commissioner John T. Mason stated to Commissioner William A. Wilson that "you and John (Rowan) set up the one - third for each commissioner program. I believe the insurance business of the county should be allotted to all the firms in the county which are taxpayers."

Commissioner Wilson stated that he has allotted his insurance and does not feel he should attempt to interfere with either of the other two board members in their manner of placing their share of the business.

Mrs. Shank stated "I want this matter placed on the record" just a few moments before she left the meeting room. Commissioner Rowan stated that all the business conducted by the board at the meetings is covered both by the press and radio.

Tax Exemption Advisory Unit Is Appointed

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday appointed six men to serve on an advisory committee to study the tax exemption law affecting new and expanding industries.

Commissioner John T. Mason moved for the appointment of the committee and he named Chester Fisher, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Earl Chaney, local trucking company operator and past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Commissioner John J. Rowan named Leonard Neff, director of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation, and Miller Bowen, Frostburg, a local attorney.

Commissioner William A. Wilson named F. Patrick Allender, business agent of the Carpenters Union, and Eugene P. Brown, a reporter for the Evening and Sunday Times.

The committee will work with John Stitely, supervisor of assessments, and Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners.

The tax exemption law will be studied by the group and later a report on recommendations will be submitted. The county commissioners were advised by Clark that the law should be checked so that certain phases could be clarified and any loopholes which might exist plugged via legislation.

Elks To Hold Memorial Event Sunday

Paul G. Stakem, exalted ruler of Lodge 63 BPOE, has urged all Elks to attend the annual memorial service for deceased members Sunday at 2 p. m. in the lodge room, South Centre Street.

Stakem said the service is open to the public. Letters have been sent to immediate families of the 12 members who died since last year's memorial. Telephone reminders are being made to many Elks but it will be impossible to contact all, Stakem said, in urging a large attendance by members.

George A. Caswell is memorial chairman. Speaker will be Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic parish. Eulogist will be City Attorney William R. Carscaden who is a member of the lodge.

Centre Street Methodist Church Choir, directed by Dr. Charles I. Sager and with Mrs. Robert Gormer as accompanist, will sing. The choir program will include "Open Our Eyes"; "Send Forth Thy Spirit"; "The King's Highway"; and "Souls of the Righteous."

A tableau, "Peace Eternal," will be presented featuring Diane Martin, Frances Hughes, Barbara Hankins and Mary Jo Bedinger.

Other members of the memorial committee are George E. Zegles, Harry S. Tracy and Harry E. Thomas.

The 12 members who have died since the last memorial are R. Schell Miller, Walter R. Alderton, Thomas E. Kearney, Elmer C. Emerson, Joseph M. Miller, John B. Stevens, Clarence F. Schafer, David Miller, Russell L. Reynolds, James C. Reed, Leslie O. Gilliand and Somerville Nicholson.

Liquor Department Supervisor Fired

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Liquor Commissioner Morris Shawkey has announced the dismissal of Don Cashman, Morgantown, supervisor for the department's District 8.

Shawkey said Cashman was asked to resign because he was "not in complete accord" with department directives. Shawkey did not elaborate.

Named to succeed Cashman as supervisor of the district, composed of Taylor, Monongalia, Marion and Preston Counties, was George Garrison, also of Morgantown, a former district supervisor.

Equity Suits Filed

Four new equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Edna R. West vs. Emmert N. West, Roena Elizabeth Mallery vs. Lawrence Winship Mallery Jr., Ruth Ellen Peterson vs. Eugene Paul Peterson and Doris J. Copp vs. Mervin B. Copp.

Seeks Assessor Job

Philip T. Carolan, 619 Shriver Avenue, yesterday made application for the position of assessor with the Allegany County Assessment Department. More than a dozen men have applied to the county commissioners for the post.

Anti-Kennedy Pleas Ignored By Electors

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's eight presidential electors apparently are paying no attention to requests that they refrain from voting for President-elect John Kennedy.

At least four of the eight electors said Friday they had received letters making such requests.

One of the electors, Samuel L. Sollins, Welch, said he didn't "dignify the signed letter by replying to it." Sollins said his letters came from Alabama and was signed by electors from that state.

One elector said she did not get a letter. The other three could not be reached to determine whether they, too, had been approached with similar requests.

B&O Help On Approach To New Bridge

John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, reported yesterday that a 10-foot section on the south approach to the new bridge across the B&O Railroad tracks at Mexico Farms will be filled and tamped by the railroad.

Rowan said a visit to the scene resulted in the railroad assuming the cost of this work. The county paid for the relocation of the Mexico Farms Road to connect with the new bridge.

Rowan also reported that the County Roads Department during the recent construction season had replaced wooden planking on nine small county bridges with metal grid decking. The decking has been covered with a coating of hot macadam to eliminate the danger of skidding by vehicles.

Rowan said the county will eventually replace all wooden decking on bridges in the county and the savings in repairs and maintenance will be quite large over a period of years.

It was also reported that two roads in the Mexico Farms section will have large drainage pipes placed beneath them.

Total cost of the work will be $668.80 and it is hoped to have the federal government contribute matching funds. The pipe will consist of 24 feet of 36 by 22-inch asphalt covered pipe in one place and 40 feet of the same type pipe in another area which needs drainage, according to Rowan.

Bedford Man's Cattle Rated

CHICAGO (AP)—Ray H. Smith & Son of Frederick, Md., exhibited the reserve Holstein junior champion female Friday as the 1960 International Livestock Exposition competition neared completion.

Other awards of the day included:

Parents Win

after much pressure by a former teacher, Robert Herboldsheimer.

The meeting, heated at times, ended on an amicable note with educators agreeing to make an immediate and conscientious survey to determine the possibilities and feasibilities of the requests of the parents. They also agreed to appear before the county commissioners, if necessary, and request funds for additional teachers. And they agreed that if the commissioners refused to make the funds available, they would notify the delegation for possible action at the 1961 session of the Assembly.

There were over 90 people at the "Standing Room Only" meeting, and some 20 persons entered into the lengthy discussion.

Tax Exemption Advisory Unit Is Appointed

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday appointed six men to serve on an advisory committee to study the tax exemption law affecting new and expanding industries.

Commissioner John T. Mason moved for the appointment of the committee and he named Chester Fisher, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Earl Chaney, local trucking company operator and past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Commissioner John J. Rowan named Leonard Neff, director of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation, and Miller Bowen, Frostburg, a local attorney.

Commissioner William A. Wilson named F. Patrick Allender, business agent of the Carpenters Union, and Eugene P. Brown, a reporter for the Evening and Sunday Times.

The committee will work with John Stitely, supervisor of assessments, and Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners.

The tax exemption law will be studied by the group and later a report on recommendations will be submitted. The county commissioners were advised by Clark that the law should be checked so that certain phases could be clarified and any loopholes which might exist plugged via legislation.

Elks To Hold Memorial Event Sunday

Paul G. Stakem, exalted ruler of Lodge 63 BPOE, has urged all Elks to attend the annual memorial service for deceased members Sunday at 2 p. m. in the lodge room, South Centre Street.

Stakem said the service is open to the public. Letters have been sent to immediate families of the 12 members who died since last year's memorial. Telephone reminders are being made to many Elks but it will be impossible to contact all, Stakem said, in urging a large attendance by members.

George A. Caswell is memorial chairman. Speaker will be Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic parish. Eulogist will be City Attorney William R. Carscaden who is a member of the lodge.

Centre Street Methodist Church Choir, directed by Dr. Charles I. Sager and with Mrs. Robert Gormer as accompanist, will sing. The choir program will include "Open Our Eyes"; "Send Forth Thy Spirit"; "The King's Highway"; and "Souls of the Righteous."

A tableau, "Peace Eternal," will be presented featuring Diane Martin, Frances Hughes, Barbara Hankins and Mary Jo Bedinger.

Other members of the memorial committee are George E. Zegles, Harry S. Tracy and Harry E. Thomas.

The 12 members who have died since the last memorial are R. Schell Miller, Walter R. Alderton, Thomas E. Kearney, Elmer C. Emerson, Joseph M. Miller, John B. Stevens, Clarence F. Schafer, David Miller, Russell L. Reynolds, James C. Reed, Leslie O. Gilliand and Somerville Nicholson.

Liquor Department Supervisor Fired

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Liquor Commissioner Morris Shawkey has announced the dismissal of Don Cashman, Morgantown, supervisor for the department's District 8.

Shawkey said Cashman was asked to resign because he was "not in complete accord" with department directives. Shawkey did not elaborate.

Named to succeed Cashman as supervisor of the district, composed of Taylor, Monongalia, Marion and Preston Counties, was George Garrison, also of Morgantown, a former district supervisor.

Equity Suits Filed

Four new equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Edna R. West vs. Emmert N. West, Roena Elizabeth Mallery vs. Lawrence Winship Mallery Jr., Ruth Ellen Peterson vs. Eugene Paul Peterson and Doris J. Copp vs. Mervin B. Copp.

Seeks Assessor Job

Philip T. Carolan, 619 Shriver Avenue, yesterday made application for the position of assessor with the Allegany County Assessment Department. More than a dozen men have applied to the county commissioners for the post.

Anti-Kennedy Pleas Ignored By Electors

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's eight presidential electors apparently are paying no attention to requests that they refrain from voting for President-elect John Kennedy.

At least four of the eight electors said Friday they had received letters making such requests.

One of the electors, Samuel L. Sollins, Welch, said he didn't "dignify the signed letter by replying to it." Sollins said his letters came from Alabama and was signed by electors from that state.

One elector said she did not get a letter. The other three could not be reached to determine whether they, too, had been approached with similar requests.

B&O Help On Approach To New Bridge

John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, reported yesterday that a 10-foot section on the south approach to the new bridge across the B&O Railroad tracks at Mexico Farms will be filled and tamped by the railroad.

Rowan said a visit to the scene resulted in the railroad assuming the cost of this work. The county paid for the relocation of the Mexico Farms Road to connect with the new bridge.

Rowan also reported that the County Roads Department during the recent construction season had replaced wooden planking on nine small county bridges with metal grid decking. The decking has been covered with a coating of hot macadam to eliminate the danger of skidding by vehicles.

Rowan said the county will eventually replace all wooden decking on bridges in the county and the savings in repairs and maintenance will be quite large over a period of years.

It was also reported that two roads in the Mexico Farms section will have large drainage pipes placed beneath them.

Total cost of the work will be $668.80 and it is hoped to have the federal government contribute matching funds. The pipe will consist of 24 feet of 36 by 22-inch asphalt covered pipe in one place and 40 feet of the same type pipe in another area which needs drainage, according to Rowan.

Bedford Man's Cattle Rated

CHICAGO (AP)—Ray H. Smith & Son of Frederick, Md., exhibited the reserve Holstein junior champion female Friday as the 1960 International Livestock Exposition competition neared completion.

Other awards of the day included:

after much pressure by a former teacher, Robert Herboldsheimer.

The meeting, heated at times, ended on an amicable note with educators agreeing to make an immediate and conscientious survey to determine the possibilities and feasibilities of the requests of the parents. They also agreed to appear before the county commissioners, if necessary, and request funds for additional teachers. And they agreed that if the commissioners refused to make the funds available, they would notify the delegation for possible action at the 1961 session of the Assembly.

There were over 90 people at the "Standing Room Only" meeting, and some 20 persons entered into the lengthy discussion.

Missionaries Speak Sunday In Westernport

WESTERNPORT — Florence Byers, missionary to Japan, will speak today at 7:30 p. m. and Sunday at 10:45 a. m. in First Assembly of God, according to Rev. A. Newton Chase pastor.

As supervisor of the God's Love Children's Home, Kobe, Japan, Miss Byers had charge of 28 orphans. In addition to her work at the orphanage, she supervised the building of Evangel Church there and engaged extensively in evangelistic ministry. Her duties also included serving as secretary of the Japan Assemblies of God Missionaries.

While serving for two years in Hawaii, during World War II, Miss Byers assisted at two churches in Honolulu. She was granted permission to hold gospel services for 3,000 Japanese prisoners of war interned in Hawaii.

In preparation for missionary service, Miss Byers attended Beulah Heights Bible Training School, North Bergen, N. J., and assisted the local Assembly in Sunday School work and street meetings.

Miss Byers, at the conclusion of her furlough, will return to Japan.

Rev. James Modder, missionary to North India, will speak Sunday night. Slides will be shown and curios and costumes displayed.

Under appointment of the Foreign Missions Department of the Assemblies of God, with international headquarters at Springfield, Mo., Rev. and Mrs. Modder have served North India since 1935 as managers of the James Harvey Memorial School, an elementary school for boys. The Modders have been in charge of 350 students. In addition to his responsibilities at the school, Rev. Modder engaged in evangelistic ministry in the Bihar district.

In preparation for missionary service, the Modders were graduated from Central Bible Institute, Springfield, Mo. Mrs. Modder is also a registered nurse. Before entering missionary service, they served in Wisconsin.

Rev. and Mrs. Modder have three children: James, 24; Paul, 21 and Marvin, 14.

Tri-Towns Rec Group Sponsoring Tag Day Today

WESTERNPORT — The Tri-Towns Church Recreation Association will observe "Tag Day" today in Piedmont, Westernport, Luke and Bloomington. Receipts will be used to finance the athletic program sponsored by the group.

Churches comprising the association have been designated particular streets and areas to solicit funds.

Keyser Legion Begins Annual Member Drive

KEYSER, W. Va. — About 10 people attended the American Legion Post pig roast held at the Memorial Home in Keyser, Wednesday night, sponsored by Boyce Houser Post No. 21.

The ladies of the Auxiliary assisted in serving the supper which featured generous portions of roast pork, beer, sauerkraut, cider, potato salad and other items. The purpose of the supper was to spark the 1961 Membership Drive of the Post which has set a goal of 300 members by December 15. Half of this membership goal has already been attained and a concentrated drive is planned for the next two weeks.

In addition to local Legion members the meeting was attended by officers and members of Legion posts in Piedmont, Westernport, Moorefield and Ridgeley. According to Post Commander John F. Somerville Jr. another supper is planned during December in addition to other social events.

Valley Holds Hawaiian Luau

Glenn U. Hanna, visiting teacher, whose Board of Education Pupil Personnel office is at Valley High School, is pictured as he has a Hawaiian floral lei placed on him by Janet Loar, 9-3 Home Economics student, clad in authentic muu muu and lei from Hawaii, at a "Luau" at Valley High School, while snow flurries were blowing outdoors. Tiny palm trees made with pipe cleaners and green gumdrops were table favors. The lei were placed on each guest to greet them at the Hawaiian fiesta. This culminated a study of food customs and language of America's fiftieth state.

Missionary From Hungary To Speak At Midlothian

FROSTBURG—Missionary Sunday which is always observed the first Sunday of each month at Trinity Assembly of God Church, Midlothian will be specially marked this month with a guest missionary speaker.

Rev. Stephen Gulyas, a native of Hungary, will speak at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Having come to America to further his education, Rev. Gulyas graduated from North Eastern Bible Institute in Grammingham, Mass. in 1959. After graduation, he returned to Europe where he preached extensively behind the Iron Curtain, especially in Roumania and Czechoslovakia.

At the service Sunday, he will recount many experiences encountered in his unique missionary venture. Rev. James L. Tate welcomes the public and announces that the church bus will make its regular run.

There are about 33 thousand swimming pools in the United States, half of them private.

Missionaries Speak Sunday In Westernport

WESTERNPORT — Florence Byers, missionary to Japan, will speak today at 7:30 p. m. and Sunday at 10:45 a. m. in First Assembly of God, according to Rev. A. Newton Chase pastor.

As supervisor of the God's Love Children's Home, Kobe, Japan, Miss Byers had charge of 28 orphans. In addition to her work at the orphanage, she supervised the building of Evangel Church there and engaged extensively in evangelistic ministry. Her duties also included serving as secretary of the Japan Assemblies of God Missionaries.

While serving for two years in Hawaii, during World War II, Miss Byers assisted at two churches in Honolulu. She was granted permission to hold gospel services for 3,000 Japanese prisoners of war interned in Hawaii.

In preparation for missionary service, Miss Byers attended Beulah Heights Bible Training School, North Bergen, N. J., and assisted the local Assembly in Sunday School work and street meetings.

Miss Byers, at the conclusion of her furlough, will return to Japan.

Rev. James Modder, missionary to North India, will speak Sunday night. Slides will be shown and curios and costumes displayed.

Under appointment of the Foreign Missions Department of the Assemblies of God, with international headquarters at Springfield, Mo., Rev. and Mrs. Modder have served North India since 1935 as managers of the James Harvey Memorial School, an elementary school for boys. The Modders have been in charge of 350 students. In addition to his responsibilities at the school, Rev. Modder engaged in evangelistic ministry in the Bihar district.

In preparation for missionary service, the Modders were graduated from Central Bible Institute, Springfield, Mo. Mrs. Modder is also a registered nurse. Before entering missionary service, they served in Wisconsin.

Rev. and Mrs. Modder have three children: James, 24; Paul, 21 and Marvin, 14.

Tri-Towns Rec Group Sponsoring Tag Day Today

WESTERNPORT — The Tri-Towns Church Recreation Association will observe "Tag Day" today in Piedmont, Westernport, Luke and Bloomington. Receipts will be used to finance the athletic program sponsored by the group.

Churches comprising the association have been designated particular streets and areas to solicit funds.

Keyser Legion Begins Annual Member Drive

KEYSER, W. Va. — About 10[illegible] people attended the American Legion Post pig roast held at the Memorial Home in Keyser, Wednesday night, sponsored by Boyce Houser Post No. 21.

The ladies of the Auxiliary assisted in serving the supper which featured generous portions of roast pork, beer, sauerkraut, cider, potato salad and other items. The purpose of the supper was to spark the 1961 Membership Drive of the Post which has set a goal of 300 members by December 15. Half of this membership goal has already been attained and a concentrated drive is planned for the next two weeks.

In addition to local Legion members the meeting was attended by officers and members of Legion posts in Piedmont, Westernport, Moorefield and Ridgeley. According to Post Commander John F. Somerville Jr. another supper is planned during December in addition to other social events.

Which Status Quo Do We Mean?

Those who specialize in philosophy and logic are always talking about the danger of using terms without defining them, but people who comment on foreign affairs constantly employ the term "status quo" without defining it at all.

The result is often confusing, because "status quo," as applied to foreign affairs, can be used in two quite different senses.

It is repetitiously averred, for instance, that the United States is widely thought of as a defender of the status quo—and in a manner to imply that this is bad. Here status quo is used to mean the state of affairs within a nation. In a nation ruled by a Communist dictatorship there is urgent need to change the status quo, and if this can be done only by revolutionary violence, defense of the status quo should be abandoned.

The status quo in Cuba under Fidel Castro needs changing. Similarly, changes in the international status quo may be necessary and desirable. When a colony, with or without revolutionary violence, gains its independence, the change is usually hailed as good.

In this sense of the term "status quo," then, the United States is not always a defender of the status quo. But there is another sense of the term, used mostly internationally, in which the possibility of internal change may be considered part of the status quo.

The status quo between sovereign nations cannot normally be changed without war or the threat of war. Under this definition a nation is either a defender of the status quo, and therefore of peace, or else an imperialist nation seeking to change the status quo.

America, for example, seeks to maintain a peaceful status quo; Russia not only seeks to change it by force, but has been doing just that.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Robert Kennedy

When it was suggested that Robert F. Kennedy might be appointed Attorney General, there was hardly any objection on the grounds of nepotism. After all, the younger Kennedy had made his own career first as the counsel for the Democrats on the McCarthy Committee and more recently as chief counsel of the Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field. Better known as the McClellan Committe, it exposed labor union corruption in several areas and showed the combination of unions and management in some rackets.

The Kennedys, John, who was a member of the McClellan Committee, and Robert, its chief counsel, were accused of safeguarding Walter Reuther but when Reuther finally appeared for a hearing, the Republican members of the committee either lacked the material or the courage to proceed against him.

If a man writes a book, it is often possible to discern his qualifications. I therefore sat me down of a weekend to read Robert Kennedy's "The Enemy Within," to discover what Robert Kennedy would do were he appointed Attorney General. I knew that when James P. McGranery, President Truman's Attorney General, finished his term, he left behind him a large number of incompleted cases of racketeers in many fields, including labor and small business, for his successor to process. It is possible that had all these cases been adequately processed, Apalachin would not have taken place.

In fact, Robert Kennedy makes the point in his book that in a number of instances, "The lack of action by the Department of Justice is disappointing. It has lost some of the cases through incompetence. Senator McClellan, who was a witness in the perjury trial of James Cross, president of the Bakers Union, made no secret of the fact that he was highly critical of the way the Government attorneys presented that case."

In the case against James Hoffa for wiretapping, Kennedy had arranged for one of its assistants, Carmine Bellino, to give the prosecuting attorney a detailed chronology of Hoffa's whereabouts for every day over a period of about three months in 1953.

So the chief witness for the prosecution said that he had met Hoffa in Detroit on July 10, 1953. Bellino's memo showed that on that date Hoffa was in Seattle, Washington. I quote now from Robert Kennedy:

". . . And much to the embarrassment of the prosecutor, Hoffa was able to bring in documentary evidence as well as witnesses to prove it.

"Afterward, I asked the U. S. Attorney why, with the help of Bellino's memo, he had not been able to get his dates and places straight. He made the astounding admission that he had not read Bellino's memo."

Kennedy cites other similar cases of incompetence, ineptitude or perhaps worse. He says:

"Furthermore, many of the cases that we went to the Justice Department for possible prosecution lay dormant for ten months, a year, and sometimes even longer."

A man who has had this kind of experience with the Attorney General's office is likely, if appointed to the job, to clean up that agency of government which traditionally is a favor-giving outlet for an Administration.

The Department of Justice has several functions, not the least important of which is the speedy prosecution of malefactors on an utterly impartial basis. The administration of the federal courts lies within the jurisdiction of this department. The President makes judicial appointments on the recommendation of the Attorney General. Too often, this is a patronage-ridden agency and federal judges who were once regarded as sacrosanct have not, in recent years, been regarded so favorably.

The FBI, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is not an independent agency of government. It is a department of the Department of Justice. J. Edgar Hoover has, in his own person, established such a prestige that Attorneys General and even Presidents come and go but Hoover stays on and the FBI remains free from departmental interference. Nevertheless, it needs to be said that if an Attorney General desired to abuse the FBI, he could do it. Hoover would, of course, resign under such circumstances. Only the bandits would benefit.

To summarize, were John F. Kennedy not President, there could be no objection to his brother, Robert, being appointed Attorney General. His career would justify it. Therefore there can, in justice, be no objection now.

Fulbright Would Have Two Strikes Against Him As Secretary Of State

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President-elect Kennedy has had to do some difficult soul-searching regarding the qualifications of his friend, Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas to be Secretary of State.

Along with the Senator's profound knowledge of foreign affairs, his great help to Kennedy during the campaign, and his standing with the Senate, Kennedy has had to weigh two serious political strikes against Fulbright.

Strike No. 1 is the fact that he comes from Arkansas and would be labeled by the Communist propaganda artists as the "Secretary of State from Little Rock." Actually Fulbright is not from Little Rock. But this would make no difference. All through Africa, with the new sensitive Negro republics, and all through Asia, even through Latin America with its Negroid-Indian population, Fulbright would have an important strike against him.

Actually Fulbright is no friend of Gov. Orval Faubus. Faubus might even try to defeat him for the Senate. But that makes no difference where the world propaganda mills are concerned.

Fulbright signed the Southern Manifesto against the Supreme Court for its school integration decision, also voted consistently against civil rights. And this is what will be used against him by the propaganda mills.

Kennedy has also had to consider the fact that the American Negroes would bitterly resent Fulbright's appointment as Secretary of State, and it was the Negro vote which went decisively for Kennedy all over the United States. His margin was much greater than the Democratic edge of Negro votes in the Eisenhower-Stevenson election of 1956 and probably he could not have carried many Southern states without it.

Arab Spokesman

Strike No. 2 is the position Fulbright has carved out as spokesman for the Arab bloc. Automatically this wins him the opposition of American Jewry, and the American Jewish vote went almost 90 per cent for Kennedy.

At first, Jewish voters were a bit skeptical about Kennedy, didn't like the neutralist position of his father when ambassador to England. But when they saw Kennedy being hammered because of his religion, almost every Jewish community in the United States rallied to his support, raised money and campaigned for him. They were a decisive factor in his election.

This was called to Kennedy's attention by none other than his running mate, Lyndon Johnson, during their talk at LBJ's ranch. Johnson has a high regard for Fulbright, but he also knew first-hand of Fulbright's battle on the Senate floor last May against a freedom of the seas amendment to the foreign aid bill favoring the passage of Israeli ships through the Suez Canal and also condemning the Arab boycott of vessels calling at Israeli ports.

Johnson was vividly familiar with the facts because he took the lead in defeating Fulbright.

The amendment, introduced by Senators Douglas of Illinois and Keating of New York, was aimed at withholding American aid to Colonel Nasser if he continued to refuse the transit of Israeli vessels or Israeli cargoes through Suez, despite a UN Security Council admonition to do so. It also aimed at countering the spreading Arab boycott of American vessels for calling at Israel ports.

Fulbright, in attacking the amendment, angrily declared:

"Why attack the Arabs if you are not going to accomplish anything by it—anything, that is, beyond the appeasement of certain uninformed minority groups in the United States."

This reference to the Jews as "uniformed minority groups" aroused great resentment. So did Fulbright's further insinuation that American Jews put Israel ahead of the United States. He said: "We have seen the rise of organizations dedicated apparently not to America, but to foreign states and groups."

Senator Johnson led the drive to defeat Fulbright, and did so by a heavy majority.

A few days after the vote, the Senate Foreign Relations chairman flew to Egypt, and the fact that he was enthusiastically received by Nasser, later made some complimentary statements about Nasser's operation of the Suez Canal, aroused further resentment among American Jews.

Man On Camel-Back

As a final climax, the Senator from Arkansas shortly thereafter appeared before the Middle East Institute, subsidized by American oil companies, where he was hailed as a hero.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency, May 20, 1960, reported this meeting as follows:

"State Department officers and oil company representatives applauded wildly as Arabs hailed Sen. Fulbright and denounced the American Jewish community for alleged pressures. One oil company officer, a corporate contributor to the Middle East Institute, confided to fellow diners at his table that Hitler did not go far enough in his extermination program.

"There is no pressure like Arab pressure and Chairman Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations committee is its prophet," added the telegraphic agency. "When Senator Fulbright condemned a 'pressure group' linked to alien interests, he referred to supporters of Israel. He ignored the real pressure group, the powerful lobby, supported by the State Department, which has proclaimed him its man on camel-back."

These are some of the political factors Sen. Kennedy has had to balance off against Sen. Fulbright's many qualifications to be Secretary of State.

What Can Be Expected Of The New Congress?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Everybody is discussing the kind of administration John F. Kennedy, as President, is going to give the country, but there seems to be little attention focused on the kind of job the nation may expect of Congress.

Will it be a responsible or an irresponsible Congress? Will it do the things that maintain a stable dollar, or will it bring about the inflation that will rob the workingman of the purchasing power of his wages?

The role played by the Democratic-controlled Congress in bringing about the chaos in the international business situation of today has not been made clear to the American people. While, for instance, the outflow of gold is doubtless not due to any single factor, it can be persuasively argued that the Democratic leadership in Congress, by its refusal to remove the interest ceiling on U.S. government bonds of five years or more, contributed a great deal to the current crisis in gold.

Some politicians have always been inclined to feel that they can run the government on a socialistic basis—that is, that they can mould the law of supply and demand to fit their own concepts of what will prove popular or bring votes. But every now and then actual experience catches up with theory, and the nation pays the penalty for the mistakes of the theorists.

When interest rates in the last two years started rising all over the world, and especially in the United States because of the increasing demand for investment funds to meet the needs of natural economic growth, the United States was faced with the simple effects of the law of supply and demand. Our government, in borrowing money, cannot be paying very much lss for prime securities than the non-governmental institutions and businesses in America are paying for money. There is a close relationship between the rates on the two sets of borrowings.

Ordinarily the law of supply and demand fixes the interest rates. The U.S. Treasury, however, which has to refinance constantly the enormous public debt, cannot always wait for more propitious moments to float its loans. It must go into the market and pay the current rate. The situation normally tends to iron itself out as demand and supply balance one another. Eventually, as the demand falls off, the interest rate drops, too.

But when the Congress yields to the demagogic politicians who cry out against "high interest rates," a serious blow is struck at the normal and natural processes of the law of supply and demand. Last year and this year the Congress turned thumbs down on the request of the Treasury for a free hand in dealing with the sale of government securities. There was a blast from the politicians that interest rates must not be allowed to rise. This view was shortsighted. Interest rates would have not gone higher for any length of time but would have gradually reduced themselves. Meanwhile, foreign-owned funds would have remained inside the United States, and there wouldn't have been such a tendency to send gold out of the country to earn the higher interest rates being paid abroad.

As a consequence of the interference by Congress with the natural fixing of interest rates on a supply-and-demand basis, the business situation inside the United States was worsened. While the steel strike caused a recession, a recovery movement this year was further complicated by the bad effects on foreign-trade markets caused by the outflow of gold from America.

Just as Congress commits a serious error in interfering with the law of supply and demand in the sale of government securities —something that makes extremely difficult the sound management or refinancing of the national debt — so also is there grave doubt whether control of interest rates domestically by the Federal Reserve can be effective as long as the Congress of the United States usurps executive functions. The Treasury should not be deprived of the flexibility needed in handling the biggest single factor in the money markets of the world today — the price that the U.S. government is compelled to pay for borrowed funds in the open market.

FUTURE LOOKS ROSY—Election results have vastly encouraged the defeated Republican Party in a conviction that the 1960 campaign has built a firm foundation for victory in the years ahead. In Washington these days it's pretty hard to tell the winners from the losers.

Usually, the vanquished party in a Presidential election is glum, morose, gifted with hindsight and awash with might-have-beens. Not so the GOP, circa 1960.

Their optimism stems from the narrow popular vote majority by which John F. Kennedy won the election—a majority that constantly shrank as the count dribbled in from the hinterlands. They believe that the Republican Presidential candidate will have more going for him in 1964 and that he stands a good chance of capturing the White House then.

For one thing, the GOP candidate will not be hobbled by having to defend all of the activities of the Eisenhower administration, as did Richard M. Nixon.

For another, he'll have the advantage of free-wheeling criticism of four years of the Kennedy administration, which patently cannot produce on all its platform and campaign promises.

A third factor deals with the coincidence of a declining economic atmosphere which hurt the GOP cause this year, but will either be no factor, or a beneficial factor to the Republican candidate in 1964.

As things look today, Nixon undoubtedly will be his party's selection to make the Presidential run next time. He made a surprisingly good showing round the country this time, particularly in the areas outside of the industrialized, liberal and heavily Catholic East.

Should Baby Eat Bacon And Scrambled Eggs?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most babies receive solid foods at 3 to 4 months of age but the trend is to start earlier. There is no doubt that young babies can swallow cereals, meats, and strained vegetables. The portions are no larger than curds of milk that are regurgitated and reswallowed by all infants.

Most of the pressure toward solid foods stems from parents who have been sold on the idea through health articles, friends and relatives. The majority of physicians go along because it does no harm and they might be regarded as old fashioned if they advocate feedings composed largely of milk.

Dr. Walter W. Sackett Jr., of Miami, introduces solids shortly after birth. This is done for no other reason than to teach the child to fit into the pattern of family life as soon as possible.

The babies under his care are started on a 6 hour feeding schedule at the hospital. On the second or third day they receive cereal of the consistency of putty. Meat, vegetables, and fruits are given at 4 to 7 day intervals and by the end of the 17th day, the parents are instructed to drop the midnight feeding and start little Oscar on three meals a day. By the ripe old age of 9 weeks, these tots are enjoying a full breakfast, including crushed crisp bacon and scrambled eggs.

Dr. Sackett has used this schedule on more than 700 babies and there was not one who couldn't take it. These children have encountered few feeding problems because they were taught from birth that there are foods other than milk.

This tends to prove that babies can tolerate almost anything. But let's not rob them of their infancy for the sake of science. We are adults for a long, long time.

ALWAYS HUNGRY

M. B. C. writes: My husband and I are in our forties and both have the same complaint. Shortly after eating a big meal we feel hungry. Sometimes even eating doesn't take away this sensation. What's the answer to this oddity?

REPLY

Food may be assuming a more important place in your life. This happens to people your age and unless the urge is curbed or compensated for by other activities, weight gain is inevitable. I assume there is no physical reason for the sensation, such as an overactive thyroid, diabetes, or tapeworm.

LAZY LIVER

G. B. writes: How can you make a lazy liver work?

REPLY

A damaged liver works best when fed proteins and carbohydrates. It should not be abused with alcohol and other poisons.

CARROTS

H. M. writes: Will drinking a pint of carrot juice a day make the skin turn yellow?

REPLY

Yes, because a pint of carrot juice is loaded with a dietary pigment that stains the skin yellow. This pigmentation usually is harmless to health but may be unattractive.

PREGNANCY

Mrs. G. writes: What kind of diet should a pregnant woman have?

REPLY

The usual balanced diet with approximately the same number of calories. But emphasis should be placed on proteins, vitamins, and minerals rather than fats and carbohydrates. A new vitamin-mineral (including calcium) product is on the market to take care of any dietary deficiency that might exist.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

An effective, and oft-repeated, sermon of a deeply respected old preacher in Savannah goes something like this: "Brethren and sisters, the Good Book tells us that if some low-down rascal smacks us on one cheek, we should just turn round and let him smack us on the other cheek, too. But brethren and sisters, I remind you in all piety and forebearance that the third lick, the very important third lick, BELONGS TO US."

A fellow officer, notes Paul Healy, once told Major General Joe Maas that he was the only Marine general to have served a full year while blind.

"Not really," chuckled General Maas. "I'm just the first to admit it."

The Ganges River for untold centuries has been holy to Hindu India. People of all stations come to bathe in it. For those unable to make the pilgrimage, water is bottled and carried home. A Writer Of Fire

By John Crosby

I am far from the first person to discover Sylvia Ashton-Warner nor even her second book, "Incense to Idols," which is said to be not as good as her first book, 'Spinster." Some say it is not a good book at all, "Incense to Idols," and I'm not even sure but that they are right.

But what a writer she is! Intensely feminine, intensely female, intensely womanly, she reminds me in mood and in tone of Colette, different as they are. There have been women writers before—Jane Austen, to name the most conspicuous example — but while they thought like women, they wrote in the manner of men. Writers like Colette and Miss Ashton-Warner, on the other hand, have almost invented a feminine language, a female sentence structure, girl syntax. "I still cultivate my depravities and venerate my idols to indulge very sense I've got." What man would write like that?

What is the difference between men and and women? Well, men writers act? (Hemingway is a blatant example.) Women react. "As a role, I was born to listening," says Germaine the heroine, who speaks for the author. The author has certainly done a lot of listening. And also, smelling and tasting and looking and feeling and perhaps experiencing six or seven other senses I haven't got. This woman feels, and gets me to feel, organs I didn't know I had—reacting to light and shade and poetry, to music and beauty and to people. Especially to people.

"Incense to Idols" is the tale, all told in interior monologue, of a celebrated and amoral and passionate Parisienne concert pianist who arrives in New Zealand, her widow's weeds still new but marvelously child, in search of the greatest piano teacher in the world and, quite incidentally but importantly, a husband.

One finds her first at church listening—or rather not listening —to the minister, whose voice she likes and whose priestly sentiments she finds revolting. Men drift into her life and she reacts and sups on them, as separately and individually as if they were wines.

Miss Ashton-Warner writes, in fact, as if she were composing a symphony. Each man is different —a man of God, a man of music, a man of science, a man of clay, an ordinary mortal husband. And she—this pagan, sensuous, witty Frenchwoman — is the constant theme, changing her orchestration, her tonal qualities for each—repeating her central theme on the piccolo, in the brasses, in the woodwinds—depending on what is appropriate to the occasion, she and her inner music.

"You wouldn't think would you?—" (Get that punctuation. Already the question mark, although the sentence is barely begun)—"that I could hear a discreet knock on my one door with the left hand running in the bass as it is but I can quite easily. I can hear just about anything you know long before other people which is a quality of my infirmity. I can hear birds breathing a mile off or at the height of a New Zealand storm. So I leave the keyboard where I have been working in cool sobriety and stroll toward the door slowly . . . giving me time to sort out who it's, who it . . . look at the small white petal lying alone on the dark table from the flowering Prunus I put out this morning, a still petal, just one, with no branch, bush, or background . . . giving myself time to . . . but I doubt I'm in the mood for anyone whoever it is."

So. A knock at the door. A bit of plot. (Who's there? Why?) A chord or two of the inner music. A flash of the inner fire. A bit of the precise and melodic style which is Miss Ashton-Warner's most attractive weapon. You can read her sentence by sentence, sipping her like wine, tasting her like food, like love, peeling her layer by layer to get the center of this intensely selfish, and sensuous, and intelligent and yet likeable Frenchwoman, with her harmonious complexities, her quivering vibrant life.

"What did your father have against you?" "He said I killed my mother." "I see."

"After an evening a night and a dawn with five men in sequence I'm not in the slightest bit different; I remain a single petal floating by on waters unfathomed."

Candor forces me to admit that Miss Ashton-Warner loses me in the last fifty pages. This is an intensely moral story underneath the amoralities and the trouble with Miss Ashton-Warner as with so many other writers is that she writes the amoralities with so much more music and conviction than the moralities. But the first two or three hundred pages are more than enough, so compelling, so individual so piercing is her style or—to use one of her own favorite words—her technique. How long it's been since we had a writer who had any technique to speak of.

Which Status Quo Do We Mean?

Those who specialize in philosophy and logic are always talking about the danger of using terms without defining them, but people who comment on foreign affairs constantly employ the term "status quo" without defining it at all.

The result is often confusing, because "status quo," as applied to foreign affairs, can be used in two quite different senses.

It is repetitiously averred, for instance, that the United States is widely thought of as a defender of the status quo—and in a manner to imply that this is bad. Here status quo is used to mean the state of affairs within a nation. In a nation ruled by a Communist dictatorship there is urgent need to change the status quo, and if this can be done only by revolutionary violence, defense of the status quo should be abandoned.

The status quo in Cuba under Fidel Castro needs changing. Similarly, changes in the international status quo may be necessary and desirable. When a colony, with or without revolutionary violence, gains its independence, the change is usually hailed as good.

In this sense of the term "status quo," then, the United States is not always a defender of the status quo. But there is another sense of the term, used mostly internationally, in which the possibility of internal change may be considered part of the status quo.

The status quo between sovereign nations cannot normally be changed without war or the threat of war. Under this definition a nation is either a defender of the status quo, and therefore of peace, or else an imperialist nation seeking to change the status quo.

America, for example, seeks to maintain a peaceful status quo; Russia not only seeks to change it by force, but has been doing just that.

These Days

Robert Kennedy

When it was suggested that Robert F. Kennedy might be appointed Attorney General, there was hardly any objection on the grounds of nepotism. After all, the younger Kennedy had made his own career first as the counsel for the Democrats on the McCarthy Committee and more recently as chief counsel of the Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field. Better known as the McClellan Committe, it exposed labor union corruption in several areas and showed the combination of unions and management in some rackets.

The Kennedys, John, who was a member of the McClellan Committee, and Robert, its chief counsel, were accused of safeguarding Walter Reuther but when Reuther finally appeared for a hearing, the Republican members of the committee either lacked the material or the courage to proceed against him.

If a man writes a book, it is often possible to discern his qualifications. I therefore sat me down of a weekend to read Robert Kennedy's "The Enemy Within," to discover what Robert Kennedy would do were he appointed Attorney General. I knew that when James P. McGranery, President Truman's Attorney General, finished his term, he left behind him a large number of incompleted cases of racketeers in many fields, including labor and small business, for his successor to process. It is possible that had all these cases been adequately processed, Apalachin would not have taken place.

In fact, Robert Kennedy makes the point in his book that in a number of instances, "The lack of action by the Department of Justice is disappointing. It has lost some of the cases through incompetence. Senator McClellan, who was a witness in the perjury trial of James Cross, president of the Bakers Union, made no secret of the fact that he was highly critical of the way the Government attorneys presented that case."

In the case against James Hoffa for wiretapping, Kennedy had arranged for one of its assistants, Carmine Bellino, to give the prosecuting attorney a detailed chronology of Hoffa's whereabouts for every day over a period of about three months in 1953.

So the chief witness for the prosecution said that he had met Hoffa in Detroit on July 10, 1953. Bellino's memo showed that on that date Hoffa was in Seattle, Washington. I quote now from Robert Kennedy:

". . . And much to the embarrassment of the prosecutor, Hoffa was able to bring in documentary evidence as well as witnesses to prove it.

"Afterward, I asked the U. S. Attorney why, with the help of Bellino's memo, he had not been able to get his dates and places straight. He made the astounding admission that he had not read Bellino's memo."

Kennedy cites other similar cases of incompetence, ineptitude or perhaps worse. He says:

"Furthermore, many of the cases that we went to the Justice Department for possible prosecution lay dormant for ten months, a year, and sometimes even longer."

A man who has had this kind of experience with the Attorney General's office is likely, if appointed to the job, to clean up that agency of government which traditionally is a favor-giving outlet for an Administration.

The Department of Justice has several functions, not the least important of which is the speedy prosecution of malefactors on an utterly impartial basis. The administration of the federal courts lies within the jurisdiction of this department. The President makes judicial appointments on the recommendation of the Attorney General. Too often, this is a patronage-ridden agency and federal judges who were once regarded as sacrosanct have not, in recent years, been regarded so favorably.

The FBI, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is not an independent agency of government. It is a department of the Department of Justice. J. Edgar Hoover has, in his own person, established such a prestige that Attorneys General and even Presidents come and go but Hoover stays on and the FBI remains free from departmental interference. Nevertheless, it needs to be said that if an Attorney General desired to abuse the FBI, he could do it. Hoover would, of course, resign under such circumstances. Only the bandits would benefit.

To summarize, were John F. Kennedy not President, there could be no objection to his brother, Robert, being appointed Attorney General. His career would justify it. Therefore there can, in justice, be no objection now.

Fulbright Would Have Two Strikes Against Him As Secretary Of State

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President-elect Kennedy has had to do some difficult soul-searching regarding the qualifications of his friend, Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas to be Secretary of State.

Along with the Senator's profound knowledge of foreign affairs, his great help to Kennedy during the campaign, and his standing with the Senate, Kennedy has had to weigh two serious political strikes against Fulbright.

Strike No. 1 is the fact that he comes from Arkansas and would be labeled by the Communist propaganda artists as the "Secretary of State from Little Rock." Actually Fulbright is not from Little Rock. But this would make no difference. All through Africa, with the new sensitive Negro republics, and all through Asia, even through Latin America with its Negroid-Indian population, Fulbright would have an important strike against him.

Actually Fulbright is no friend of Gov. Orval Faubus. Faubus might even try to defeat him for the Senate. But that makes no difference where the world propaganda mills are concerned.

Fulbright signed the Southern Manifesto against the Supreme Court for its school integration decision, also voted consistently against civil rights. And this is what will be used against him by the propaganda mills.

Kennedy has also had to consider the fact that the American Negroes would bitterly resent Fulbright's appointment as Secretary of State, and it was the Negro vote which went decisively for Kennedy all over the United States. His margin was much greater than the Democratic edge of Negro votes in the Eisenhower-Stevenson election of 1956 and probably he could not have carried many Southern states without it.

Arab Spokesman

Strike No. 2 is the position Fulbright has carved out as spokesman for the Arab bloc. Automatically this wins him the opposition of American Jewry, and the American Jewish vote went almost 90 per cent for Kennedy.

At first, Jewish voters were a bit skeptical about Kennedy, didn't like the neutralist position of his father when ambassador to England. But when they saw Kennedy being hammered because of his religion, almost every Jewish community in the United States rallied to his support, raised money and campaigned for him. They were a decisive factor in his election.

This was called to Kennedy's attention by none other than his running mate, Lyndon Johnson, during their talk at LBJ's ranch. Johnson has a high regard for Fulbright, but he also knew firsthand of Fulbright's battle on the Senate floor last May against a freedom of the seas amendment to the foreign aid bill favoring the passage of Israeli ships through the Suez Canal and also condemning the Arab boycott of vessels calling at Israeli ports.

Johnson was vividly familiar with the facts because he took the lead in defeating Fulbright.

The amendment, introduced by Senators Douglas of Illinois and Keating of New York, was aimed at withholding American aid to Colonel Nasser if he continued to refuse the transit of Israeli vessels or Israeli cargoes through Suez, despite a UN Security Council admonition to do so. It also aimed at countering the spreading Arab boycott of American vessels for calling at Israel ports.

Fulbright, in attacking the amendment, angrily declared:

"Why attack the Arabs if you are not going to accomplish anything by it—anything, that is, beyond the appeasement of certain uninformed minority groups in the United States."

This reference to the Jews as "uniformed minority groups" aroused great resentment. So did Fulbright's further insinuation that American Jews put Israel ahead of the United States. He said: "We have seen the rise of organizations dedicated apparently not to America, but to foreign states and groups."

Senator Johnson led the drive to defeat Fulbright, and did so by a heavy majority.

A few days after the vote, the Senate Foreign Relations chairman flew to Egypt, and the fact that he was enthusiastically received by Nasser, later made some complimentary statements about Nasser's operation of the Suez Canal, aroused further resentment among American Jews.

Man On Camel-Back

As a final climax, the Senator from Arkansas shortly thereafter appeared before the Middle East Institute, subsidized by American oil companies, where he was hailed as a hero.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency, May 20, 1960, reported this meeting as follows:

"State Department officers and oil company representatives applauded wildly as Arabs hailed Sen. Fulbright and denounced the American Jewish community for alleged pressures. One oil company officer, a corporate contributor to the Middle East Institute, confided to fellow diners at his table that Hitler did not go far enough in his extermination program.

"There is no pressure like Arab pressure and Chairman Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations committee is its prophet," added the telegraphic agency. "When Senator Fulbright condemned a 'pressure group' linked to alien interests, he referred to supporters of Israel. He ignored the real pressure group, the powerful lobby, supported by the State Department, which has proclaimed him its man on camel-back."

These are some of the political factors Sen. Kennedy has had to balance off against Sen. Fulbright's many qualifications to be Secretary of State.

And she—this pagan, sensuous, witty Frenchwoman — is the constant theme, changing her orchestration, her tonal qualities for each—repeating her central theme on the piccolo, in the brasses, in the woodwinds—depending on what is appropriate to the occasion, she and her inner music.

"You wouldn't think would you?—" (Get that punctuation. Already the question mark, although the sentence is barely begun)—"that I could hear a discreet knock on my one door with the left hand running in the bass as it is but I can quite easily. I can hear just about anything you know long before other people which is a quality of my infirmity. I can hear birds breathing a mile off or at the height of a New Zealand storm. So I leave the keyboard where I have been working in cool sobriety and stroll toward the door slowly . . . giving me time to sort out who it's, who it . . . look at the small white petal lying alone on the dark table from the flowering Prunus I put out this morning, a still petal, just one, with no branch, bush, or background . . . giving myself time to . . . but I doubt I'm in the mood for anyone whoever it is."

So. A knock at the door. A bit of plot. (Who's there? Why?) A chord or two of the inner music. A flash of the inner fire. A bit of the precise and melodic style which is Miss Ashton-Warner's most attractive weapon. You can read her sentence by sentence, sipping her like wine, tasting her like food, like love, peeling her layer by layer to get the center of this intensely selfish, and sensuous, and intelligent and yet likeable Frenchwoman, with her harmonious complexities, her quivering vibrant life.

"What did your father have against you?" "He said I killed my mother." "I see."

"After an evening a night and a dawn with five men in sequence I'm not in the slightest bit different; I remain a single petal floating by on waters unfathomed."

Candor forces me to admit that Miss Ashton-Warner loses me in the last fifty pages. This is an intensely moral story underneath the amoralities and the trouble with Miss Ashton-Warner as with so many other writers is that she writes the amoralities with so much more music and conviction than the moralities. But the first two or three hundred pages are more than enough, so compelling, so individual so piercing is her style or—to use one of her own favorite words—her technique. How long it's been since we had a writer who had any technique to speak of.

Should Baby Eat Bacon And Scrambled Eggs?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most babies receive solid foods at 3 to 4 months of age but the trend is to start earlier. There is no doubt that young babies can swallow cereals, meats, and strained vegetables. The portions are no larger than curds of milk that are regurgitated and reswallowed by all infants.

Most of the pressure toward solid foods stems from parents who have been sold on the idea through health articles, friends and relatives. The majority of physicians go along because it does no harm and they might be regarded as old fashioned if they advocate feedings composed largely of milk.

Dr. Walter W. Sackett Jr., of Miami, introduces solids shortly after birth. This is done for no other reason than to teach the child to fit into the pattern of family life as soon as possible.

The babies under his care are started on a 6 hour feeding schedule at the hospital. On the second or third day they receive cereal of the consistency of putty. Meat, vegetables, and fruits are given at 4 to 7 day intervals and by the end of the 17th day, the parents are instructed to drop the midnight feeding and start little Oscar on three meals a day. By the ripe old age of 9 weeks, these tots are enjoying a full breakfast, including crushed crisp bacon and scrambled eggs.

Dr. Sackett has used this schedule on more than 700 babies and there was not one who couldn't take it. These children have encountered few feeding problems because they were taught from birth that there are foods other than milk.

This tends to prove that babies can tolerate almost anything. But let's not rob them of their infancy for the sake of science. We are adults for a long, long time.

ALWAYS HUNGRY

M. B. C. writes: My husband and I are in our forties and both have the same complaint. Shortly after eating a big meal we feel hungry. Sometimes even eating doesn't take away this sensation. What's the answer to this oddity?

REPLY

Food may be assuming a more important place in your life. This happens to people your age and unless the urge is curbed or compensated for by other activities, weight gain is inevitable. I assume there is no physical reason for the sensation, such as an overactive thyroid, diabetes, or tapeworm.

LAZY LIVER

G. B. writes: How can you make a lazy liver work?

REPLY

A damaged liver works best when fed proteins and carbohydrates. It should not be abused with alcohol and other poisons.

CARROTS

H. M. writes: Will drinking a pint of carrot juice a day make the skin turn yellow?

REPLY

Yes, because a pint of carrot juice is loaded with a dietary pigment that stains the skin yellow. This pigmentation usually is harmless to health but may be unattractive.

PREGNANCY

Mrs. G. writes: What kind of diet should a pregnant woman have?

REPLY

The usual balanced diet with approximately the same number of calories. But emphasis should be placed on proteins, vitamins, and minerals rather than fats and carbohydrates. A new vitamin-mineral (including calcium) product is on the market to take care of any dietary deficiency that might exist.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

An effective, and oft-repeated, sermon of a deeply respected old preacher in Savannah goes something like this: "Brethren and sisters, the Good Book tells us that if some low-down rascal smacks us on one cheek, we should just turn round and let him smack us on the other cheek, too. But brethren and sisters, I remind you in all piety and forebearance that the third lick, the very important third lick, BELONGS TO US."

A fellow officer, notes Paul Healy, once told Major General Joe Maas that he was the only Marine general to have served a full year while blind.

"Not really," chuckled General Maas. "I'm just the first to admit it."

The Ganges River for untold centuries has been holy to Hindu India. People of all stations come to bathe in it. For those unable to make the pilgrimage, water is bottled and carried home. Ganges water keeps for years without stagnation — so tradition goes — and a single drop on the tongue or eyelids of a dying man is believed to cleanse him of sin.

Ospreys, or sea hawks, build huge nests several feet in diameter and return to them year after year. Before migrating south in the fall, ospreys reinforce their nests with fresh sticks as a buttress against winter storms. Smaller birds sometimes hollow out homes in the lower portion of the bulky nests.

Florida now leads the nation in the number of educational television stations. The state has five ETV stations and four more planned. More than three million Floridians, or almost 80 per cent of the state's population, are able to view educational TV.

Ridgeley Defeats Romney, 62-45; Piedmont Triumphs

Blackhawks Post Second Win In Row

1960 State Champs Suffer First Loss In Two Seasons

Coach Thomas O'Connor's Ridgeley High School Blackhawks notched their second basketball victory in as many nights when they downed the Romney High School Pioneers last night at Romney in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt by the score of 62-45.

Romney High School, West Virginia Class AA champions of last season, was making its 1960-61 debut under Coach Roger Parker and suffered its first loss in two seasons. The Pioneers scored 27 consecutive victories last season and were 17-0 in the P.V.C. Romney's entire first string team of last season was graduated in June.

Dave Imes and Delford Schoonover sparked the Ridgeley attack with 15 points each while Jimmy Powelson tossed in 14 markers.

The Blackhawks collected 27 field goals to the Pioneers' 20 and outpointed the Hampshire Countians 8 to 5 at the charity line.

Ridgeley held a 32-24 advantage at halftime.

Shepherd Downs Lynchburg, 60-57

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Jim Conner poured in 13 points in the final 10 minutes as he led Shepherd College to a 60-57 basketball victory over Lynchburg College Friday night.

Trailing by two points at the end of the first half, the Rams from Shepherdstown, W. Va., broke a 41-41 deadlock on a pair of free throws by Conner with 4:25 remaining, and held on to the slim lead for the rest of the contest.

LC's Dave Crawford was the game scoring leader with 26 points and proved to be a vital cog in the Hornet offense, too, stealing the ball numerous times and breaking up plays all over the court.

Conner's 18 points was high for Shepherd.

Franklin High Winner, 59-53

Franklin High School's Panthers made Harlan Hott's debut as their basketball coach a winning one last night when they whipped Marlinton (W. Va.) High School at Franklin by the score of 59-53.

Dave Propst, Charles Moyers and Ronnie Gilkeson with 19, 16 and 13 tallies sparked the attack of the Panthers who collected 27 field goals to 22 for the visitors.

Bob Galford was the "big gun" for Marlinton with 13 field goals and 29 points to his credit.

Rain Washes Out Victorian Finale

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Rain forced the postponement of Friday's matches in the Victorian tennis championships, and if the bad weather continues on Saturday the first All-American men's singles final in the 80-year history of this tourney will be permanently washed out.

Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio and Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis are listed to play Saturday, but tournament chairman Harold Cornish warned Friday that the tourney would be abandoned it it couldn't be completed on schedule.

Three Eastern Players Make All-America

Bellino, Balme And Ditka Named

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Bellino and Pervis Atkins provide the devastating halfback punch on the 1960 Associated Press All-America football team which boasts a line averaging 226 pounds.

The team announced Friday has Mississippi quarterback Jake Gibbs and Ohio State fullback Bob Ferguson in the backfield with Navy's Bellino and New Mexico State's Atkins.

Gopher Guard Named

One of the heaviest forward walls in All-America history is spearheaded by Tom Brown, the 224-pound guard who led Minnesota to the national collegiate championship, just as Dean Widseth (1936) and Dick Wildung (1941) had done.

Ben Balme of unbeaten, untied Yale is the other guard, with Roy McKasson, the quick-hitting pivot of the Rose Bowl-bound Washington Huskies, at center.

Pitt Player Chosen

Danny Larose of Missouri and Mike Ditka of Pitt were selected in a particularly close battle at ends. The deciding factor was their versatility, giving them the votes over 1959 All-Americas Marlin McKeever and Fred Mautino among others.

Another 1959 selection who missed a repeat was Washington quarterback Bob Schloredt. He was sidelined most of the season due to a broken collarbone.

The Associated Press All-America was picked on the basis of recommendations of eight regional boards composed of sportswriters, broadcasters and takes into account all games through Nov. 26.

Golden Nugget Wins

The Golden Nugget won two out of three games from Peck's Cafe in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. Sammy Gracie paced the winners with 20 points and Art Hanna was high for Peck's with 15 tallies.

INJUNS AFTER HIM—Johnny Antonelli, one of the star pitchers of the San Francisco Giants' staff, who had a 6-7 record this season after twice winning 20 or more games, is being sought by the Cleveland Indians to bolster their pitching staff.

Harry Wismer Sells Stock In Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harry Wismer received a $350,000 check Friday and Attorney Milton King received the 25 per cent of stock Wismer owned in the Washington Redskins.

The official sale of 200 stock shares formally concluded Wismer's association with the Redskins, whose games he used to broadcast. Wismer, who now owns the New York Titans of the new American Football League, was ordered to sell his 25 per cent interest by Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League.

Lakers Top Boston, Jerry West Stars

BOSTON (UPI)—Rookie Jerry West scored a pair of crucial baskets in the final 35 seconds Friday night as the Los Angeles Lakers edged Boston, 120-117, and dropped the Celtics into a tie for first place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The Celtics, trailing throughout most of the game, had a 117-116 lead with less than a minute remaining when the former West Virginia All-America hit a 30-foot set shot. Fifteen seconds later, he took a pass from Elgin Baylor and registered an insurance basket.

Baylor, in the dual role of playmaker and scorer, led the winners with 23 points. Boston's Bill Sharman was top scorer of the game with 32 points.

It was only the Lakers' second win over Boston in the last 32 games and forced the Celtics into a tie with the Philadelphia Warriors.

Blackhawks Post Second Win In Row

1960 State Champs Suffer First Loss In Two Seasons

Coach Thomas O'Connor's Ridgeley High School Blackhawks notched their second basketball victory in as many nights when they downed the Romney High School Pioneers last night at Romney in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt by the score of 62-45.

Romney High School, West Virginia Class AA champions of last season, was making its 1960-61 debut under Coach Roger Parker and suffered its first loss in two seasons. The Pioneers scored 27 consecutive victories last season and were 17-0 in the P.V.C. Romney's entire first string team of last season was graduated in June.

Dave Imes and Delford Schoonover sparked the Ridgeley attack with 15 points each while Jimmy Powelson tossed in 14 markers.

The Blackhawks collected 27 field goals to the Pioneers' 20 and outpointed the Hampshire Countians 8 to 5 at the charity line.

Ridgeley held a 32-24 advantage at halftime.

Shepherd Downs Lynchburg, 60-57

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Jim Conner poured in 13 points in the final 10 minutes as he led Shepherd College to a 60-57 basketball victory over Lynchburg College Friday night.

Trailing by two points at the end of the first half, the Rams from Shepherdstown, W. Va., broke a 41-41 deadlock on a pair of free throws by Conner with 4:25 remaining, and held on to the slim lead for the rest of the contest.

LC's Dave Crawford was the game scoring leader with 26 points and proved to be a vital cog in the Hornet offense, too, stealing the ball numerous times and breaking up plays all over the court.

Conner's 18 points was high for Shepherd.

Franklin High Winner, 59-53

Franklin High School's Panthers made Harlan Hott's debut as their basketball coach a winning one last night when they whipped Marlinton (W. Va.) High School at Franklin by the score of 59-53.

Dave Propst, Charles Moyers and Ronnie Gilkeson with 19, 16 and 13 tallies sparked the attack of the Panthers who collected 27 field goals to 22 for the visitors.

Bob Galford was the "big gun" for Marlinton with 13 field goals and 29 points to his credit.

Rain Washes Out Victorian Finale

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Rain forced the postponement of Friday's matches in the Victorian tennis championships, and if the bad weather continues on Saturday the first All-American men's singles final in the 80-year history of this tourney will be permanently washed out.

Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio and Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis are listed to play Saturday, but tournament chairman Harold Cornish warned Friday that the tourney would be abandoned it it couldn't be completed on schedule.

Three common beliefs are that bats snarl themselves in women's hair, falling cats always land on their feet, and elephants are afraid of mice. All are untrue.

Three Eastern Players Make All-America

Bellino, Balme And Ditka Named

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Bellino and Pervis Atkins provide the devastating halfback punch on the 1960 Associated Press All-America football team which boasts a line averaging 226 pounds.

The team announced Friday has Mississippi quarterback Jake Gibbs and Ohio State fullback Bob Ferguson in the backfield with Navy's Bellino and New Mexico State's Atkins.

Gopher Guard Named

One of the heaviest forward walls in All-America history is spearheaded by Tom Brown, the 224-pound guard who led Minnesota to the national collegiate championship, just as Dean Widseth (1936) and Dick Wildung (1941) had done.

Ben Balme of unbeaten, untied Yale is the other guard, with Roy McKasson, the quick-hitting pivot of the Rose Bowl-bound Washington Huskies, at center.

Pitt Player Chosen

Danny Larose of Missouri and Mike Ditka of Pitt were selected in a particularly close battle at ends. The deciding factor was their versatility, giving them the votes over 1959 All-Americas Marlin McKeever and Fred Mautino among others.

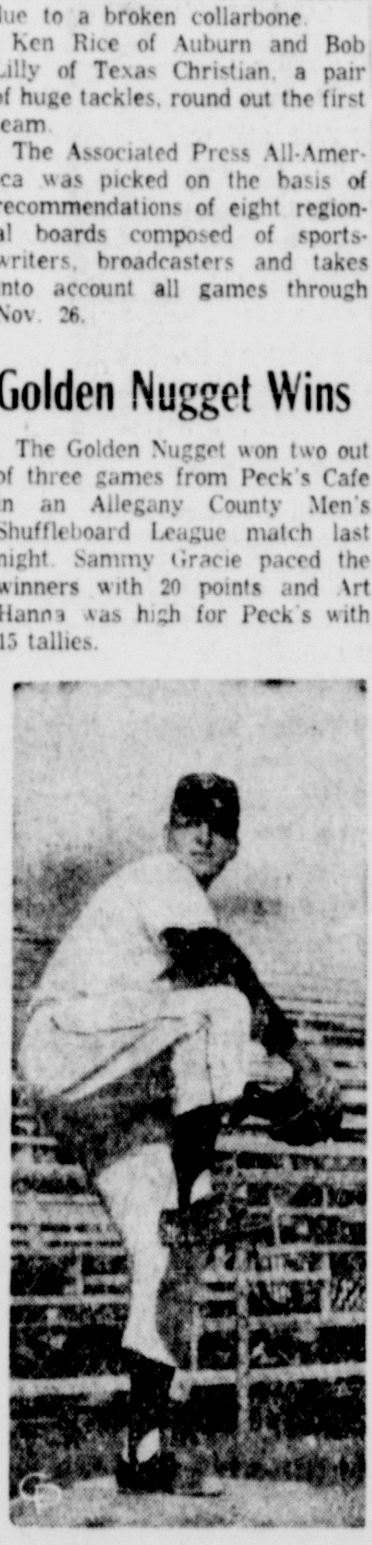
Another 1959 selection who missed a repeat was Washington quarterback Bob Schloredt. He was sidelined most of the season due to a broken collarbone.

Ken Rice of Auburn and Bob Lilly of Texas Christian, a pair of huge tackles, round out the first team.

The Associated Press All-America was picked on the basis of recommendations of eight regional boards composed of sportswriters, broadcasters and takes into account all games through Nov. 26.

Golden Nugget Wins

The Golden Nugget won two out of three games from Peck's Cafe in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. Sammy Gracie paced the winners with 20 points and Art Hanna was high for Peck's with 15 tallies.



INJUNS AFTER HIM—Johnny Antonelli, one of the star pitchers of the San Francisco Giants' staff, who had a 6-7 record this season after twice winning 20 or more games, is being sought by the Cleveland Indians to bolster their pitching staff.

Cage Clinic Set For Tomorrow At Frostburg State

A basketball clinic, sponsored by the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Basketball Officials Association and Frostburg State Teachers College, will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the gymnasium of Frostburg State Teachers College.

All coaches, officials and players of the area are invited to attend.

The program will be as follows:

Blocking and charging, Robert E. Pence.

Screening, John Fox.

Post play, Donald Hodge.

New walking rule, Joe Wolfe.

Question and answer period with Robert E. Pence as moderator.

Warriors Defeat Berkeley, 43-36

Wardensville High School's Warriors edged the Berkeley Springs High School Indians by the score of 43-36 last night at Wardensville as both quints kicked off the lid of the 1960-61 basketball campaign.

Only 25 field goals were scored by the teams — 13 by Berkeley Springs and 12 by the home team. The Warriors held a 19-10 advantage at the free throw line.

Mountaineer Grabs Opener

Tucker Quint Tops Circleville, 58-52

Coach Ed Supak's Mountaineer High School floormen launched their basketball campaign with a 58-52 victory over the Circleville High School Indians last night in a game played at Thomas, W.Va.

Eddie Helmick, Charles Sutton and Pete Barmer slammed in 42 points for the winners while Mountaineer collected 24 field goals to the Indians' 19.

Orville Harper was the "whole show" for Circleville with 30 points to his credit. He meshed 12 shots from the field and converted six of seven free throws.

Harry Wismer Sells Stock In Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harry Wismer received a $350,000 check Friday and Attorney Milton King received the 25 per cent of stock Wismer owned in the Washington Redskins.

The official sale of 200 stock shares formally concluded Wismer's association with the Redskins, whose games he used to broadcast. Wismer, who now owns the New York Titans of the new American Football League, was ordered to sell his 25 per cent interest by Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League.

SWITCHES JOBS—President of the Eastern League for the past quarter of a century, Tommy Richardson, 65, now becomes president of the International League, signing a one-year contract for a salary of $15,000.

Lakers Top Boston, Jerry West Stars

BOSTON (UPI)—Rookie Jerry West scored a pair of crucial baskets in the final 35 seconds Friday night as the Los Angeles Lakers edged Boston, 120-117, and dropped the Celtics into a tie for first place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The Celtics, trailing throughout most of the game, had a 117-116 lead with less than a minute remaining when the former West Virginia All-America hit a 30-foot set shot. Fifteen seconds later, he took a pass from Elgin Baylor and registered an insurance basket.

Baylor, in the dual role of playmaker and scorer, led the winners with 23 points. Boston's Bill Sharman was top scorer of the game with 32 points.

It was only the Lakers' second win over Boston in the last 32 games and forced the Celtics into a tie with the Philadelphia Warriors.

Eagles And Colts Favored To Win NFL Games Sunday

Philadelphia Seeks Eastern Division Title

Play At St. Louis, Detroit Lions To Invade Baltimore

By JOE SARGIS
United Press International

The Philadelphia Eagles need only one more victory to capture their first National Football League Eastern Division title in 11 years, and the odds-makers say they will achieve that goal Sunday against the St. Louis Cardinals.

However, taking into consideration a natural letdown after two bruising games with the New York Giants plus the improved play of the young Cardinals, the oddmakers have made the Eagles the favorites by only five points. The game will be played at St. Louis.

The Giants and Cleveland Browns, who between them have won all the Eastern Division titles since the Eagles turned the trick in 1949, are big favorites for games they "must" win to stay alive. The Giants are picked by 14 at home over the still winless Dallas Cowboys and the Browns are 15-point choices, also at home, over the Washington Redskins, winners of only one game.

Could Win Title

Philadelphia has won eight straight since losing its season-opener to the Browns while the Giants and Cleveland are 5-3-1. Thus, if the Eagles lose Sunday they still could win the Eastern title by beating either the Pittsburgh Steelers or Redskins in their two remaining games regardless of what the Giants or Browns do in their remaining games, including the season finale in which they play each other.

It's a far different story in the Western Division where the defending champion Baltimore Colts are battling strong challenges from the Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers and San Francisco Forty Niners. Baltimore leads the division race with a 6-3 mark, while Chicago is second at 5-3-1 and Green Bay and San Francisco are 5-4.

Colts Over Lions

The oddsmakers have made the Colts 13-point favorites over the Detroit Lions at Baltimore, while the Bears are picked by four over the Packers at home, and the Forty Niners are four-point underdogs to the Rams at Los Angeles.

In the American Football League, Eastern Division leader Houston (8-3), needing one more victory to win the title, is at Dallas (5-6); Los Angeles (7-4), the Western Division leader, plays host to Oakland (5-6); New York (5-6) is at Denver (4-6-1), and Boston (5-6) is at Buffalo (4-6-1).

New York and Boston look like winners in the other two AFL games.

Cadets To Play 20 Cage Games

Brooks At Helm For 12th Season

Frederick High School's Cadets will play 20 basketball games during the 1960-61 campaign and will open with North Carroll High Tuesday, December 6.

The Cadets, with Homer Brooks at the helm for the 12th consecutive season, are not on the Fort Hill and Allegany schedules this season because the Cumberland schools dropped out of the C.V.A.L. The league will operate with five schools during the coming season.

Four lettermen returning from the squad that won 15 and lost six last season are Wayne Rinehart, Harold Blank and John Goff, forwards, and Bill Poffenbarger, center. Seven of the members of the squad are seniors while the others are juniors.

With an enrollment of 667 in the three top grades, Frederick will graduate from Class A to Class AA when the state games are held after the regular schedule is concluded.

Frederick's schedule:

Dec. 6 — North Carroll, H. 9 — Francis Scott Keyser, A. 13 — Greencastle, H. 16 — North Carroll, A. 22 — Greencastle, A.

Jan. 3 — So. Hagerstown, H. 6 — N. Hagerstown, A. 11 — Bel Air, H. 13 — Martinsburg, H. 17 — Westminster, H. 19 — Sherwood, A. 28 — St. John's, A. 31 — Bel Air, A.

Feb. 3 — N. Hagerstown, H. 7 — Martinsburg, A. 10 — Westminster, A. 14 — Francis Scott Key, H. 17 — So. Hagerstown, A. 21 — Sherwood, H. 23 — St. John's, H.

Duke Visits California First Time Since 1939

Meets UCLA Today, Winless Virginia Battles Gamecocks

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA's Billy Kilmer aims for the total offense title, bowl-bound Duke tackles a 21-year-old case of California inhospitality, and Virginia hopefully tries to sidestep a share of the record major school losing streak Saturday in windup day of the regular college football season.

Duke is at UCLA in its first California appearance since a great unbeaten, untied, unscored-upon Blue Devil club was beaten 7-3 in the last minute of a dramatic Rose Bowl game on Jan. 1939. To wipe away that stigma, the new edition Devils—headed for the Cotton Bowl at Dallas next Jan. 2—will have to contain Uclan tailback Kilmer, who needs but 27 yards to win the major college total offense championship from Washington State's Mel Melin.

Virginia appeals again for Santa Claus in a season-closer at South Carolina, regretfully needing but one more loss to match the all-time big school losing streak of 28 established in embarrassment by the Kansas State teams of 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1948.

The last time victory said "yes" to Virginia was in the second game of the 1958 season 15-12 over Duke. The Cavaliers have lost 27 times since, including nine times this season.

Duke (7-2) has won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, wound up 10th in the final AP ranking, and holds a distinction as the only team to have beaten Navy this season.

UCLA has a 7-2-1 record, with losses to Washington and Southern California and a tie with Purdue.

South Carolina has only a 2-6-1 record but has an adequate defense, built around guard Jake Botkin.

Mountaineers Play William And Mary

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University opens its 1960-61 basketball season against William & Mary Saturday night and new head coach George King should know in a hurry how far his Mountaineers will go this season.

West Virginia is minus the talents of All-America Jerry West who graduated last June and is now plying his trade with the Los Angeles Lakers. King replaced Fred Schaus who is now coaching the Lakers.

King indicated he will start Lee Patrone, a returning regular and Nick Visnic at guards, 6-foot-7 Joe Posch at center and Jim Ritchie, another returning starter, and sophomore star Rod Thorn at forwards. The other four are all seniors.

Knicks Defeated

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Pettit scored 44 points, including a key basket in overtime, to lead the St. Louis Hawks to a 139-133 victory over New York Friday night which broke the Knickerbockers' four-game winning streak.

Pettit's basket midway in the extra session gave the Hawks a 130-128 lead and his teammates went on to outscore the Knicks 9-5 in the closing minutes.

Bobcats Visit Coppin Tonight

Frostburg Cagers Open In Baltimore

Frostburg State Teachers College opens its basketball schedule today by playing Coppin College at Baltimore.

Coppin is making its first appearance on the schedule of the Bobcats who will be making their first start under Coach Ron Van Ryswyk.

Three former Valley High School players appear on the Frostburg roster, namely, George Lauder, Robert Winner and Ronald "Butch" Young. The other members are George Connolly, Aberdeen; James Thompson, Beall; Sam Holliday, of Lackey High, Indian Head, Md.; Roy Sigler and George Kuhn, Middletown; Lynn Kerns, Hancock; John McClelland, Fort Hill; Jack Patterson, Arundel, and Geoffery Whitmore, of Montgomery Blair High, Silver Spring.

Potomac State's Catamounts windup a two-day road jaunt tonight by playing at Salem College.

West Virginia School for the Deaf plays host to the Alumni tonight at Romney.

Facts, Figures On Title Bout

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Here are the facts and figures for Saturday night's Gene Fulmer-Ray Robinson middleweight title fight.

Principals — Co-champion Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, vs. ex-champion Sugar Ray Robinson of New York.

Place—Los Angeles Sports Arena (indoors).

Distance—15 rounds.

Time—Main bout starts 7 p.m. PST (10 p.m EST).

Expected crowd—14,000.

Expected gate—$140,000.

Television—Nationally to homes by ABC (300-mile local blackout).

TV money—Promotion gets $100,000.

Purses—Fullmer gets 40 per cent of the net gate and of the TV money. Robinson gets 20 per cent of each. There are no guarantees.

Return-bout contract—If Robinson wins, he must give Fullmer a return shot at the title in Los Angeles within six months.

Scoring—By a referee and two judges on a one-to-five-point basis, whereunder the winner of a round gets from one to five points and the loser none. Neither boxer gets any points for an even round.

Snead Grabs Florida Lead

Palmer 5 Strokes Off Pace With 143

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sam Snead jumped into the lead in the $15,000 West Palm Beach Open golf tournament Friday with a 2-under-par 70 for a two-round total of 138, as a gusty wind sent most of the scores skyrocketing.

Veteran slamming Sammy, now playing out of Boca Raton, Fla., supplanted big George Bayer of Gleneagles, Ill., as the leader. Bayer, who had a 7-under-par 65 for a three-stroke margin in the first round, was trapped into a 75 Friday and his 140 total dropped him into a tie for second place with John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich. Barnum had the best round Friday—68.

The field still was warily watching Arnold Palmer, the record money winner and winner of the Mobile, Ala., Open last Sunday. The Ligonier, Pa., pro, winner of the National Open and the Masters this year, was in his accustomed spot, five strokes off the pace at 143, following his smooth 36-36—72 Friday.

Tied at 141 were Howie Johnston of Coghill, Ill.; Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., and steady and ever-dangerous Julius Boros, Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa.; Joe Taylor of Charleston, W. Va., and Tom Garrity of Kansas City, Mo., were next with 142s, and Palmer shared the 143 bracket with Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex.; Johnnie Potts of Shreveport, La., and Don Fairfield of Jacksonville, Ill.

A score of 150 or better was necessary to qualify for the final two rounds.

Indiana Renews Dickens' Contract

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University gave a new four-year contract Friday to its football coach, Phil Dickens.

The contract replaces a four-year pact which expires next February. Dickens' team this year was under a year's probation by the Big Ten and the National Collegiate Athletic Association and lost eight games and won only one.

I.U. has been under suspension because of alleged violations of regulations concerning the inducement of athletes to enroll at Indiana.

Kuharich Gets 3-Year Contract At Notre Dame

Salary Is Estimated At $17,500 Annually

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Joe Kuharich, whose Notre Dame football team this year matched the worst record in the history of the fighting Irish, received an unprecedented vote of confidence Friday, a three year extension of his coaching contract.

The extension was approved unanimously by the faculty board in control of athletics at its regular winter meeting Friday. The Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of the university and chairman of the board, announced the vote.

The contract extension was an official answer to recent rumors that Kuharich would leave Notre Dame to rejoin pro football as well as rumors that Notre Dame was likely to discharge him.

Under the extension, Kuharich's contract runs until Feb. 1, 1966. It was assumed that his salary under the new pact remains the same as in his original contract, estimated at about $17,500 annually.

Kuharich, 43, only two days ago announced that he had no plans to leave Notre Dame next season and Joyce said simultaneously that the Irish expected Kuharich to return next year.

Notre Dame this year won only two of 10 games and the 2-8 mark duplicated the worst previous record in any one season, set in 1956 when the team was coached by Terry Brennan.

Kuharich came to Notre Dame to succeed Brennan, whose contract was not renewed after the 1958 campaign in Notre Dame's announced search for "excellence" in football.

University President Theodore M. Hesburgh and Joyce both said earlier this week they had confidence that Kuharich would return the Irish to its past position among the nation's best college teams.

Gene Fullmer, Ray Robinson Fight Tonight

NBA Middleweight Title Is At Stake

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For Sugar Ray Robinson, Saturday night may be the end of the line—or a new lease on life in a ring career that has been long, brilliant and often tumultuous.

The answer will come when Robinson, 39 at least, clashes in the ring at the new Sports Arena with Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah. Fullmer, the champion, is recognized almost everywhere except New York and Massachusetts as the world middleweight champion.

Robinson has held the title five times. He will be seeking the crown for an unprecedented sixth time.

Fullmer, whose bruising, brawling ring manners are in direct contrast to his off-duty demeanor, remains a 3-1 favorite to retain this, the National Boxing Association version of the world title.

The nation can watch via ABC television starting at 7 o'clock, PST. This area will be blacked out.

West Virginia Deer Season Ends Today

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's six-day deer season ends Saturday and estimates of the kill over the first four days of the season indicated Friday the final total will be far below the expected of 19,500.

The State Conservation Commission said some 13,000 deer were killed during the first four days, a drop of 2,000 below the kill reported after the corresponding four days in 1959.

Catholic Youth League Opens 15th Race Dec. 15

Tripleheader Billed Here; Same Six Clubs As Last Year To Vie

The Catholic Youth Basketball League will open its fifteenth season on Thursday, December 15, with a tripleheader at SS. Peter and Paul gym featuring the same six quints that played in the circuit last season when St. Patrick's of Cumberland, won the championship.

On opening night, St. Mary's of Cumberland plays St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage at 6:15, St. Michael's, Frostburg, opposes St. Peter's, Westernport, at 7:30 and SS. Peter & Paul and St. Patrick's Cumberland, clash at 9 o'clock.

The schedule calls for three games on Thursday nights on the Fayette street court and Sunday afternoon games on the same floor and at St. Michael's gym in Frostburg.

Team Representatives

At the meeting held to formulate plans for the coming season the teams were represented by the following:

SS. Peter & Paul—Father John and Robert Mattingly.

St. Patrick's—Father Arthur W. Bastress and Gene Scaletta.

Westernport — Father George Pugh and Joe Thompson.

Mt. Savage—George Shaffer.

Mt. Mary's—Donald Palmer.

St. Michael's — Father Regis Larkin.

Since the basketball league originated in 1947, St. Michael's has won six championships, SS. Peter and Paul, four, St. Patrick's, three and St. Mary's one.

The Record Holders

Jerry Wine, of St. Peter's, Oakland, holds the league's all-time season scoring record with 539 points in 21 games for an average of 25.7 in 1956. On March 15, 1957, Bob Shaw of St. Frances of Keyser hung up a one-game scoring mark of 55 points. Mike Long of St. Mary's established the best foul shooting record when he hooped 56 of 64 free throws for a .607 mark in 1957.

Here are the league's past champions:

1947—St. Patrick's
1948—St. Patrick's
1949—St. Michael's
1950—St. Michael's
1951—St. Michael's
1952—St. Michael's
1953—St. Michael's
1954—SS. Peter & Paul
1955—SS. Peter & Paul
1956—SS. Peter & Paul
1957—SS. Peter & Paul
1958—St. Mary's
1959—St. Michael's

Eagles And Colts Favored To Win NFL Games Sunday

Philadelphia Seeks Eastern Division Title

Play At St. Louis, Detroit Lions To Invade Baltimore

By JOE SARGIS
United Press International

The Philadelphia Eagles need only one more victory to capture their first National Football League Eastern Division title in 11 years, and the odds-makers say they will achieve that goal Sunday against the St. Louis Cardinals.

However, taking into consideration a natural letdown after two bruising games with the New York Giants plus the improved play of the young Cardinals, the oddmakers have made the Eagles the favorites by only five points. The game will be played at St. Louis.

The Giants and Cleveland Browns, who between them have won all the Eastern Division titles since the Eagles turned the trick in 1949, are big favorites for games they "must" win to stay alive. The Giants are picked by 14 at home over the still winless Dallas Cowboys and the Browns are 15-point choices, also at home, over the Washington Redskins, winners of only one game.

Could Win Title

Philadelphia has won eight straight since losing its season-opener to the Browns while the Giants and Cleveland are 5-3-1. Thus, if the Eagles lose Sunday they still could win the Eastern title by beating either the Pittsburgh Steelers or Redskins in their two remaining games regardless of what the Giants or Browns do in their remaining games, including the season finale in which they play each other.

It's a far different story in the Western Division where the defending champion Baltimore Colts are battling strong challenges from the Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers and San Francisco Forty Niners. Baltimore leads the division race with a 6-3 mark, while Chicago is second at 5-3-1 and Green Bay and San Francisco are 5-4.

Colts Over Lions

The oddsmakers have made the Colts 13-point favorites over the Detroit Lions at Baltimore, while the Bears are picked by four over the Packers at home, and the Forty Niners are four-point underdogs to the Rams at Los Angeles.

In the American Football League, Eastern Division leader Houston (8-3), needing one more victory to win the title, is at Dallas (5-6); Los Angeles (7-4), the Western Division leader, plays host to Oakland (5-6); New York (5-6) is at Denver (4-6-1), and Boston (5-6) is at Buffalo (4-6-1).

New York and Boston look like winners in the other two AFL games.

Cadets To Play 20 Cage Games

Brooks At Helm For 12th Season

Frederick High School's Cadets will play 20 basketball games during the 1960-61 campaign and will open with North Carroll High Tuesday, December 6.

The Cadets, with Homer Brooks at the helm for the 12th consecutive season, are not on the Fort Hill and Allegany schedules this season because the Cumberland schools dropped out of the C.V.A.L. The league will operate with five schools during the coming season.

Four lettermen returning from the squad that won 15 and lost six last season are Wayne Rinehart, Harold Blank and John Goff, forwards, and Bill Poffenbarger, center. Seven of the members of the squad are seniors while the others are juniors.

With an enrollment of 667 in the three top grades, Frederick will graduate from Class A to Class AA when the state games are held after the regular schedule is concluded.

Frederick's schedule:

Dec. 6 — North Carroll, H. 9 — Francis Scott Keyser, A. 13 — Greencastle, H. 16 — North Carroll, A. 22 — Greencastle, A.

Jan. 3 — So. Hagerstown, H. 6 — N. Hagerstown, A. 11 — Bel Air, H. 13 — Martinsburg, H. 17 — Westminster, H. 19 — Sherwood, A. 28 — St. John's, A. 31 — Bel Air, A.

Feb. 3 — N. Hagerstown, H. 7 — Martinsburg, A. 10 — Westminster, A. 14 — Francis Scott Key, H. 17 — So. Hagerstown, A. 21 — Sherwood, H. 23 — St. John's, H.

Duke Visits California First Time Since 1939

Meets UCLA Today, Winless Virginia Battles Gamecocks

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA's Billy Kilmer aims for the total offense title, bowl-bound Duke tackles a 21-year-old case of California inhospitality, and Virginia hopefully tries to sidestep a share of the record major school losing streak Saturday in windup day of the regular college football season.

Duke is at UCLA in its first California appearance since a great unbeaten, untied, unscored-upon Blue Devil club was beaten 7-3 in the last minute of a dramatic Rose Bowl game on Jan. 1939. To wipe away that stigma, the new edition Devils—headed for the Cotton Bowl at Dallas next Jan. 2—will have to contain Uclan tailback Kilmer, who needs but 27 yards to win the major college total offense championship from Washington State's Mel Melin.

Virginia appeals again for Santa Claus in a season-closer at South Carolina, regretfully needing but one more loss to match the all-time big school losing streak of 28 established in embarrassment by the Kansas State teams of 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1948.

The last time victory said "yes" to Virginia was in the second game of the 1958 season 15-12 over Duke. The Cavaliers have lost 27 times since, including nine times this season.

Duke (7-2) has won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, wound up 10th in the final AP ranking, and holds a distinction as the only team to have beaten Navy this season.

UCLA has a 7-2-1 record, with losses to Washington and Southern California and a tie with Purdue.

South Carolina has only a 2-6-1 record but has an adequate defense, built around guard Jake Botkin.

Mountaineers Play William And Mary

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University opens its 1960-61 basketball season against William & Mary Saturday night and new head coach George King should know in a hurry how far his Mountaineers will go this season.

West Virginia is minus the talents of All-America Jerry West who graduated last June and is now plying his trade with the Los Angeles Lakers. King replaced Fred Schaus who is now coaching the Lakers.

King indicated he will start Lee Patrone, a returning regular and Nick Visnic at guards, 6-foot-7 Joe Posch at center and Jim Ritchie, another returning starter, and sophomore star Rod Thorn at forwards. The other four are all seniors.

Knicks Defeated

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Pettit scored 44 points, including a key basket in overtime, to lead the St. Louis Hawks to a 139-133 victory over New York Friday night which broke the Knickerbockers' four-game winning streak.

Pettit's basket midway in the extra session gave the Hawks a 130-128 lead and his teammates went on to outscore the Knicks 9-5 in the closing minutes.

Bobcats Visit Coppin Tonight

Frostburg Cagers Open In Baltimore

Frostburg State Teachers College opens its basketball schedule today by playing Coppin College at Baltimore.

Coppin is making its first appearance on the schedule of the Bobcats who will be making their first start under Coach Ron Van Ryswyk.

Three former Valley High School players appear on the Frostburg roster, namely, George Lauder, Robert Winner and Ronald "Butch" Young. The other members are George Connolly, Aberdeen; James Thompson, Beall; Sam Holliday, of Lackey High, Indian Head, Md.; Roy Sigler and George Kuhn, Middletown; Lynn Kerns, Hancock; John McClelland, Fort Hill; Jack Patterson, Arundel, and Geoffery Whitmore, of Montgomery Blair High, Silver Spring.

Potomac State's Catamounts windup a two-day road jaunt tonight by playing at Salem College.

West Virginia School for the Deaf plays host to the Alumni tonight at Romney.

Facts, Figures On Title Bout

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Here are the facts and figures for Saturday night's Gene Fulmer-Ray Robinson middleweight title fight.

Principals — Co-champion Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, vs. ex-champion Sugar Ray Robinson of New York.

Place—Los Angeles Sports Arena (indoors).

Distance—15 rounds.

Time—Main bout starts 7 p.m. PST (10 p.m. EST).

Expected crowd—14,000.

Expected gate—$140,000.

Television—Nationally to homes by ABC (300-mile local blackout).

TV money—Promotion gets $100,000.

Purses—Fullmer gets 40 per cent of the net gate and of the TV money. Robinson gets 20 per cent of each. There are no guarantees.

Return-bout contract—If Robinson wins, he must give Fullmer a return shot at the title in Los Angeles within six months.

Scoring—By a referee and two judges on a one-to-five-point basis, whereunder the winner of a round gets from one to five points and the loser none. Neither boxer gets any points for an even round.

Snead Grabs Florida Lead

Palmer 5 Strokes Off Pace With 143

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sam Snead jumped into the lead in the $15,000 West Palm Beach Open golf tournament Friday with a 2-under-par 70 for a two-round total of 138, as a gusty wind sent most of the scores sky-rocketing.

Veteran slamming Sammy, now playing out of Boca Raton, Fla., supplanted big George Bayer of Gleneagles, Ill., as the leader. Bayer, who had a 7-under-par 65 for a three-stroke margin in the first round, was trapped into a 75 Friday and his 140 total dropped him into a tie for second place with John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich. Barnum had the best round Friday—68.

The field still was warily watching Arnold Palmer, the record money winner and winner of the Mobile, Ala., Open last Sunday. The Ligonier, Pa., pro, winner of the National Open and the Masters this year, was in his accustomed spot, five strokes off the pace at 143, following his smooth 36-36—72 Friday.

Tied at 141 were Howie Johnston of Coghill, Ill.; Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., and steady and ever-dangerous Julius Boros. Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa.; Joe Taylor of Charleston, W. Va., and Tom Garrity of Kansas City, Mo., were next with 142s, and Palmer shared the 143 bracket with Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex.; Johnnie Potts of Shreveport, La., and Don Fairfield of Jacksonville, Ill.

A score of 150 or better was necessary to qualify for the final two rounds.

Indiana Renews Dickens' Contract

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University gave a new four-year contract Friday to its football coach, Phil Dickens.

The contract replaces a four-year pact which expires next February. Dickens' team this year was under a year's probation by the Big Ten and the National Collegiate Athletic Association and lost eight games and won only one.

I.U. has been under suspension because of alleged violations of regulations concerning the inducement of athletes to enroll at Indiana.

Kuharich Gets 3-Year Contract At Notre Dame

Salary Is Estimated At $17,500 Annually

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Joe Kuharich, whose Notre Dame football team this year matched the worst record in the history of the fighting Irish, received an unprecedented vote of confidence Friday, a three year extension of his coaching contract.

The extension was approved unanimously by the faculty board in control of athletics at its regular winter meeting Friday. The Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of the university and chairman of the board, announced the vote.

The contract extension was an official answer to recent rumors that Kuharich would leave Notre Dame to rejoin pro football as well as rumors that Notre Dame was likely to discharge him.

Under the extension, Kuharich's contract runs until Feb. 1, 1966. It was assumed that his salary under the new pact remains the same as in his original contract, estimated at about $17,500 annually.

Kuharich, 43, only two days ago announced that he had no plans to leave Notre Dame next season and Joyce said simultaneously that the Irish expected Kuharich to return next year.

Notre Dame this year won only two of 10 games and the 2-8 mark duplicated the worst previous record in any one season, set in 1956 when the team was coached by Terry Brennan.

Kuharich came to Notre Dame to succeed Brennan, whose contract was not renewed after the 1958 campaign in Notre Dame's announced search for "excellence" in football.

University President Theodore M. Hesburgh and Joyce both said earlier this week they had confidence that Kuharich would return the Irish to its past position among the nation's best college teams.

Gene Fullmer, Ray Robinson Fight Tonight

NBA Middleweight Title Is At Stake

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For Sugar Ray Robinson, Saturday night may be the end of the line—or a new lease on life in a ring career that has been long, brilliant and often tumultuous.

The answer will come when Robinson, 39 at least, clashes in the ring at the new Sports Arena with Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah. Fullmer, the champion, is recognized almost everywhere except New York and Massachusetts as the world middleweight champion.

Robinson has held the title five times. He will be seeking the crown for an unprecedented sixth time.

Fullmer, whose bruising, brawling ring manners are in direct contrast to his off-duty demeanor, remains a 3-1 favorite to retain this, the National Boxing Association version of the world title.

The nation can watch via ABC television starting at 7 o'clock PST. This area will be blacked out.

West Virginia Deer Season Ends Today

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's six-day deer season ends Saturday and estimates of the kill over the first four days of the season indicated Friday the final total will be far below the expected of 19,500.

The State Conservation Commission said some 13,000 deer were killed during the first four days, a drop of 2,000 below the kill reported after the corresponding four days in 1959.

Catholic Youth League Opens 15th Race Dec. 15

Tripleheader Billed Here; Same Six Clubs As Last Year To Vie

The Catholic Youth Basketball League will open its fifteenth season on Thursday, December 15, with a tripleheader at SS. Peter and Paul gym featuring the same six quints that played in the circuit last season when St. Patrick's of Cumberland, won the championship.

On opening night, St. Mary's of Cumberland plays St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage at 6:15, St. Michael's, Frostburg, opposes St. Peter's, Westernport, at 7:30 and SS. Peter & Paul and St. Patrick's Cumberland, clash at 9 o'clock.

The schedule calls for three games on Thursday nights on the Fayette street court and Sunday afternoon games on the same floor and at St. Michael's gym in Frostburg.

Team Representatives

At the meeting held to formulate plans for the coming season the teams were represented by the following:

SS. Peter & Paul—Father John and Robert Mattingly.

St. Patrick's—Father Arthur W. Bastress and Gene Scaletta.

Westernport — Father George Pugh and Joe Thompson.

Mt. Savage—George Shaffer.

Mt. Mary's—Donald Palmer.

St. Michael's — Father Regis Larkin.

Since the basketball league originated in 1947, St. Michael's has won six championships, SS. Peter and Paul, four, St. Patrick's, three and St. Mary's one.

The Record Holders

Jerry Wine, of St. Peter's, Oakland, holds the league's all-time season scoring record with 539 points in 21 games for an average of 25.7 in 1956. On March 15, 1957, Bob Shaw of St. Frances of Keyser hung up a one-game scoring mark of 55 points. Mike Long of St. Mary's established the best foul shooting record when he hooped 56 of 64 free throws for a .607 mark in 1957.

Here are the league's past champions:

1947—St. Patrick's
1948—St. Patrick's
1949—St. Michael's
1950—St. Michael's
1951—St. Michael's
1952—St. Michael's
1953—St. Michael's
1954—SS. Peter & Paul
1955—SS. Peter & Paul
1956—SS. Peter & Paul
1957—SS. Peter & Paul
1958—St. Mary's
1959—St. Michael's
1960—St. Patrick's

NEW CAGE JOB—New head basketball coach at Michigan is Dave Strack, who is a former Wolverine star. He is the 10th cage mentor at Michigan since the sport was established in 1909.

Food Shares Help Lift Market To Firm Ground

NEW YORK (UPI) — The normally staid food shares took on a new aura of glamor Friday and helped lift the stock market into firmer ground for the first time in a week.

Demand for the eatin' shares apparently was inspired by the newest American fad—diet foods. A glowing article about the fat-fighters in an advertising publication reportedly soon to be released caused large runups in the entire group.

Borden, which has already been cashing in on its diet product, rose 5¼. Other food gainers included Gerber 2, Pet Milk 4⅛, Quaker Oats 4, General Foods 1½ and Fairmont 1⅞.

The latter section completely overshadowed all other groups and even helped boost Chock Full O'Nuts 2⅝, Coca-Cola 1⅝ and Frank Shattuck over 1. Some good gains were also recorded by the electronics, a few drugs, aircrafts, motion pictures and building materials.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 1.44 to 596.00 while the rails tacked on 0.24 to 128.12 and utilities eased 0.10 to 95.38. Volume amounted to 3,140,000 shares against 3,090,000 on Thursday.

Advances outnumbered declines by 548 to 419 but new lows ran well over new highs — 49 to 23. All told, 1,223 issues were traded including 286 which remained unchanged.

U.S. Steel was conspicuous in that section by rising 1⅜ while Youngstown added ⅛ despite a report of lower operations in its area next week. For a change, Bethlehem did not close at new low but held even at 37⅞.

Jersey Standard, however, continued to lose ground, ⅛ point at 38¼. Chrysler ran up 1⅝ in the motors in the wake of its 50-cent year-ender while American Motors added ¼ point on the reshuffle of its top brass presumably in preparation for more activity in the foreign auto market. GM didn't move.

Drug stocks were widely irregular with Merck ahead 3¾ and American Home Products down 2¾. Likewise the vendings with Universal Match off 1⅛ and others in the group up fractions. North American moved up 1⅛ in the aircrafts despite lower earnings while Avco gained a large fraction on an $8 million contract.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Rye advanced more than a cent, but other grain futures closed about steady Friday on the Board of Trade.

Export traders reported that India took an estimated 4,000,000 bushels of hard wheat. Italy bought 1,000,000 and Iran 750,000 bushels. Additional sales were expected over the weekend.

Traders were encouraged by news the government granted export subsidies on 10,665,000 bushels of corn. The government's local agency sold 1,500,000 bushels under the scrip program and 700,000 bushels under the barter program.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Food Shares Help Lift Market To Firm Ground

NEW YORK (UPI) — The normally staid food shares took on a new aura of glamor Friday and helped lift the stock market into firmer ground for the first time in a week.

Demand for the eatin' shares apparently was inspired by the newest American fad—diet foods. A glowing article about the fat-fighters in an advertising publication reportedly soon to be released caused large runups in the entire group.

Borden, which has already been cashing in on its diet product, rose 5¼. Other food gainers included Gerber 2, Pet Milk 4⅛, Quaker Oats 4, General Foods 1½ and Fairmont 1⅞.

The latter section completely overshadowed all other groups and even helped boost Chock Full O'Nuts 2⅝, Coca-Cola 1⅝ and Frank Shattuck over 1. Some good gains were also recorded by the electronics, a few drugs, aircrafts, motion pictures and building materials.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 1.44 to 596.00 while the rails tacked on 0.24 to 128.12 and utilities eased 0.10 to 95.38. Volume amounted to 3,140,000 shares against 3,090,000 on Thursday.

Advances outnumbered declines by 548 to 419 but new lows ran well over new highs — 49 to 23. All told, 1,223 issues were traded including 286 which remained unchanged.

U.S. Steel was conspicuous in that section by rising 1⅜ while Youngstown added ⅛ despite a report of lower operations in its area next week. For a change, Bethlehem did not close at new low but held even at 37⅞.

Jersey Standard, however, continued to lose ground, ⅛ point at 38¼. Chrysler ran up 1⅝ in the motors in the wake of its 50-cent year-ender while American Motors added ¼ point on the reshuffle of its top brass presumably in preparation for more activity in the foreign auto market. GM didn't move.

Drug stocks were widely irregular with Merck ahead 3¾ and American Home Products down 2¾. Likewise the vendings with Universal Match off 1⅛ and others in the group up fractions. North American moved up 1⅛ in the aircrafts despite lower earnings while Avco gained a large fraction on an $8 million contract.

Stocks on the American Exchange were irregularly higher Friday in moderate trading.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Rye advanced more than a cent, but other grain futures closed about steady Friday on the Board of Trade.

Futures were generally higher early on buying against reported export sales. Late selling erased most of the advance.

Local, commission and commercial traders bought wheat. Selling increased on the advance.

Export traders reported that India took an estimated 4,000,000 bushels of hard wheat. Italy bought 1,000,000 and Iran 750,000 bushels. Additional sales were expected over the weekend.

Corn firmed on local buying. Commercial interests bought early. Northwest brokers sold. Cash corn advanced on moderate receipts. Britain reportedly took 600,000 bushels of corn.

Traders were encouraged by news the government granted export subsidies on 10,665,000 bushels of corn. The government's local agency sold 1,500,000 bushels under the scrip program and 700,000 bushels under the barter program.

Oats fell under liquidation early Friday but prices recovered when selling trailed off. Spreaders and shorts bought December.

Soybeans closed quiet and steady. Commercial buying and higher meal prices helped beans. Japan took parcels of soybeans, and exporters Thursday purchased around 10,000 tons of meal.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to me during my recent bereavement, the death of my father, Carl M. Sisk. I wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent flowers, those who donated the use of their cars and anyone who in any manner rendered assistance. To all I am indeed grateful.

RONALD C. SISK

I wish to thank the Orderlies, Aides and Nurses on 2nd Floor west of Memorial Hospital, our many friends and neighbors, Rev. Dr. E. E. Miller, the pallbearers and all those who were so kind during the recent illness and following the death of my beloved husband Sam Scaturro.

MRS. VIRGINIA SCATURRO.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to me during my recent bereavement, the death of my father, Carl M. Sisk. I wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent flowers, those who donated the use of their cars and anyone who in any manner rendered assistance. To all I am indeed grateful.
RONALD C. SISK

I wish to thank the Orderlies, Aides and Nurses on 2nd Floor west of Memorial Hospital, our many friends and neighbors, Rev. Dr. E. E. Miller, the pallbearers and all those who were so kind during the recent illness and following the death of my beloved husband Sam Scaturro.
MRS. VIRGINIA SCATURRO.

Snow Signs Being Placed In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Street Commissioner William Preston announced that workmen are installing signs on Broadway, Water and Main Streets to prohibit parking between 2 and 6 a. m. in line with the city's snow ordinance.

Last year, council ruled that if a motorist parked on the above streets during the restricted hours he would do so at his own risk. If there was no snow for removal, police would refrain from issuing parking violation tickets.

However, if it snows during any night the ordinance is in effect and a snowplow is blocked from operations, a ticket will be issued immediately.

Council members said they did not want to work a hardship on the motorist, but that the responsibility now rests with the car owner who takes the risk and parks during the restricted hours.

Blood Donors Are Recruited In Grant Co.

PETERSBURG —Arrangements have been made by the Grant Memorial Hospital Auxiliary committee and friends to have cars go into rural sections of the county to transport donors for the coming visit of the bloodmobile unit December 12.

The following schedule has been worked out and additional cars will be sent if the need arises:

Mozer, Rough Run, Dorcas, Upper Tract, Brushy Run, Landes, Mouth of Seneca, Cabins, Medley Forman, Lahmansville, Arthur, Scherr and Maysville.

Posters will be displayed at all postoffices. Drivers of the cars will stop along the route if they know persons are planning to make the trip.

Plans call for cars to leave the first named place in each direction at 1 p. m., for the bloodmobile project.

Training Session Slated Monday

MOOREFIELD — Employes of Southern States Co-operative agencies throughout this area will gather at the Moose Club here Monday for a training session on "The Place of Farm Cooperatives in the Free Enterprise System."

The dinner meeting is set for 6:45 p. m. Agency personnel below the management level will attend.

Conducting the local session will be W. J. Day, Winchester, regional manager of Southern States Cooperative. A feature will be the showing of the movie, "Economics of Democracy," a half-hour color production.

Day is scheduled to speak to the group, explaining "How Members Own and Control Southern States Cooperative." His talk is to be followed by an open discussion among the personnel attending.

The session is one of 49 such meetings being staged by the cooperative throughout its five-state operating territory.

Accused Slayer Will Undergo Mental Tests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Martin Wilson, 30, has been ordered committed to a mental institution for a series of examinations pending trial for murder in the slaying of a Columbus taxi driver.

Wilson, formerly of Morgantown, W. Va., is accused of shooting John R. Doersman, 38, to death last Oct. 11. Police said he confessed to the slaying after first claiming a young companion was responsible. The latter was subsequently released.

Wilson pleaded innocent to a first degree murder indictment at an arraignment in Franklin County Criminal Court here, where mental tests were ordered for him at Lima State Hospital. Authorities said Wilson's trial probably would not be scheduled until net spring.

Leaf Player Hurt

TORONTO (AP) — Center Ron Stewart of the Toronto Maple Leafs suffered a broken right ankle in Thursday night's National Hockey League game at Montreal and will be out indefinitely, the club said Friday.

Stewart crashed into the boards in the final minute of play and his skate sliced into the wooden planking as he fell.

Snow Signs Being Placed In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Street Commissioner William Preston announced that workmen are installing signs on Broadway, Water and Main Streets to prohibit parking between 2 and 6 a. m. in line with the city's snow ordinance.

Last year, council ruled that if a motorist parked on the above streets during the restricted hours he would do so at his own risk. If there was no snow for removal, police would refrain from issuing parking violation tickets.

However, if it snows during any night the ordinance is in effect and a snowplow is blocked from operations, a ticket will be issued immediately.

Council members said they did not want to work a hardship on the motorist, but that the responsibility now rests with the car owner who takes the risk and parks during the restricted hours.

Blood Donors Are Recruited In Grant Co.

PETERSBURG —Arrangements have been made by the Grant Memorial Hospital Auxiliary committee and friends to have cars go into rural sections of the county to transport donors for the coming visit of the bloodmobile unit December 12.

The following schedule has been worked out and additional cars will be sent if the need arises:

Mozer, Rough Run, Dorcas, Upper Tract, Brushy Run, Landes, Mouth of Seneca, Cabins, Medley Forman, Lahmansville, Arthur, Scherr and Maysville.

Posters will be displayed at all postoffices. Drivers of the cars will stop along the route if they know persons are planning to make the trip.

Plans call for cars to leave the first named place in each direction at 1 p. m., for the bloodmobile project.

Training Session Slated Monday

MOOREFIELD — Employes of Southern States Co-operative agencies throughout this area will gather at the Moose Club here Monday for a training session on "The Place of Farm Cooperatives in the Free Enterprise System."

The dinner meeting is set for 6:45 p. m. Agency personnel below the management level will attend.

Conducting the local session will be W. J. Day, Winchester, regional manager of Southern States Cooperative. A feature will be the showing of the movie, "Economics of Democracy," a half-hour color production.

Day is scheduled to speak to the group, explaining "How Members Own and Control Southern States Cooperative." His talk is to be followed by an open discussion among the personnel attending.

The session is one of 49 such meetings being staged by the cooperative throughout its five-state operating territory.

Accused Slayer Will Undergo Mental Tests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Martin Wilson, 30, has been ordered committed to a mental institution for a series of examinations pending trial for murder in the slaying of a Columbus taxi driver.

Wilson, formerly of Morgantown, W. Va., is accused of shooting John R. Doersman, 38, to death last Oct. 11. Police said he confessed to the slaying after first claiming a young companion was responsible. The latter was subsequently released.

Wilson pleaded innocent to a first degree murder indictment at an arraignment in Franklin County Criminal Court here, where mental tests were ordered for him at Lima State Hospital. Authorities said Wilson's trial probably would not be scheduled until net spring.

Leaf Player Hurt

TORONTO (AP) — Center Ron Stewart of the Toronto Maple Leafs suffered a broken right ankle in Thursday night's National Hockey League game at Montreal and will be out indefinitely, the club said Friday.

Stewart crashed into the boards in the final minute of play and his skate sliced into the wooden planking as he fell.

Parents Win First Round On Curriculum

Flintstone, Oldtown Schools Involved

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster agreed last night to have an immediate survey made of students and parents in Oldtown and Flintstone schools, to determine if typing and a language can be added to the schools' curriculum.

Parents in both communities, for several years have requested that these two high schools be brought up to a par with other schools in the county, and have argued that the schools should not place so much emphasis on agriculture, shop and home economics, to the exclusion of other subjects.

At a hearing before the County Delegation to the General Assembly held in the Court House last night, a number of educational problems were aired.

"Educational Segregation"

Parents argue that their children who graduate from Oldtown or Flintstone cannot enter college because they do not have languages. Most believe their children should have an opportunity to take typing or other commercial subjects.

Several said they send their children to summer school to get typing and some have transferred to Fort Hill so they will have college entrance requirements.

Mr. Webster and Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer, using figures, charts etc., showed that Oldtown has 211 pupils and 12 teachers and Flintstone has 241 pupils and 13 teachers.

These conform to the teacher-pupil ratio as prescribed by the State Board of Education. School officials said that to add a language teacher and a typing teacher, to be used between the two schools, would be an expense to be born entirely by the county. Teachers employed above the state formula, cannot be paid in part by the state, they said. School funds are presently realized 60 per cent from the state and 40 per cent from the county.

Cost Per Pupil

It was also pointed out that the average cost per pupil at Flintstone is now $346.29, while the average cost at Allegany High School is $241.11.

The larger the school, the lower the cost per pupil, they explained.

The discussion was a lengthy one, with parents trying to put across the point that they are not concerned about formulas, costs, or details raised by the educators. They emphasized that they want their children to have the same educational opportunities as other children in the county and they emphasized further that they want no down-grading of the system anywhere.

Charges of brain-washing the children, concealing financial records, failure to keep faith with promises to blacktop playgrounds and other areas, all pointed to one thing, one member of the delegation said. "The educators of this county know very little about their own public relations and could use a few lessons. Any of these problems being aired before the delegation could be resolved by a little team work, honesty of endeavor and awareness of the fact that the public is paying the bill and is entitled to be fully informed. The public is also entitled to demand and get the best for their children."

Senator Charles M. See, speaking for the entire group said the legislators will insist that the children at Oldtown and Flintstone get an equal opportunity with other children in the county. He declared, "we want no second rate citizens here."

Mr. Webster also said that in the future, the school records of pupils will be available to parents and guardians if they request them. This was a concession made

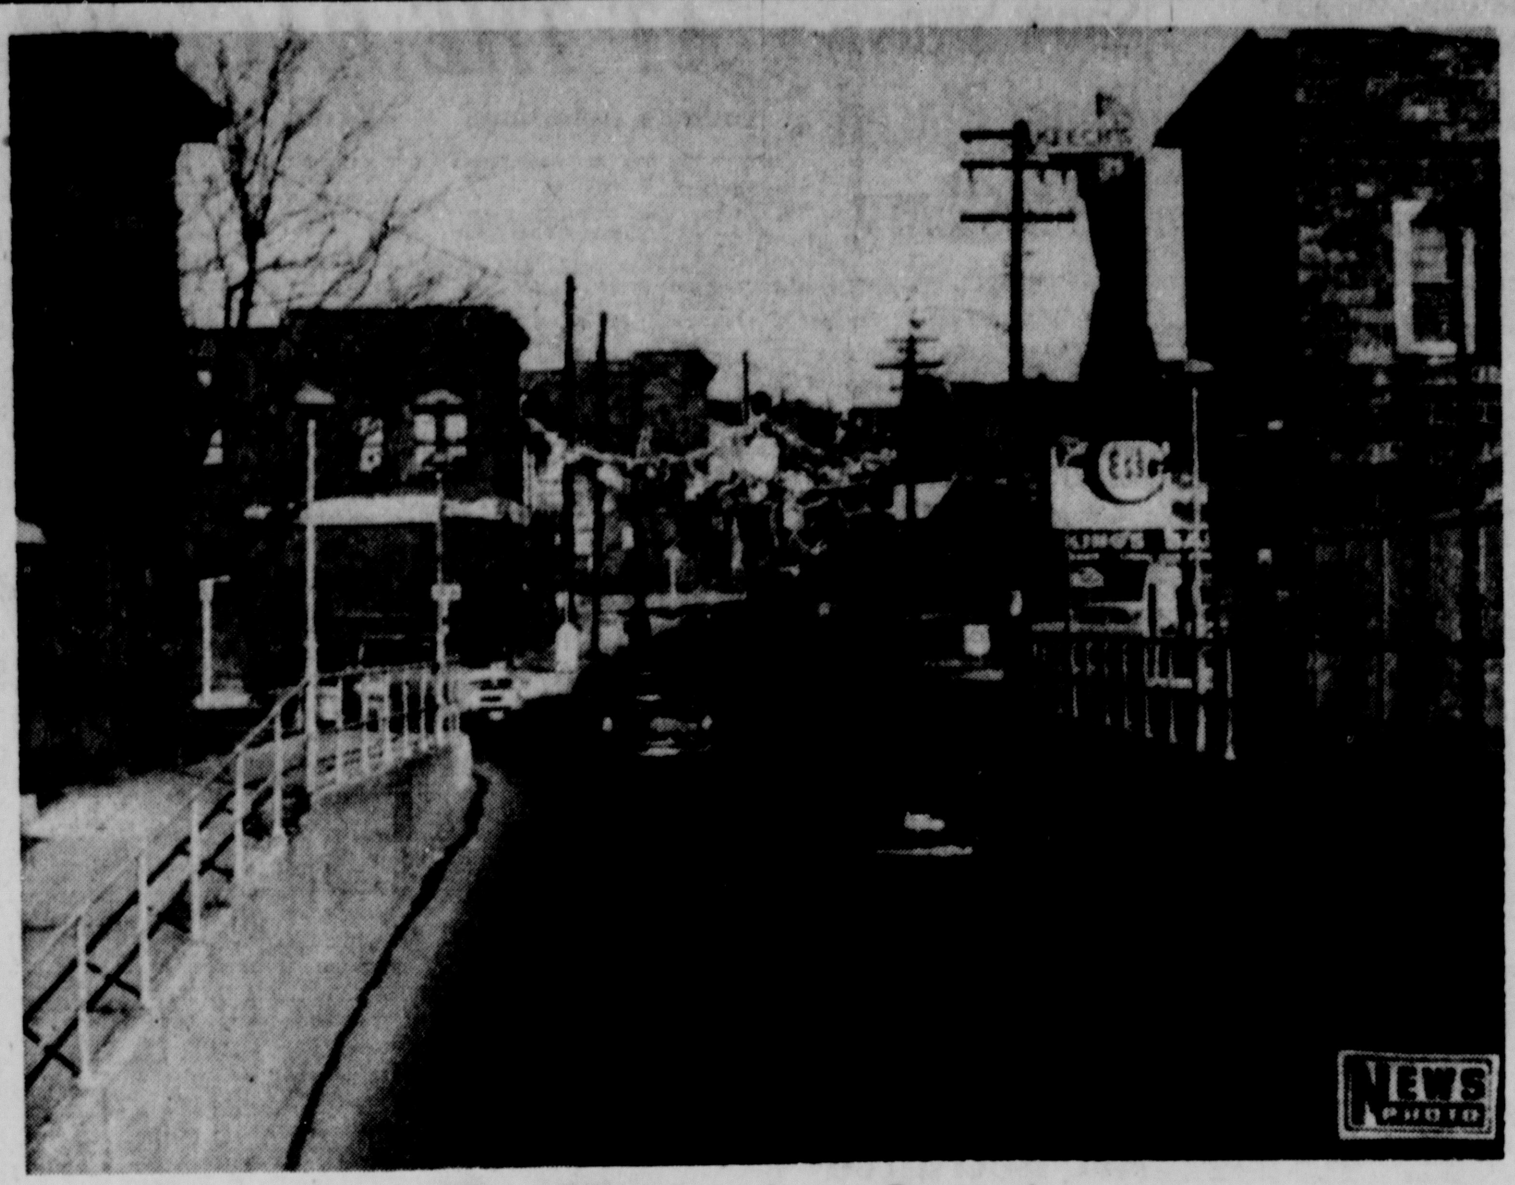
Office Space Again Rented By County

A lease for office space in the County Building on Union Street was approved yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The county leased the office space to the Maryland Veterans Commission for a rental fee of $360 a year.



Traffic Lights Sought

Taken from the Virginia Avenue subway, this photo shows the hazardous Laing and Fifth Avenue intersections. Officials of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association, told the Mayor and Council Monday that an adequate system of traffic lights is a "must" to protect motorists and pedestrians, especially children. City officials hope to have the State Roads Commission include traffic controls at the Industrial Boulevard intersection in its overall Thruway plans.

County Issues Fewer Permits For Building

20 Are Issued As Winter Nears

Amid signs of approaching winter, Allegany County building activity slackened off in November to its slowest pace since February as only 20 permits were issued at the Court House for construction which the builders estimate will cost a total of $127,225.

Both totals were below the November 1959 figures when 34 permits were issued for building estimated at $182,875.

With only one month remaining in 1960, some 383 building permits have been issued this year for construction adding up to $3,384,025. Although the number of permits is four below the 387 issued in the corresponding period a year ago, the total value is $847,765 ahead of the $2,536,260 added up in the first 11 months of 1959.

In February, the last month below the levels for November, only 13 permits were issued for working costing a total of $46,525.

Thirteen of the 20 permits issued in November by James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Board of County Commissioners, were for new dwellings. Two others were for garages and there also were one each for a church vestibule, club house, carport, addition to dwelling and workshop.

The November permits authorized construction in nine different election districts of the county. District 29 in LaVale was the leader with six permits. Districts 23, East Side suburban, and 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings, had three each. Districts 6, West Side suburban, and 21, East Side suburban, had two permits each last month. Districts 5, North End suburban; 9, Barton; 13, Mt. Savage, and 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville, had one permit each in November.

Viewers May Vote For Local Performers

The Dixettes, precision dancing pupils of Mrs. Verlys McPartland at Dixon Dance Studio here, will perform on the show, as will 11-year-old singer Sondra Rucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rucker of Green Ridge.

Officials of the CBS television program said post card balloting determines the winner of the competition each week. The address of the show is P.O. Box 191, Radio City Station, New York. No letters are accepted, and post cards must be received within three days after the show.

Use Of Labels To Speed Christmas Mail Handling

Those who do not have home deliveries may secure a supply of labels at their post office.

The labels read "All For Local Delivery" and "All For Out Of Town Delivery."

Letters and cards should be sorted and tied in separate bundles with the addresses facing one way, and include one of the labels which indicate whether the bundle is for local or out of town delivery.

Officials are recommending that packages, letters and cards for distant states should be mailed next week and that those for local delivery should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Speaking for Tri-State postmasters, Thomas F. Conlon, Cumberland postmaster, said service windows at most post offices are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and that additional window hours will be announced next week.

Use of appropriate labels is encouraged by the Post Office, as it aids mailmen to speed delivery of packages and warns them if fragile contents are being handled. The department, in a revised set of rules and regulations published in the Federal Register, suggests that glass, chinaware, electrical appliances, jewelry and musical instruments be marked "fragile" by the mailer.

Christmas Seal Campaign Lags With $8,240 Total

Contributions to the annual Christmas Seal Campaign are lagging behind figures for the same period last year, according to officials of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association.

Officials of the association report that $8,240.50 had been received up to and including yesterday, while $8,830.40 was received for the same period last year.

Some 24,561 letters were mailed out by the association last month and the association has received answers from 5,737 families.

A breakdown for the money received to date shows that residents of Allegany County have sent in $7,292.55 and $947.95 has been received from Garrett County.

Glenn K. Davis is chairman of the seal campaign which hopes to top the $18,200 received last year.

Money collected from the TB seal sale is used for the X-ray service, services and therapy to patients, education of the public and medical research.

Residents Of Romney Seek School Land

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education will make a pitch Wednesday for a $3.5 million increase in its budget.

The board's appearance before the State Board of Public Works (BPW) in behalf of a $13.5 million operating budget for the 1961-62 fiscal year will be part of a two-day meeting scheduled to end Thursday.

Before appearing before the BPW, the school board will receive a priority list of building needs for the nine state colleges under its jurisdiction. The Council of College Presidents this week recommended that some $30 million be spent on new building needs.

Representatives of the Bluefield Chamber of Commerce arranged for an appearance before the board Wednesday, but secretary H. K. Baer said he did not know the purpose of the visit.

On Thursday, Baer will present several special reports, including one comparing salaries paid faculty members of state-supported colleges with those in neighboring states.

The board also will hear from some Romney residents who want the state to turn over to the town some unused farm land now a part of the state Deaf and Blind School. The town wants to use the land for possible industrial development.

City Voting Rolls Drop

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland dropped 13 during November, decreasing the total to 9,390, according to a report prepared by Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

Only one new voter was placed on the books during the month while the names of 14 deceased voters were stricken from the rolls.

Pence Attends Convention

Robert E. Pence, Allegany County supervisor of physical education, is one of 300 city and county directors, supervisors and coordinators of health, physical education and recreation who will open a four-day convention in Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

The convention is sponsored by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a department of the National Education Association.

Topics scheduled for discussion at the conference include the improvement of secondary school health and physical education programs, the recruitment of qualified teachers and techniques for teaching large classes. Also included are such allied subjects as medical examinations for athletes and procedures for purchasing sports equipment.

The association has a membership of approximately 25,000 teachers and other specialists in the field.

Dr. Elmon Vernier, director of health, physical education, and recreation for the Baltimore public schools, is conference director.

Police Explain License Renewal

State Police at the LaVale Barracks yesterday began receiving numerous telephone calls concerning the new registration law for motor vehicle operators which will begin on January 1.

According to the new ruling by the State Department of Motor Vehicles, all licenses to operate motor vehicles in Maryland, except chauffeur's, shall expire every two years.

The Department of Motor Vehicles has started to send out renewal applications and this has caused many persons to call the State Police.

If you were born in January of an odd year, your license will expire on your birthday next January. If a person was born in January of an even year, his license will now expire in January 1962.

The state has begun the process of sending out these renewal applications, and it apparently has caused some confusion to motorists.

Flake Of Paint May Lead To Hit-Run Driver

Police Question Three Witnesses

A flake of paint from the car which struck and seriously injured Miss Marguerite C. Fahey, 447 Cumberland Street, late Thursday afternoon has been sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Captain James E. Van, Detective Bureau chief, said police expect the laboratory report to provide vital clues to the identity of the hit-run driver who continued on Cumberland Street toward the Dingle after the accident.

Miss Fahey, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and other injuries, was reported improving and in fair condition yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Police said the vehicle was described by witnesses as a 1953 Ford, painted Sea Haze green and with a white top. The hit-run vehicle was described as in good condition.

The car was driven, police were told, by a white male, about 20 years old, who was the sole occupant.

A saleswoman from the E. V. Coyle Furniture Company, Miss Fahey was injured about 5:05 p. m. on Cumberland Street near its intersection with Fayette Street as she was on her way from work to SS. Peter and Paul Church.

Sisk Will Probated In Court Here

The will of Carl M. Sisk, local service station operator, who died suddenly November 19, was probated yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mr. Sisk left his entire estate to his son, Ronald C. Sisk, who also qualified as executor under $500 bond. The will was dated May 10, 1960.

Disaster Unit Sets Up Three Shelter Areas

Beds To Be Moved From Old Armory

Beds stored in the old National Guard Armory will be moved next week to three shelter areas set up in the Disaster program of the Allegany County chapter of the American Red Cross.

The 70 folding cots, along with bedding, must be moved to new locations since the building has been sold.

Will Be Stored

Forty of the beds will be stored at Beth Jacob Synagogue, Columbia and Bedford streets. Another 20 will be taken to the Elks home here and the other 10 to the LaVale Fire Hall.

They were last used February 21 and 22 when they were set up for motorists who were stranded here when snow blocked Route 40 east and west of Cumberland.

Plans for moving the equipment to the new shelter areas are being made by Wallace G. Ullery, Disaster Committee chairman, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Plan Set Up

Beds and bedding are also stored at Grace Methodist Church, which has been designated as a housing shelter in the disaster plan.

St. John's Lutheran Church has been designated the canteen location to serve persons quartered at Grace Church, and Second Baptist Church is available as an additional shelter.

Beds and bedding are also stored at St. Mark's United Church of Christ. Kingsley Methodist Church would serve as the canteen area for those quartered at St. Mark's.

Plans have also been made to use Second Baptist Church as a shelter area if needed, and to base canteen services for it at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Taxpayers' Deadline Is Dec. 10

Must Apply For Exemption

Elderly Allegany County taxpayers with annual income of less than $1,200 have just one more week to apply for exemption from 1961 county real estate taxes, according to James G. Stevenson, clerk to the County Board of Commissioners.

Applications must be postmarked on or before midnight, Saturday, December 10.

This is the fourth year for persons over the age of 65 to have the opportunity of filing for county real estate tax exemption. This exemption first was authorized by House Bill 95, which appears as Chapter 63 of the 1957 Acts of the General Assembly.

That measure provided exemption for taxpayers above the age of 65 who had lived in Allegany County at least five years and had a total income of less than $100 per month from all sources. This bill, which became effective July 1, 1957, first affected the 1958 tax bills.

Loopholes in that 1957 legislation were plugged by House Bill 768, which became Chapter 502 of the 1959 Acts of the General Assembly.

This bill changed the income provision to $1,200 per year. It also provided that no exemption would be permitted where the aggregate income of all persons related to the elderly taxpayer and living on the premises exceeds $3,600.

The measure further was changed by limiting the exemption to the first $$3,500 of assessed valuation. Persons receiving public welfare assistance were made ineligible for the exemption because the state provides the necessary funds to pay the county taxes of persons in such a situation.

Local Man Hurt By Gun Blast

Robert Kasecamp Admitted To Hospital

A 23-year-old local man sustained facial injuries last night when a rifle shell exploded in his face.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital was Robert Kasecamp of 8 Hill Street. He was reported in "fair" condition last night.

Mr. Kasecamp told hospital attendants he was attempting to adjust the sights on a rifle when a shell in the chamber exploded.

He suffered several lacerations and burns about the face and eye.

Also admitted to Memorial last night was Mrs. Alice Deal, who was injured in a fall at her home in LaVale.

Mrs. Deal, who resides at 284 National Highway, sustained a fractured hip in the accident.

Board To Inspect Site Of Proposed Used Car Lot

Richard R. Gulick, 750 Greene Street, recently applied for a permit to establish a used car lot at 744-750 Greene Street.

Under a recently adopted ordinance, the commission must examine the property and neighborhood and later hold a public hearing before recommending to the Mayor and Council that such a permit be issued.

Glass Truck Crashes, Burns

A Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company truck crashed and burned yesterday morning on the Bedford Road, tieing up traffic for over six hours. The vehicle overturned when the load of plate glass shifted as the truck was in the vicinity of the Pea Vine Run. Maurice L. Diggs, RFD 3, driver of the truck, climbed out of the wreckage before it caught fire. The picture was taken by Raymond Beck, 103 Decatur Street.

Truck Loaded With Glass Crashes, Burns

Driver Escapes In $25,000 Wreck

A tractor-trailer loaded with plate glass from the local Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant overturned and burned yesterday morning on the Bedford Road, causing $25,000 in damages.

The accident occurred at Pea Vine Run, several miles north of the city limits on U.S. Route 220.

The operator of the vehicle, Maurice L. Diggs, of RFD 3, city, escaped serious injury when he was able to climb out of the smashed truck before the gas tanks caught fire.

Mr Diggs told State Police the load shifted on the glass carrier, causing it to overturn on the edge of the highway. The truck was headed north when it crashed.

The driver said he was able to get out of the vehicle through the windshield which was broken when the truck crashed. Mr. Diggs sustained lacerations of the face and was treated and released at Memorial Hospital.

Police said the area was littered with broken glass and only one-way traffic was permitted at the site until 5:30 p.m. A payloader had to be called to the scene of the crash to help scoop up the glass.

The accident occurred several hundred yards from the Bedford Road Fire Hall, but by the time firemen arrived at the scene the vehicle was engulfed in flames.

Bedford Road Fire Company responded with three pieces of equipment and seven men, but the fire which started in the saddle tanks destroyed the truck.

Investigating for the State Police were Troopers C. Richard Mauzy, Richard J. Graham and Joseph W. Lechliter.

Plan Advanced For Greater Representation

More Md. Delegates, Senators Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposal to eventually add 27 delegates and 21 senators to the Legislature has been drafted by a unit of the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation.

The plan is the most far-reaching of any drawn up for possible submission to the legislature meeting in Annapolis next month. Proposed by the legislative subcommittee of the fair-representation group, it will be processed by the full committee within a few days.

Under the proposal small counties would retain at least the one senator and two delegates they now have, but 29 additional delegates and 14 senators would be assigned to Baltimore City and the four big counties — Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Prince Georges and Montgomery.

A striking feature of the plan, however, is a provision to set up senatorial districts of several smaller counties and have one senator - at - large from each of them, in addition to the present one-senator-per-county setup.

The districts would be composed of Allegany and Garrett Counties; Harford and Cecil; Frederick, Carroll and Howard; Charles, Calvert and St. Marys; Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset; and Kent, Queen Annes, Talbot, Caroline and Dorchester.

Besides the six districts, the subcommitte suggested the possibility of a second senator for Washington County.

The metropolitan area additions would include six new senators for Baltimore City, three for Baltimore County, two each for Prince Georges and Montgomery and one for Anne Arundel.

Royce Hanson, executive vice president of the fair-representation group, said he expects the full committee to adopt the proposal.

Hanson noted the committee has brought court action to force the Legislature to reapportion the legislature, which now gives smaller counties the lion's share of 123 seats in the House and 29 in the Senate.

"If we get a favorable ruling," said Hanson, "the State would have to take more drastic action which would not offer the advantages to the small counties that this plan does."

Committee officials are also closely watching a case before the Supreme Court, which has agreed to review a reapportionment suit from Tennessee.

Gov. Tawes has indicated he again will support a less dramatic reapportionment plan to give additional senate seats only to the city and four metropolitan area counties. A similar plan was defeated in the 1959 legislature.

Use Of Labels To Speed Christmas Mail Handling

Free labels designed to help speed the handling of Christmas mail were delivered this week by postmen in most communities in the Tri-State area.

The labels read "All For Local Delivery" and "All For Out Of Town Delivery."

Letters and cards should be sorted and tied in separate bundles with the addresses facing one way, and include one of the labels which indicate whether the bundle is for local or out of town delivery.

Officials are recommending that packages, letters and cards for distant states should be mailed next week and that those for local delivery should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Speaking for Tri-State postmasters, Thomas F. Conlon, Cumberland postmaster, said service windows at most post offices are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and that additional window hours will be announced next week.

Use of appropriate labels is encouraged by the Post Office, as it aids mailmen to speed delivery of packages and warns them if fragile contents are being handled. The department, in a revised set of rules and regulations published in the Federal Register, suggests that glass, chinaware, electrical appliances, jewelry and musical instruments be marked "fragile" by the mailer.

Viewers May Vote For Local Performers

The Cumberland area will have two entries in competition on the "Ted Mack and the Original Amateur Hour" television show tomorrow.

The Dixettes, precision dancing pupils of Mrs. Verlys McPartland at Dixon Dance Studio here, will perform on the show, as will 11-year-old singer Sondra Rucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rucker of Green Ridge.

Officials of the CBS television program said post card balloting determines the winner of the competition each week. The address of the show is P.O. Box 191, Radio City Station, New York. No letters are accepted, and post cards must be received within three days after the show.

Christmas Seal Campaign Lags With $8,240 Total

Contributions to the annual Christmas Seal Campaign are lagging behind figures for the same period last year, according to officials of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association.

Officials of the association report that $8,240.50 had been received up to and including yesterday, while $8,830.40 was received for the same period last year.

Some 24,561 letters were mailed out by the association last month and the association has received answers from 5,737 families.

A breakdown for the money received to date shows that residents of Allegany County have sent in $7,292.55 and $947.95 has been received from Garrett County.

Glenn K. Davis is chairman of the seal campaign which hopes to top the $18,200 received last year.

Money collected from the TB seal sale is used for the X-ray service, services and therapy to patients, education of the public and medical research.

Residents Of Romney Seek School Land

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education will make a pitch Wednesday for a $3.5 million increase in its budget.

The board's appearance before the State Board of Public Works (BPW) in behalf of a $13.5 million operating budget for the 1961-62 fiscal year will be part of a two-day meeting scheduled to end Thursday.

Before appearing before the BPW, the school board will receive a priority list of building needs for the nine state colleges under its jurisdiction. The Council of College Presidents this week recommended that some $30 million be spent on new building needs.

Representatives of the Bluefield Chamber of Commerce arranged for an appearance before the board Wednesday, but secretary H. K. Baer said he did not know the purpose of the visit.

On Thursday, Baer will present several special reports, including one comparing salaries paid faculty members of state-supported colleges with those in neighboring states.

The board also will hear from some Romney residents who want the state to turn over to the town some unused farm land now a part of the state Deaf and Blind School. The town wants to use the land for possible industrial development.

City Voting Rolls Drop

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland dropped 13 during November, decreasing the total to 9,390, according to a report prepared by Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

Only one new voter was placed on the books during the month while the names of 14 deceased voters were stricken from the rolls.

Pence Attends Convention

Robert E. Pence, Allegany County supervisor of physical education, is one of 300 city and county directors, supervisors and coordinators of health, physical education and recreation who will open a four-day convention in Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

The convention is sponsored by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a department of the National Education Association.

Topics scheduled for discussion at the conference include the improvement of secondary school health and physical education programs, the recruitment of qualified teachers and techniques for teaching large classes. Also included are such allied subjects as medical examinations for athletes and procedures for purchasing sports equipment.

The association has a membership of approximately 25,000 teachers and other specialists in the field.

Dr. Elmon Vernier, director of health, physical education, and recreation for the Baltimore public schools, is conference director.

Police Explain License Renewal

State Police at the LaVale Barracks yesterday began receiving numerous telephone calls concerning the new registration law for motor vehicle operators which will begin on January 1.

According to the new ruling by the State Department of Motor Vehicles, all licenses to operate motor vehicles in Maryland, except chauffeur's, shall expire every two years.

The Department of Motor Vehicles has started to send out renewal applications and this has caused many persons to call the State Police.

If you were born in January of an odd year, your license will expire on your birthday next January. If a person was born in January of an even year, his license will now expire in January 1962.

The state has begun the process of sending out these renewal applications, and it apparently has caused some confusion to motorists.

To Hold Dance Tonight

Flake Of Paint May Lead To Hit-Run Driver

Police Question Three Witnesses

A flake of paint from the car which struck and seriously injured Miss Marguerite C. Fahey, 447 Cumberland Street, late Thursday afternoon has been sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Captain James E. Van, Detective Bureau chief, said police expect the laboratory report to provide vital clues to the identity of the hit-run driver who continued on Cumberland Street toward the Dingle after the accident.

Miss Fahey, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and other injuries, was reported improving and in fair condition yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital.

City police so far have found three eye-witnesses to the accident.

Police said the vehicle was described by witnesses as a 1953 Ford, painted Sea Haze green and with a white top. The hit-run vehicle was described as in good condition.

The car was driven, police were told, by a white male, about 20 years old, who was the sole occupant.

A saleswoman from the E. V. Coyle Furniture Company, Miss Fahey was injured about 5:05 p. m. on Cumberland Street near its intersection with Fayette Street as she was on her way from work to SS. Peter and Paul Church.

Sisk Will Probated In Court Here

The will of Carl M. Sisk, local service station operator, who died suddenly November 19, was probated yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mr. Sisk left his entire estate to his son, Ronald C. Sisk, who also qualified as executor under $500 bond. The will was dated May 10, 1960.

Disaster Unit Sets Up Three Shelter Areas

Beds To Be Moved From Old Armory

Beds stored in the old National Guard Armory will be moved next week to three shelter areas set up in the Disaster program of the Allegany County chapter of the American Red Cross.

The 70 folding cots, along with bedding, must be moved to new locations since the building has been sold.

Will Be Stored

Forty of the beds will be stored at Beth Jacob Synagogue, Columbia and Bedford streets. Another 20 will be taken to the Elks home here and the other 10 to the LaVale Fire Hall.

The beds have been stored in the old Armory since last April.

They were last used February 21 and 22 when they were set up for motorists who were stranded here when snow blocked Route 40 east and west of Cumberland.

Plans for moving the equipment to the new shelter areas are being made by Wallace G. Ullery, Disaster Committee chairman, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Plan Set Up

Beds and bedding are also stored at Grace Methodist Church, which has been designated as a housing shelter in the disaster plan.

St. John's Lutheran Church has been designated the canteen location to serve persons quartered at Grace Church, and Second Baptist Church is available as an additional shelter.

Beds and bedding are also stored at St. Mark's United Church of Christ. Kingsley Methodist Church would serve as the canteen area for those quartered at St. Mark's.

Plans have also been made to use Second Baptist Church as a shelter area if needed, and to base canteen services for it at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Today's TV Section Offers Martin Feature

Taxpayers' Deadline Is Dec. 10

Must Apply For Exemption

Elderly Allegany County taxpayers with annual income of less than $1,200 have just one more week to apply for exemption from 1961 county real estate taxes, according to James G. Stevenson, clerk to the County Board of Commissioners.

Applications must be postmarked on or before midnight, Saturday, December 10.

This is the fourth year for persons over the age of 65 to have the opportunity of filing for county real estate tax exemption. This exemption first was authorized by House Bill 95, which appears as Chapter 63 of the 1957 Acts of the General Assembly.

That measure provided exemption for taxpayers above the age of 65 who had lived in Allegany County at least five years and had a total income of less than $100 per month from all sources. This bill, which became effective July 1, 1957, first affected the 1958 tax bills.

Loopholes in that 1957 legislation were plugged by House Bill 768, which became Chapter 502 of the 1959 Acts of the General Assembly.

This bill changed the income provision to $1,200 per year. It also provided that no exemption would be permitted where the aggregate income of all persons related to the elderly taxpayer and living on the premises exceeds $3,600.

The measure further was changed by limiting the exemption to the first $$3,500 of assessed valuation. Persons receiving public welfare assistance were made ineligible for the exemption because the state provides the necessary funds to pay the county taxes of persons in such a situation.

Local Man Hurt By Gun Blast

Robert Kasecamp Admitted To Hospital

A 23-year-old local man sustained facial injuries last night when a rifle shell exploded in his face.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital was Robert Kasecamp of 8 Hill Street. He was reported in "fair" condition last night.

Mr. Kasecamp told hospital attendants he was attempting to adjust the sights on a rifle when a shell in the chamber exploded.

He suffered several lacerations and burns about the face and eye.

Also admitted to Memorial last night was Mrs. Alice Deal, who was injured in a fall at her home in LaVale.

Mrs. Deal, who resides at 284 National Highway, sustained a fractured hip in the accident.

Board To Inspect Site Of Proposed Used Car Lot

Under a recently adopted ordinance, the commission must examine the property and neighborhood and later hold a public hearing before recommending to the Mayor and Council that such a permit be issued.

Truck Loaded With Glass Crashes, Burns

Driver Escapes In $25,000 Wreck

A tractor-trailer loaded with plate glass from the local Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant overturned and burned yesterday morning on the Bedford Road, causing $25,000 in damages.

The accident occurred at Pea Vine Run, several miles north of the city limits on U.S. Route 220.

The operator of the vehicle, Maurice L. Diggs, of RFD 3, city, escaped serious injury when he was able to climb out of the smashed truck before the gas tanks caught fire.

Mr Diggs told State Police the load shifted on the glass carrier, causing it to overturn on the edge of the highway. The truck was headed north when it crashed.

The driver said he was able to get out of the vehicle through the windshield which was broken when the truck crashed. Mr. Diggs sustained lacerations of the face and was treated and released at Memorial Hospital.

Police said the area was littered with broken glass and only one-way traffic was permitted at the site until 5:30 p.m. A payloader had to be called to the scene of the crash to help scoop up the glass.

The accident occurred several hundred yards from the Bedford Road Fire Hall, but by the time firemen arrived at the scene the vehicle was engulfed in flames.

Bedford Road Fire Company responded with three pieces of equipment and seven men, but the fire which started in the saddle tanks destroyed the truck.

Investigating for the State Police were Troopers C. Richard Mauzy, Richard J. Graham and Joseph W. Lechliter.

Plan Advanced For Greater Representation

More Md. Delegates, Senators Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposal to eventually add 27 delegates and 21 senators to the Legislature has been drafted by a unit of the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation.

The plan is the most far-reaching of any drawn up for possible submission to the legislature meeting in Annapolis next month. Proposed by the legislative subcommittee of the fair-representation group, it will be processed by the full committee within a few days.

Under the proposal small counties would retain at least the one senator and two delegates they now have, but 29 additional delegates and 14 senators would be assigned to Baltimore City and the four big counties — Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Prince Georges and Montgomery.

A striking feature of the plan, however, is a provision to set up senatorial districts of several smaller counties and have one senator - at - large from each of them, in addition to the present one-senator-per-county setup.

The districts would be composed of Allegany and Garrett Counties; Harford and Cecil; Frederick, Carroll and Howard; Charles, Calvert and St. Marys; Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset; and Kent, Queen Annes, Talbot, Caroline and Dorchester.

Besides the six districts, the subcommitte suggested the possibility of a second senator for Washington County.

The metropolitan area additions would include six new senators for Baltimore City, three for Baltimore County, two each for Prince Georges and Montgomery and one for Anne Arundel.

Royce Hanson, executive vice president of the fair-representation group, said he expects the full committee to adopt the proposal.

Hanson noted the committee has brought court action to force the Legislature to reapportion the legislature, which now gives smaller counties the lion's share of 123 seats in the House and 29 in the Senate.

"If we get a favorable ruling," said Hanson, "the State would have to take more drastic action which would not offer the advantages to the small counties that this plan does."

Committee officials are also closely watching a case before the Supreme Court, which has agreed to review a reapportionment suit from Tennessee.

Gov. Tawes has indicated he again will support a less dramatic reapportionment plan to give additional senate seats only to the city and four metropolitan area counties. A similar plan was defeated in the 1959 legislature.

Glass Truck Crashes, Burns

A Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company truck crashed and burned yesterday morning on the Bedford Road, tieing up traffic for over six hours. The vehicle overturned when the load of plate glass shifted as the truck was in the vicinity of the Pea Vine Run. Maurice L. Diggs, RFD 3, driver of the truck, climbed out of the wreckage before it caught fire. The picture was taken by Raymond Beck, 103 Decatur Street.

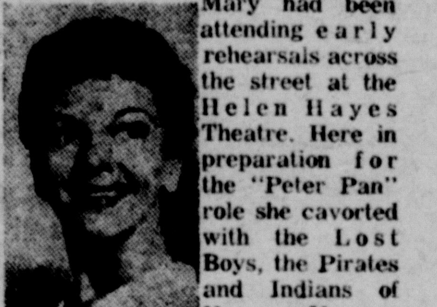
Mary Martin Returns In Peter Pan Role

By PAUL GERARD

If inexhaustible energy is one of the prime requirements for a successful acting career, Mary Martin has more than proved it. For its third viewing, Sir James Barrie's classic "Peter Pan" returns to television Thursday (7:30-9:30 p. m.) with Mary Martin recreating her famous role.



Mary Martin

As if her appearing at the Lunt and Fontanne Theatre six nights and two matinees weekly in "The Sound Of Music" were not enough, Mary had been attending early rehearsals across the street at the Helen Hayes Theatre. Here in preparation for the "Peter Pan" role she cavorted with the Lost Boys, the Pirates and Indians of Never Never Land.

At 7 o'clock she left "Peter Pan" temporarily and scurried across the street to her dressing room in the Lunt and Fontanne where dinner was brought to her from a nearby restaurant.

Starting in early November when the taping of the show began, the schedule became even more hectic. Mary had to travel ten blocks to the Ziegfeld Theatre where the taping of the first act was done. Later on, the daily trips were made to Brooklyn, more than an hour from Times Square, where at NBC-TV's two color studios the second and third acts were taped.

Despite this busy schedule, Mary found time the last week in October to give a party for her friends and their children at the Helen Hayes Theatre.

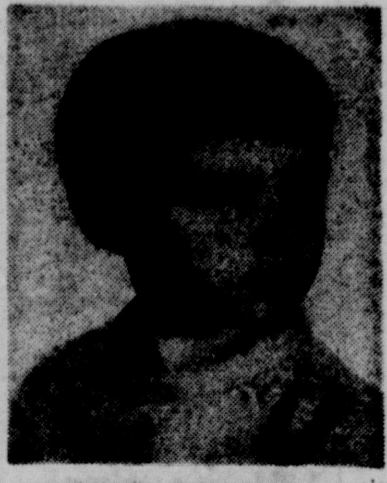
Mary claims that it is not so much a question of energy that keeps her going at such a terrific pace; but rather, a great love of her work and the fact that she enjoys every moment of her day.

To her associates, this boundless energy is taken almost for granted. As any one who is familiar with her life and career knows, Mary has been this way since she attended her first dancing school in Weatherford, Tex. Trained as a dancer, it wasn't long before Mary managed prosperous dancing schools in her native heath before trying the toughest school of all—Broadway.

With just one song—"My Heart Belongs To Daddy"—which she sang in Cole Porter's "Leave It To Me," Mary Martin became a sensation overnight. She has been that, and more, ever since. Hollywood immediately tapped her for 11 films, during which period she also made 24 recordings and did two years of radio broadcasting with Bing Crosby.

But it has been on the musical stage that Miss Martin has realized her happiest triumphs in such productions as "One Touch Of Venus," "Lute Song," "Annie, Get Your Gun," "South Pacific," and now, Mary's most heartfelt wish come true for the third time, "Peter Pan."

Producers have been able, despite obstacles, to reassemble most of Miss Martin's original "Peter Pan" company for the colorcast. Cyril Ritchard will star as Captain Hook; Margalo Gillmore will return as Mr. Darling, Sondra Lee as Tiger Lily, Joe E. Marks as the pirate Smee, Peggy Maurer as the grown-up Wendy and Norman Shelloy as the dog Nana.



ON MACK SHOW—Sondra Rucker, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rucker, Green Ridge, will appear tomorrow on the Amateur Hour (CBS, Channels 9-10). Dixettes, local dance group, will also appear.
